Czech Nazis Reject Offer To Negotiate After Rioting

Say Attacks 'Permitted' by Prague Prevent Parley on Rights.

Emergency Call Issued to Cabinet

Sudetens Assail Curb on Press, Assembly as Elections Near.

In Troubled Europe.

Sudeten Germans refused to negotiate on a minority statute as riots spread. The Czechoslovakian cabinet was called in emergency session.

Czech Offer Rejected.

By the United Press.

Prague, May 20.—The cabinet was summoned in extraordinary session tonight after the Sudeten German party, charging the government with permitting "guerrilla warfare" throughout the country, served notice of its refusal to negotiate on a minority statute.

The Sudeten party's political committee issued a manifesto, as rioting between Czechs and Germans spread over wide areas, saying there could be no conciliation until the safety and constitutional rights of the 3,500,000 Sudetens are guaranteed.

The manifesto was issued following bloody clashes in a dozen towns, involving Czechs, Sudetens, soldiers and police, and only a few hours after Premier Milan Hodza announced formally the government's minority statute to be announced soon "will not be the last word but rather a basis of negotiation."

Election Stirs Feeling.

Feeling among the Nazi followers of Konrad Henlein and Czech nationalists was at high pitch as they worked to pull their maximum strength for the start on Sunday of a series of about 11,000 municipal elections.

The Sudetens are expected to use the elections as a sort of "plebiscite" for the broad autonomy demands.

Rioting occurred in Prague, at Chdau, Sternberg, Komotau and Bruenn today and there were clashes in other towns, mostly in the Sudeten areas of Bohemia.

Charge Freedom Curbed.

The Sudeten party, in its communique, said "Socialists, Communists and united Czech elements are provoking and attacking Sudeten Germans in unheard of fashion so that even the life and limb of individual Germans is endangered."

The Sudeten leaders said the Prague government's stiff censorship made it impossible for German papers to publish details of the incidents while "the electoral propaganda of the Marxists and Czechs is unhampered."

The Sudeten political committee said it had called Hodza's attention to "the possible grave consequences of methodical procedure against the Sudeten Germans" and notified the premier that "the Sudeten German party is not in a position to take part in conversations on the cabinet's statute as long as peace and order as well as the basic constitutional rights of freedom of opinion, press and assembly are not guaranteed to Sudeten Germans."

British Held Seeking U. S. Aid in China

By the United Press.

Shanghai (Saturday), May 21.—Reports were circulated here today that Great Britain and France are attempting to induce the United States to join them in a three-power intervention in the Chinese-Japanese war.

Intervention would be designed to forestall the impending Japanese drive on Hankow and end the undeclared conflict on a basis which would preserve the integrity of the present Chinese Popular Front government headed by Gen. Chiang Kai-shek.

The reports could not be confirmed but many observers were inclined to believe they had a basis of truth and that an action similar to the famous triple intervention by Russia, France and Germany, following Japan's victory in the Chinese-Japanese War of 1896, was impending. This intervention forced Japan out of South Manchuria and was a cause of the Russo-Japanese War of 1905. Object of the present move would be to force Japan out

British Steamship Reported Bombed Off Spanish Coast

Madrid, May 20 (U.P.).—It was reported tonight that the British steamship Arnold, of London, was bombed and machine-gunned by aircraft off Cullera on the Mediterranean coast north of Valencia.

Six insurgent warplanes dropped 20 bombs in the vicinity of El Grau and Valencia, but there were no casualties.

[Neither the British admiralty nor Lloyds had received the report in London, the Associated Press said. Lloyds' register does not list a British steamer named Arnold, but it was pointed out Spanish blockade runners frequently change their names and nationalities. Lloyds lists a steamer Arnold, of Haren, Germany, and an Arnold Bennett, of Hull, England.—Editor's note.]

Hess Leading Governor in Oregon Vote

Candidate Claiming New Deal Backing Takes Narrow Margin.

Mahoney Slightly Ahead in Democrat Race for Senate.

By the Associated Press.

Portland, Ore., May 20.—Henry L. Hess, of La Grande, who claimed Administration backing, forged ahead of Gov. Charles H. Martin, 74-year-old executive again seeking the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, as returns mounted tonight from Oregon's primary election.

Gov. Martin, frequent critic of some New Deal figures, took an initial two-to-one lead over Hess but quickly lost the advantage, and in returns from 423 of the State's 1,681 precincts Hess led 11,264 to 9,510.

A majority of the precincts reporting early were in Multnomah County, which includes Portland. This county was regarded as Hess' stronghold, since it contains most of the industrial towns where Martin's law and order platform has been opposed.

Martin Vote Delayed.

Gov. Martin was expected to develop most of his strength in the farming districts.

Charles Sprague polled 792 votes, Charles Paine 62 vote, and Sam Brown 186 votes in the Republican contest for the nomination as Governor, in 16 scattered precincts.

Representative James Mott, seeking Republican renomination from the first district, led Walter Norblad of Astoria, 2,640 to 776 in early returns, and in the second district Representative Walter M. Pierce had a lead of 846 to 533 over Wade Crawford of Klamath County.

Nan Honeyman Safe.

Oregon's first woman representative, Nan Wood Honeyman, of Portland, held a 3-to-1 lead over her nearest opponent for the Democratic nomination in the third district. In 242 precincts of 438 in the district she polled 6,999 votes to 2,177 for William J. Predergast, jr., of Portland.

Willis E. Mahoney, of Klamath Falls, led Karl Donaugh, of Portland, 9,270 to 5,330, in returns from 310 precincts for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator.

In the same number of precincts, Rufus Holman, State treasurer, led Robert N. Stanfield, former Senator, 12,393 to 4,827, in the Republican race.

Hess "New Dealer."

Sharply debated questions of labor and New Deal influence, tinged with national significance, drew farmers, businessmen and workers in unusual numbers to the polls.

The Governor, recalling the struggle between the C. I. O. and the A. F. of L. for control of the vast Oregon sawmill industry, had closed his campaign with a plea for "law and order."

He had led a month-long drive against labor violence, directing criticism at the National Relations Board, Secretary of Labor Perkins and union leaders. In the end he described Hess, a former State Senator, as "a John L. Lewis candidate."

Hess, although lacking an official sanction by President Roosevelt, claimed New Deal indorsement. He had the support of Senator George W. Norris (Independent), Nebraska, who urged farmers to repudiate Martin, and a letter from Secretary Ickes, who described Gov. Martin as "no New Dealer." A statement claiming Mr. Roosevelt's support for Martin had been repudiated at the White House.

Charging U. S. Bows to Britain, Nye to Renew Arms Ban Fight

Senator Nye (Republican), of North Dakota, author of the shelved resolution to lift this country's embargo on arms to Spain, last night charged the State Department is following a "policy of coming to heel like a well-trained dog every time England whistles."

Declaring the State Department "has neither guessed right nor acted wisely" in the Spanish Civil War, he said the Senate Foreign Relations committee next week will reconsider its action side-tracking his resolution and he would appear before the committee in defense of the measure. The shelving took place after Secretary of State Hull opposed passage of the resolution.

"It is developed now," Nye said in an address over the National Broadcasting System, "that the State Department has made the American people the ally of Germany and Italy and the most reactionary government England has had in years."

He charged the British-French Non-Intervention Committee with a "betrayal of confidence" in shutting off aid to the Spanish government while allowing German and Italian soldiers and munitions to enter Spain on behalf of the insurgents. "But a more unsightly picture," he added, "is that of Uncle Sam participating in the non-intervention effort and countenancing the betrayal without a word of protest."

The State Department was accused of conducting, last year, "a great propaganda campaign to cause Congress to follow where England seemed to be leading." There followed the extension of the neutrality act to apply to civil wars.

But, Nye continued, "the foreign powers only promised to act while we acted. Instead of giving both sides a break, the foreign cooperators gave the anti-government

Langdon's Acquittal Denied as U. S. Rests

Prisoner's Wife Kept Off Stand; Cartridge in Case Missing.

By Howard F. Wentworth.

Battered by a day of major setbacks, the prosecution of Robert F. Langdon for the 8-year-old murder of Beulah Limerick ended abruptly in District Court late yesterday when the Government rested its case.

The defense scored an early victory as Justice Daniel O'Donoghue refused to allow the testimony of Mrs. Rose V. Langdon, wife of the accused former policeman and key witness for the Government.

Hardly had Prosecutor John Wilson announced "the Government rests," when Russell Kelly, chief defense counsel, was on his feet to move for a directed verdict of acquittal. Following a lengthy conference at the bench of Justice O'Donoghue, the motion was overruled.

Adjourns Until Monday.

The justice ordered an adjournment until 10 a. m. Monday, when the defense will open its case.

Wilson concluded the prosecution with testimony by Lieut. John Fowler, police expert on ballistics. Fowler offered the opinion that the bullet taken from Beulah's head and the slug found embedded in the floor of

Sumners Withholds Forecast on When Committee Will Take Action.

By Edward T. Folliard

The House Judiciary Committee yesterday brought to a close its three-day hearing on District suffrage, after proponents and opponents had loaded the record with their arguments.

Urging the committee to make a favorable report, the proponents argued that Washingtonians were entitled to a vote as a fundamental American right; that taxation without representation still is tyranny; that the April 30 plebiscite here demonstrated overwhelming sentiment for suffrage; that the Founding Fathers never intended that local residents should be denied the vote, and that a grant of suffrage here would be a blow to the spread of the Fascist "ideal."

Asking the committee to turn down the suffrage plea, opponents contended that the Founding Fathers, having seen the Continental Congress chased out of Philadelphia, well knew what they were doing when they gave Congress "exclusive" legislative power over the new Federal City; that the re-

Thomas Muzzled Again in Jersey to Prevent 'Rioting'

Jersey City, N. J., May 20 (A.P.).—Public Safety Director Daniel Casey tonight denied another application by Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, for a permit to make an open-air speech in Jersey City.

Casey wrote the national chairman of the Socialist Party:

"The demonstrations of our citizens . . . convince me that to grant (the application) will lead to serious disturbance and disorderly assemblage, inevitably resulting in riot."

Missing 'Slayer's' Affidavit Aids Kin

Philadelphia, May 20 (A.P.).—Edward Haislip today failed to surrender in a slaying as he promised in a statement filed in court, but his sister, convicted of the husband-stabbing his affidavit admitted, won a hearing for a new trial.

Haislip's attorney — T. Edward O'Connell, of Washington—and Herman Steerman, counsel for the sister, Mrs. Mary Roche, now in prison, convicted of voluntary manslaughter, indicated Haislip would appear in court at the sister's hearing for a new trial Friday.

Thaw Battles Man WhoHeld Him Mad

New York, May 20 (A.P.).—Harry K. Thaw, white-haired but looking trim, sat in Federal court today watching selection of a jury to try an alienist's $10,000 suit for a 30-year old medical bill.

Dr. Smith Ely Jelliffee sued contending his testimony at Thaw's murder trial in 1908 helped convince the jury that Thaw was insane when he shot and killed Stanford White in the old Madison Square Garden.

Jackson Asks For Review of Stockyard Suit

Reversal of Former Ruling Basis of Request to Supreme Court.

By the Associated Press.

Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson told the Supreme Court yesterday that it had reversed itself in the recent Kansas City stockyard case and should grant a rehearing.

He thus joined Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in challenging the April 25 decision which invalidated a Wallace order reducing charges of certain commission men at the stockyards. The decision had said the commission men were not given proper opportunity to rebut findings of Agriculture Department agents.

Wallace, in a series of statements, has said the procedure condemned was inherited from the previous Administration and has been abandoned since the stockyard order was issued.

Jackson said the court ruled two years ago in the same Kansas City case that the procedure was of no significance but now holds that it is "fatally defective."

"We do not here question the power of the court to reverse its previous decision if it considers it

Hayes Gives Bail In Connecticut's Conspiracy Case

Waterbury, Conn., May 20 (A.P.).—Lieut. Gov. Frank Hayes, facing a grand jury's accusation he and 26 others conspired to defraud the city of Waterbury of "sums of money in excess of a million dollars," posted $25,000 bail today pending his trial on a charge of conspiracy.

Later, Daniel J. Leary, former city comptroller and political ally of Hayes, surrendered at the county courthouse and posted $25,000 bond.

Naval Yard Funds Asked By Roosevelt

Dirigible, 9 Planes, 12 Ships, Mosquito Boats Urged to Congress.

President Roosevelt yesterday asked Congress to appropriate $23,875,000 to begin construction of a dirigible, a dozen new naval vessels, a "mosquito fleet" and nine naval planes, and for improvements at three navy yards.

The sum was asked for immediately to start the powerful fleet authorized in the naval expansion bill.

Included in the requests for additional shore facilities was a provision of $1,400,000 for a gun assembly building and accessories as well as $365,000 for an ordnance storehouse and accessories at the navy yard here.

Planes of New Type.

In his letter to Speaker Bankhead the President asked $16,500,000 for ships, $3,375,000 for airplanes, $500,000 for the dirigible and $3,500,000 for the navy yards.

The appropriation asked yesterday, if approved by the House Appropriations committee, would be included in the pending Second Deficiency bill.

The nine new airplanes are to be of the four-engine patrol type and will give the sea service a full operating squadron of these aircraft for testing. The four-engine craft are said by experts to be an immense improvement over the two-engine type.

The naval vessels include an aircraft carrier, two light cruisers, a destroyer tender, one large and two small seaplane tenders, two oil tankers, a mine layer, a mine sweeper, two fleet tugs and an unannounced number of small experimental vessels for the mosquito fleet.

"Sky Carrier" Asked.

The aircraft carrier—the seventh ship of its type either in the fleet or under construction—cannot be laid down before 1939, Chairman Vinson of the House Naval Affairs Committee said yesterday. Money appropriated before Congress adjourns, however, would allow the Navy to perfect specifications and order materials.

The airship would be the first constructed since the Macon and Akron, which fell into the Pacific and Atlantic oceans, respectively. Some naval experts have indicated they want to test the possibility of using a dirigible as an aircraft carrier of the skies. Assistant Secretary of the Navy Edison has been consistently in favor of building a new lighter-than-air craft.

The President also recommended in his letter $1,800,000 for a machine shop and accessories and $175,000 for a paint shop building and accessories at the Mare Island, Calif., Navy Yard.

He also asked $630,000 for a structural assembly shop building and accessories, $750,000 for a pipe and cooper shop building and $120,000 for a pickling plant, building and accessories at the Philadelphia Navy Yard.

The new construction program, exclusive of the tiny torpedo boats, would bring to 93 the number of ships now on the ways or for which money has been appropriated.

This forms only a small portion of the naval armament authorized in the expansion act, which permits construction of 46 combat ships, 26 auxiliaries, the air-

Sub-Committee Adds 212 Million To Farm Subsidy

Puts Funds in Recovery Program for Parity Price Payments.

Bar Competition Of PWA, Utilities

Senate Group Pledged Big Job Pool in Public Service Field.

By Robert C. Albright.

A Senate Appropriations subcommittee yesterday voted tentatively to provide $212,000,000 for farm parity price payments in the President's spending-lending bill, it was learned on good authority last night.

At the same session, the subcommittee approved a ban on Public Works Administration loans and grants where the funds would be used for construction of local power systems in competition with existing power facilities.

The PWA power policy change was approved by a close vote in a subcommittee amost equally divided between conservatives and New Dealers.

Further Testing Awaited.

Whether it will serve as a basis for a long-awaited truce between the Government and private utilities hinged on further testing today in the full committee and a showdown next week on the Senate floor. The Administration's own view of either the power or farm parity price change in the spending bill was not disclosed.

Government competition with private power interests has been the chief source of friction in a public and private power war that still is raging in the courts on the TVA front. Last January the Supreme Court upheld the right of the PWA to make grants to municipalities for construction of their own electric systems, and ruled it "lawful competition from which no legal wrong results."

Under a strict secrecy rule, the group put finishing touches on a relief and "pump priming" bill that increased the total of the $3,154,000,000 House measure by an estimated $300,000,000, and extended to farmers the parity price aid promised in the farm act "when and if" funds were available.

Committee Votes Today.

The bill will be submitted to a vote of the full Senate Appropriations Committee this morning. Pending full committee action, Chairman Alva B. Adams declined to divulge details.

Earlier the group had added $175,000,000 to the $1,250,000,000

Spending Must End, Green Says

Cincinnati, May 20 (U.P.).—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, calling for close business-labor co-operation to effect permanent recovery, tonight warned that Government spending toward this end cannot go on "forever."

In a Nation-wide broadcast he assailed "Government paternalism" and said that "sincere co-operation" between labor and industry "is more important than anything the Government can do to promote recovery."

He said that "fighting emergency conditions with Government spending" is an artificial means of increasing purchasing power, whereas "higher wages, shorter hours and an end to sweatshop conditions will put money into the pockets of the great masses of our people."

Morgenthau Scores Effort To Cut Force

Letters Reveal His Clash With Elliott on Fiscal Agency Proposal.

A bitter controversy between Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau and Acting Comptroller General R. N. Elliott, precipitated by Elliott's recommendation that an accounting agency in the Treasury be abolished, broke into the open yesterday.

Morgenthau accused Elliott of trying to "undermine the system of accounting in the Treasury Department" in order that the General Accounting Office might have sufficient grounds for complaint to prove the value of its audits.

The central accounting division in question was created by President Roosevelt through an executive order in 1935, and its task has been to check on emergency relief expenditures.

3,400 Jobs at Stake.

In passing the Administration's new spending-lending bill last week, the House voted, in effect, to abolish the central accounting agency and wipe out the jobs of 3,400 Treasury workers, 700 here and 2,700 in the field.

President Roosevelt said last Tuesday that he did not want the office abolished, and a Senate Appropriations sub-committee was reported yesterday to have amended the spending-lending bill so as to save it.

Some observers regarded the verbal scrap between Morgenthau and Elliott as part of a larger battle involving the President's Government reorganization drive. Under one plan, the Treasury would take over much of the work now done by the General Accounting Office.

Write to Bankhead, Garner.

Elliott's formal recommendation that the central accounting agency in the Treasury be abolished was contained in a letter he dispatched Wednesday to Vice President Garner and Speaker Bankhead. In this he said representatives of his office had made a survey of the accounting organization, the official name of which is the Central Treasury Accounts Office of the Office of the Commissioner of Accounts and De-

Ex-Chief Morgan Will Appear First In TVA Inquiry

By the Associated Press.

The first Congressional investigation of a New Deal agency—TVA, which Republicans have asserted contains the making of "another Teapot Dome scandal"—is scheduled to begin next week.

The investigating committee, composed of five Senators and five Representatives, announced yesterday that on Wednesday it would hear Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, Presidentially ousted chairman of TVA's board of directors, who has charged malfeasance and lack of integrity to other members of the board.

On Thursday, the committee said, the other directors, Dr. Harcourt A. Morgan, now chairman, and David E. Lilienthal will be given an opportunity to reply and prefer charges of their own. They have asserted that Dr. Arthur Morgan obstructed the activities of the Tennessee Valley Authority after finding himself out-voted at board meetings.

Lewis White House Luncheon Leads Moves for Peace in Pa.

Intense activity here and elsewhere among Pennsylvania Democratic chieftains and political liaison officers for the Administration and the C. I. O. yesterday marked efforts to repair breaches in party lines left by the State's bitter primary struggle.

A White House luncheon engagement for John L. Lewis was widely interpreted as the opening of negotiations to enlist C. I. O. support for the successful Democratic slate in the primaries, although President Roosevelt said earlier in the day he intended to discuss other matters with the labor leader.

Simultaneously Harry L. Hopkins, Works Progress administrator, revealed that ten WPA employes in Pennsylvania had been discharged for "political activities" for candidates in the sharp factional battle.

Most marked peace overtures of the day were made by Gov. George H. Earle, victorious Democratic Senate candidate, and Walter A. Jones, Pittsburgh oil man and prominent supporter of the defeated Thomas Kennedy, backed for the gubernatorial nomination by the C. I. O. and Senator Joseph Guffey.

In a statement at his Washington headquarters, Jones said, "The primary scrimmage is over. The 'first team' has been selected and, as is customary, the balance of the 'squad' promptly will line up solidly and support the 'first team' in the big game next fall."

"The issue in the fall campaign will be between liberals and reactionaries, and in this there is no difference in the Democratic ranks," he stated.

At Harrisburg, Pa., Gov. Earle declared himself confident that "we will have harmony" in the fall campaign, announcing a policy of "no

Labor Board Seeks to Block Ford Questions

Files Strong Objections to Interrogatories With Circuit Court.

The National Labor Relations Board, using such terms as "bad faith," "impertinent" and "scurrilous," yesterday vigorously resisted the move of the Ford Motor Co. to require it to answer some 74 questions in court.

The board announced here that it had filed in the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals at Covington, Ky., objections to the interrogatories presented to the court by Frederick H. Wood, Ford counsel. Answers to the questions were sought by Wood in connection with the Ford company's court fight on the board's decision that Ford had violated the Wagner labor relations act and an order that the company reinstate 25 discharged workers with back pay.

To Be Argued Monday.

At the same time, three judges of the Third Circuit Court at Philadelphia answered the board's request to the Supreme Court for a writ of mandamus requiring the Circuit Court to permit withdrawal by the board of its decision against the Republic Steel Corporation. The Circuit Court judges said that in refusing to permit withdrawal of the case "as between two possible interpretations of the statute" they had adopted the "one most favorable to the liberty of the citizen." The case will be argued in the Supreme Court Monday.

The 74 questions by Ford counsel were characterized by the board as "an inquisition," as it set forth 21 objections.

Specifically it said six of the queries were "impertinent and scurrilous and propoundded in bad faith." In those questions the Ford company asked whether the board, in arriving at its decision against Ford, had consulted in any way with Benjamin V. Cohen and Thomas Corcoran, New Deal legal experts; John L. Lewis, head of the Committee for Industrial Organization, or Homer Martin, president of the C. I. O.'s automobile workers' union.

Held Confidential.

Other Ford questions were held by the board to relate to inter-office communications "which, if they existed, should be confidential." Objection was made that some questions "seek information which relates to the mental processes of the board and call for conclusions."

The whole list of questions constituted a course beyond the court's authority, the board contended, adding that they were "propounded on mere surmise in support of vague and unsworn to allegations, constituting a fishing expedition into the affairs of the board and its agents."

Word was received at board headquarters here that the date for arguing Wood's request had been extended to May 31.

Filed With Supreme Court.

The Third Circuit Court's brief was filed in the Supreme Court in answer to the higher tribunal's order that it show cause why its refusal to permit the board to withdraw its Republic Steel decision should not be vacated. The case will be argued next Monday, with Republic lawyers in support of the Circuit Court ruling.

The board originally ordered Republic to reinstate with back pay some 5,000 workers, dismissed following the steel strike last summer. More recently it sought to withdraw both the Republic and Ford cases from Circuit Courts after the Supreme Court's decision in the Kansas City stockyards case had cast doubt on the legality of the simplified procedure followed by the board in those two cases and several others. Both Republic and Ford thus far have blocked withdrawal of the cases.

The Three circuit judges—Joseph Buffington, J. Warren Davis and J. Whitaker Thompson—said in their brief that they recognized "the debatable character of the question presented" and that they would "submit themselves to the judgment of this court whether or not they had jurisdiction to enter the order complained of and record their readiness to vacate the same if, in the opinion of this court, jurisdiction of the cause was lacking."

Delay Angle Cited.

They held that if the board were permitted to "delay indefinitely" the litigation involved it "might well be destructive of the morale of the employes and the credit of their employer."

The judges referred to the Labor Board's contention that the law permitted it to withdraw litigation from a circuit court at any time before a transcript of the record was filed. The judges said it was "at least uncertain" whether this provision of the law was "applicable in any case except that in which the board is the petitioner for an enforcement order."

They said that "as between two possible interpretations of the statute" they had adopted the "one most favorable to the liberty of the citizen."

Labor Violation Charged.

Atlanta, May 20 (AP).—The Regional Labor Board today reported receipt of a complaint charging the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., of Gadsden, Ala., with violation of the Wagner labor act.

The complaint was filed in behalf of the United Rubber Workers of America and came from the office of B. H. Markstein, Birmingham attorney representing the union. The nature of the complaint was not announced.

Rubber Unionists Continue 'Holiday'

Akron, Ohio, May 20 (AP).—United Rubber Workers members voted unanimously at a meeting late today to continue a "holiday" at the B. F. Goodrich Co. plants, where work stopped last midnight as a protest against the company's retention of eight apprentice electricians while older men were laid off.

Negotiations between a union committee and company officials, begun this afternoon, will be continued tomorrow.

Company officers declined comment on the walkout, affecting 8,800 factory workers and 1,800 office workers.

The bill would strike from the Federal Reserve act the July 1, 1938, limitation on such loans.

War veterans won approval of a Senate finance subcommittee for a measure already passed by the House increasing the minimum monthly pension for nonservice connected disabled veterans from $30 to $40 and shifting qualifications from an average to an individual basis.

Gen. Frank T. Hines, veterans administrator, opposed the legislation because he said the unusual demand for funds being made upon the Government at this time. The added cost of the bill was placed at $5,000,000 yearly.

to have been erroneous," the Solicitor General said. "We do suggest that the reversal warrants a rehearing."

Jackson added that "procedural errors" should not be permitted to "imperil" the "successful operation of administrative agencies."

Meanwhile Senator Logan (Democrat), of Kentucky, asserted that a special administrative court would be the best answer to criticisms such as those voiced by Wallace against Federal Court interpretations of procedure used by Government agencies.

Logan Plans Tribunal.

Logan has a bill to create such a tribunal pending before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

His measure, on which extended hearings have been held, would set up an 11-member court, the sole duty of which would be to hear appeals from decisions of such Federal agencies as the National Labor Relations Board and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

This court, Senator Logan contended, would aid in building up a legal code which would guide agencies in procedure and in their decisions.

Officials of the American Bar Association have suggested a substitute for the Logan bill which would permit appeals direct to the circuit courts, but would not establish a new judicial agency.

Meanwhile two bills aimed at tightening up the packers and stockyards act won approval of the Senate Agriculture Committee yesterday.

Wallace Power Extended.

The act gives Secretary Wallace broad powers to regulate charges at terminal markets for handling livestock and poultry on its way from farms to processors.

One measure, offered by Senators Gillette (Democrat), Iowa, and Capper (Republican), Kansas, would permit the Secretary of Agriculture to fix both minimum and maximum charges at stockyards for handling cattle, hogs, sheep and other livestock. The present law permits fixing only of a maximum rate and Agriculture Department officials said this had proved ineffective.

The second bill would amend sections of the packers and stockards act applying to the live poultry industry. Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York, who offered it, said Agriculture Department officials had experienced considerable difficulty in regulating the live poultry industry, especially in New York City.

Senators Clash On Local Share In Flood Control

By the Associated Press.

Disagreement developed yesterday in the Senate over local contributions for flood control.

Chairman Copeland (Democrat), New York, of the Commerce Committee said "there would be a fight" over a House-approved bill, before the committee yesterday, which would cut from 100 to 30 per cent the amount political subdivisions would need to pay for lands, easements and rights of way for flood control reservoirs.

Some Senators favored elimination of local contributions altogether. A second group wanted the percentage raised to 50 per cent, and a third suggested retention of the existing 100 per cent.

Chairman Whittington (Democrat), Mississippi, of the House Flood Control Committee said the 30 per cent contribution was agreed upon "at the insistence" of President Roosevelt who objected to abandonment of the principle of local participation.

Rail Head Denies Charge Wage Cut Spells Bad Faith

J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, yesterday denied charges by rail labor heads that the carriers had acted with "bad faith" in announcing a proposed wage cut.

"The charge is without the slightest foundation," Pelley said. "The labor representatives who participated in protracted preliminary conferences on this subject clearly understood, when the negotiations were broken off, that, in the opinion of the railroads, there were no pending proposals that could be taken as an alternative to a wage reduction. These representatives were fully advised of what the railroads intended to do . . ."

House leaders, meanwhile, changed their plans to debate yesterday the bill to make more liberal RFC loans available to the roads. The Senate sent the bill back to committee Thursday because of opposition to loans if the wage cut is enforced. Floor Leader Rayburn said the bill would not be considered until the Senate situation was cleared up.

Experts to Voice Pride and Alarm At Club Barbecue

Texas' Senator Tom Connally and Indiana's former Senator James Watson will speak today at the National Press Club barbecue at Fort Hunt, Va.

Senator Connally will take as his subject, "We Point With Pride." His Republican opponent will discourse on "We View With Alarm." Speaker William B. Bankhead will referee.

President Roosevelt will attend. Buses and cars will take 3,000 Press Club members and their guests to the scene, which is on the Mount Vernon Memorial highway a short distance north of Mount Vernon.

Other guests will include Gov. Nice of Maryland and Mayor LaGuardia of New York.

The program will contain several features, one of which will be a parade of Kentucky colonels, in Prince Albert coats and black, flowing ties. Another event will be the "Kentucky Derby," an actual horse race with seven entries.

Company's Owner Gives a Million in Stock to Workers

New York, May 20 (U.P.).—Charles F. Noyes today distributed among his 165 employes about $1,000,000 worth of his share in the $2,000,000 assets of his realty firm because, he said, "at 60 one ought to turn over to others the management of an enterprise they helped build."

Employes who have been with the firm a year or more will divide 6,560 shares of preferred and 72,000 shares of common stock.

The Noyes company, which operates some 2,250 buildings, has done $60,000,000 business annually, even during the depression.

Air-Mail Flight Serves Smaller Virginia Cities

Pilot Observes Week by One-Day Circuit of Demonstration.

Heralding a new era in air mail, one of service to smaller cities and towns off the Nation's skylanes, Pilot Dick Fell yesterday inaugurated such a service in Virginia.

His feat was one of the last events of National Air-Mail Week, which ends tomorrow. Holding a one-day commission as pilot in the Air Mail, the Gulf Oil Co. flier took off from Washington Airport in the morning, and in little more than five hours' flying time picked up mail from Richmond, Yorktown, Jamestown, Williamsburg, Cape Henry, where stands America's oldest lighthouse; Appomattox, Charlottesville, Fredericksburg and Hybla Valley.

The mail he collected, in starting the Virginia pick-up service, came from dozens of Virginia towns and villages, which sent letters from their postoffices to the points of landing.

Covers 650 Air Miles.

Fell covered 650 air miles before he landed at the airport at 5:29 p. m. with his sacks of mail. At all stopping points he was greeted by local postmasters and officials.

Every letter in the sacks he brought back was transferred at the airport for delivery on the main lines of the air mail. Two letters, sent to Hybla Valley Airport from Alexandria, will be taken back to their authors in Alexandria, with their air-mail postmarks, and saved as souvenirs of the coming air-mail shuttle service to Virginia.

The flight originally was scheduled for Thursday, but bad weather prevented it.

On hand to welcome Fell back from his flight yesterday were Second Assistant Postmaster General Harllee Branch, in charge of air mail, and Charles P. Graddock, superintendent of air mail.

Mail From Kill Devil.

Flying the autogiro, temporarily lent Eastern Air Lines by the Kellett Co., Pilot Johnny Miller continued to buzz above the city yesterday, illustrating another phase of shuttle service.

Meanwhile, American Air Lines in response to public demand, announced the sky-sleeper on exhibition opposite the Department of Commerce and the Willard Hotel would remain open for inspection until late tomorrow night.

A 16-ounce plaque yesterday was presented the Post Office Department by Andre Kostelantez. The trophy, which has gone around the world in commemoration of Air-Mail Week, was accepted aboard the American Air Line flagship by Postmaster General Farley, and the ceremonies were broadcast over the Columbia system. With Kostelanetz was Lily Pons.

O'Mahoney Plans New Method for Monopoly Study

Senator O'Mahoney (Democrat), Wyoming, yesterday announced that he will introduce Monday a joint resolution for an 11-man joint executive-legislative commission to investigate monopoly and recommend anti-trust laws.

A revision of O'Mahoney's original proposal, the resolution provides that the commission, in addition to three members of both the Senate and House, consist of one representative each from the departments of Justice, Treasury and Labor, the Federal Trade and Securities and Exchange commissions.

Decision to broaden the membership came after conferences with Mr. Roosevelt, SEC Chairman William O. Douglas, FTC Chairman G. S. Ferguson, jr., Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold, Vice President Garner and Senate and House majority leaders, O'Mahoney said.

He said that $500,000 would be made available for the investigation, to be conducted during the Congressional recess.

Machine Age Aids To Court Weighed In Senate Study

Machine age aids to justice were considered yesterday by a Senate Judiciary sub-committee at hearings on a bill, sponsored by Representative Sam Hobbs, of Alabama, authorizing installation of sound equipment in one court room of the District Court, with reproducing machinery in the Court of Appeals and in the Supreme Court Building for use when needed.

Hall Etter, of Houston, Tex., president of the National Association of Shorthand Reporters, and Nathan Behrin, of New York, registered strong opposition. Etter contended the number of appellate judges would have to be increased considerably. Behrin said the cost of shorthand reporting in Federal courts is met now by litigants which the Government would have to meet if the apparatus is used.

Hobbs, who said the cost would be small, asserted recording would not displace shorthand reporters or printers. He said it "would help speed justice" and "reduce the cost of litigation."

Horner Pledges Quick Relief to 34,000 in Need

By the United Press.

Chicago, May 20.—The 34,000 families reduced to a bare existence by the exhaustion of Chicago relief funds tonight received assurances from Gov. Henry Horner that legislation to relieve the emergency would be rushed with all possible speed.

The Governor outlined a two-fold proposal in a message to both Houses of the Assembly, which convened in special session at Springfield.

He proposed:

An immediate appropriation of $4,500,000 to be divided among the various counties at the rate of $500,000 a month, in addition to the $3,000,000 provided by the State each month through the 3 per cent sales tax.

A broader base of taxation to provide cities and counties with a long-time means of relief revenue and enabling legislation to permit them to bear their share of the present emergency by dipping into funds earmarked for other uses.

The Governor said the immediate appropriation, plus the enabling legislation "should, I believe, meet the emergency."

Spokesmen in the two Houses said they hoped to jam the measures through final readings by midnight Tuesday, and thus restore the flow of relief funds before the end of next week.

In Chicago, where a $5,000,000 relief appropriation was exhausted seven months ahead of schedule, the second contingent of 4,000 families went on a diet limited to beans, butter, cabbage, celery, oranges and rice.

Relief workers, under Administrator Leo M. Lyons, doled out the last May checks Wednesday to approximately 4,500 families, leaving at least 85,000 persons without provision for food, clothing or shelter.

Male Pulchritude Honor Is Captured By Franconia Man

Karl French, War Department employe, was presented with a loving cup and declared the winner in a maseuline beauty contest held last night at the Franconia School, Franconia, Va., for the benefit of the volunteer fire department. His wife, the master of ceremonies, made the presentation.

Fifteen contestants, wearing women's clothes, paraded before the audience of 400 and three judges—Mrs. Mattie Horsley, Mrs. J. O. Conley and M. F. Gregory. Originally contestants were asked to wear bathing suits, but they had objected and finally compromised on women's clothes.

Second place went to Frank Cummins, guard at Lorton; third to Milton Alexander, electrical contractor, and fourth to Richard Chapman, of the War Department. All four winners are residents of Franconia.

Hamilton Assails Support of 'Antis'

Denver, May 20 (AP).—John Hamilton, Republican national chairman, today attacked all proposals for support by his party of anti-Administration Democrats.

The party chairman told the Denver Chamber of Commerce he heard suggestions among Republicans for entering Democratic primaries to back senators who opposed President Roosevelt's Supreme Court or Government reorganization bills.

"Let us realize once and for all that, if you elect a senator just because he voted against the President on the Supreme Court, he goes back to Washington to become again a part of that machine that set up the Minton committee, the Black committee, and the other agencies that transgress upon every right of the people," Hamilton asserted.

U. S. Doctors to Attend Congress in Yugoslavia

President Roosevelt yesterday accepted the invitation of the Yugoslav government for this country to take part in the eleventh international congress of the history of medicine, which will be held in Yugoslavia September 3 to 11.

The President approved the following delegates:

ship and $15,000,000 in experimental vessels.

If funds are made available, keels for some of the vessels will probably be laid down next month, it is believed.

The program will be in addition to a supplemental pending naval appropriation bill calling for expenditure of $28,000,000 which provides $5,000,000 to lay the keels of two more battleships before the end of June.

Some of America's most powerful "average" vessels, scheduled to be replaced within the next few years, may be retained to form a nucleus around which to construct an Atlantic fleet.

The United States today has 332 warships afloat. The British grand fleet now includes 294 vessels and 85 additional ships have been appropriated for and are under construction. Great Britain is expected to achieve a fleet of 379 ships by 1943 or 1944.

Official Navy Department estimates, although admittedly incomplete, give Japan 224 naval vessels, France 216, Italy 291, and Germany 125 by the same years the American and British programs are scheduled for completion.

The President's decision to start immediate construction on the recent authorization program is expected to silence critics who contend the super-Navy bill was merely a bluff and would never amount to more than a 'paper fleet.'

Sayre Emphasizes Farm Benefits in Pact With Britain

Knoxville, Tenn., May 20 (U.P.).—Assistant secretary of State Francis B. Sayre said today that the farmer has more to gain by the Administration's reciprocal trade treaty program than any other economic group in the country.

Addressing an east Tennessee farmers convention at the University of Tennessee, he said the reciprocal trade agreement with the British United Kingdom, now under negotiation, is of "particular importance," because England's highly industrialized nature necessitates importation of vast quantities of Agricultural products.

He said that taken together the export and import trade of the United States and the United Kingdom and its colonies constitutes almost 30 per cent of total world trade.

In Pittsburgh several C. I. O. leaders, including John J. O'Leary, international board member of the United Mine Workers, joined in urging members of the local industrial council to unite with the State Democratic organization in defeating Judge Arthur H. James, Republican candidate for Governor.

Figuring prominently in the consultations in progress in Washington, Edward N. Jones, campaign director of Kennedy's losing fight, saw Lewis and Senator Guffey.

The Pennsylvania Senator had talked earlier in the day with Walter Jones, reputed intermediary between the rival Democratic factions. Jones also conferred with Marvin McIntyre, White House secretary.

David L. Lawrence, Pennsylvania State Democratic chairman, presumably on a similar peace mission, registered at the same hotel as Walter Jones. Lawrence said he saw harbingers of party harmony in a congratulatory message received from President Roosevelt and Postmaster General Farley's statement urging support of the nominated ticket.

Eckener Confers With Roosevelt on Selling of Helium

By the Associated Press.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, German Zeppelin builder, and German Ambassador Hans Dieckhoff discussed briefly with President Roosevelt yesterday the question of making American helium available for use in German airships.

"I am optimistic, of course I am," Eckener told reporters. "Nothing has been finally decided yet."

Secretary Ickes has blocked the sale on the grounds that the helium might be used for military purposes.

Knoxville Expects Rich Power Profit

Knoxville, Tenn., May 20 (AP).—The city of Knoxville anticipated today a rich source of revenue from municipal operation of electric properties distributing TVA power.

Even with sharply reduced rates, Mayor Walter M. Mynatt told city council, there would be a net surplus of $325,000 if the city should purchase the electric properties of the Tennessee Public Service Co. in Knox County. In addition, he added, consumers would be saved more than $1,000,000 annually in reduced electric bills.

Directors of the National Power and Light Co., which controls most of the T. P. S. stock, voted yesterday to recommend the sale to stockholders. The city and TVA offered $7,900,000 for the property.

'District Day' On Wednesday, Palmisano Aim

Committee Chairman to Seek Consent for Study of 11 D.C. Measures.

Unanimous consent for consideration Wednesday of 11 local bills will be sought by Chairman Palmisano, of the House District Committee, to compensate for time lost to the District when the wage-hour bill is considered Monday, he said yesterday.

Under regular procedure, Monday would be the District's semimonthly day in the House, but the discharge petition which will force a vote on the wage-hour bill has a privileged status, and Palmisano said he believed it would be impossible to get District measures considered the same day.

Among the bills on the local calendar are the one favorably reported Thursday to set in motion a program of slum clearance and low-cost housing development; an amendment to the District tax law prohibiting deduction of motor vehicle taxes from the new business privilege tax, the District's PWA borrowing act, and a proposed Army medical library and museum.

Palmisano also intends to push the fair trade practices act for the District. This bill is opposed by the Consumers' Council, which declares the provision asking uniform prices on all trade-marked goods is supported by those who "seek first to eliminate price competition and then boost price levels."

Jurors Blame Pilots in Plane Crash Killing 9

Verdict Holds 2 Fliers Used Poor Judgment in Operating Craft.

By the Associated Press.

Los Angeles, May 20.—A coroner's jury held today that the crash of an $80,000 airliner in the Saugus Hills in which nine persons were killed was "accidental and due to faulty judgment on the part of both the pilot and co-pilot."

"We recommend," the verdict said, "that all pilots flying planes carrying pasengers be instructed by proper authorities and required to fly at 1,000 feet elevation above the highest mountain points on the route being flown when leaving or entering all airports in this area."

Mrs. Clara Weiss, of Mint Canyon, testified the plane flew so low over her home that chickens and turkeys were frightened.

President Robert E. Gross, of Lockheed, testified no instructions had been given Sidney Willey, Lockheed test pilot, to fly low.

The plane was insured, but the policy contained nothing about the altitude the pilot should fly, Gross said.

Testimony indicated the plane was being piloted by Fred Whittemore for Northwest Airlines, the co-pilot, instead of Willey, as first supposed.

Judge Approves As Foiled Burglar Gives Self Term

George Johnson, 47, colored, in police court on a charge of attempted housebreaking, yesterday ordered a six-month jail sentence for himself and received the approval from Judge Hobart Newman.

Johnson told the judge he "wouldn't feel at home in jail," but that some punishment should be fixed.

"What punishment do you think you should have?" asked Judge Newman.

"Not more than six months," Johnson said.

"That's just what it will be," said the judge, and Johnson smiled.

Army Chaplains Close Convention

The three-day convention of the Army Chaplains Association ended Thursday with a meeting at the Raleigh Hotel in the morning, a brief visit to the White House, and a special luncheon for Catholic chaplains given by Mgr. George J. Warring, of St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York City. The 200 chaplains were unable to see President Roosevelt.

Cartwright Cites Highway Benefits

An extensive highway construction program would contribute far more than relief expenditures to meeting the current unemployment problem, Representative Cartwright (Democrat), of Oklahoma, yesterday told guests at a "victory luncheon" celebrating prospective participation by the District in benefits from Federal road-building legislation.

The District's share in appropriations provided in his pending bill would be approximately $650,000, Cartwright said.

"Better roads mean more travel," he continued, "and more travel means more business for all branches of the automotive industry."

Mrs. Brandeis in Plea For Arms for Loyalists

A letter to President Roosevelt signed by Mrs. Louis D. Brandeis, wife of the Supreme Court justice, which strongly urged abandonment of the embargo on war materials to loyalist Spain, was made public by the Washington Friends of Spanish Democracy yesterday. Among the signers were Francis Gorman, president of the Textile Workers Organizing Committee; Louis Bloch, labor advisor, United States Maritime Commission; David J. Circuit Court Upholds Saving-Loan Groups

Chicago, May 20 (AP).—The United State Circuit Court of Appeals today upheld the constitutionality and validity of Section 5 of the home owners' act of 1933, providing for establishment of Federal savings and loan associations. The court returned a 2-to-1 opinion.

The constitutionality of the act was attacked by the attorney general of Wisconsin and the Wisconsin State Banking Commission as constituting an unwarranted interference with the operation of State institutions of the same nature.

3 Soldiers Seized On Girl's Story of Attack and Theft

Police last night were holding three young Fort Myer soldiers in an attempt to assault Miss Elmi McAlroy, 20, of New York City. Miss McAlroy, who was robbed of $9 and a $75 ring, identified the three and they were booked on an open charge pending recovery of the ring, allegedly in possession of a soldier at Fort Belvoir.

Miss McAlroy told police she met the soldiers Wednesday in a tavern and walked with them to the park near Ninth street and Constitution avenue. The soldiers, she said made improper advances and when she resisted threw her to the ground.

Her screams frightened them away, but they took with them the money and ring, she said.

WamplerTrial Day Setting Is Delayed

La Plata, Md., May 20 (AP).—A date for the trial of T. Morris Wampler and his wife on charges of manslaughter in the death of Charles Adams, 65, will be set after the return from the court of appeals in Annapolis of Chief Judge Walter J. Mitchell, State's Attorney Edward Edelen said today.

Judge Mitchell did not return today as expected. Adams, handyman on the Wamplers' Fenwick estate, died April 29 of head injuries suffered at the Wampler home.

U. S. Drops Charge For 1 Harlan Firm

London, Ky., May 20 (AP).—The roll of defendants in the Harlan County conspiracy trial was reduced by two today after the jury had been selected.

Without stating any reason Government attorneys dismissed charges against the Black Mountain Corporation and Elbert J. Asbury, an officer of the company.

That move left 20 corporations, 22 company officers and 22 former and present Harlan County peace officers to be tried Monday after two alternate jurors are selected.

Zionchecks Broke $2,700 Furniture, Landlady Testifies

Testimony that the late Representative Marion A. Zioncheck, of Washington, and his pretty young wife, Mrs. Rubye Nix Zioncheck, had caused $2,700 damage in the apartment they leased from her, was heard yesterday from Mrs. Pamela S. Young, magazine writer and world traveler.

Mrs. Young said in District Court that furniture, rugs, mattresses, and tapestries had been damaged. Her suit is directed against Mrs. Zioncheck as the administratrix of her former husband's estate. Mrs. Young had not finished her description when Justice James M. Proctor adjourned court until Monday.

H. Max Ammerman is attorney for Mrs. Zioncheck. Attorneys Robert H. McNeill and Philip F. Herrick represented Mrs. Young.

Sergeant Killed When Combat Car Crashes on March

Glasgow, Ky., May 20 (AP).—Sergt. Frank Bruno, of the Seventh Cavalry, was killed today shortly after the unit left Fort Knox en route to Chattanooga for war games in defense of the Government gold vault. A combat car of the First Scout unit overturned.

Privates Joseph R. Jackson, Bloomfield, Mo., and Lewis A. Sanders, Steens, Miss., were hurt.

Levine Kidnaping 'Confessor' Held

Knox, Ind., May 20 (U.P.).—The Starke County sheriff's office tonight disclosed it had had in custody since May 7 a man who had confessed the kidnaping of 12-year-old Peter Levine at New Rochelle, N. Y.

Mrs. Frank B. Lough, the sheriff's wife, said the suspect, whose name was not disclosed, had been questioned by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents from Hammond, Ind., and was being held until the FBI gave permission to release him. He was picked up as a vagrant May 7.

Justice Department and Federal Bureau of Investigation officials last night said they had not been advised of the arrest of an unidentified man in Knox, Ind., who allegedly confessed to the kidnaping of 12-year-old Peter Levine.

Virginia Tornado Kills 3 in Family

Warsaw, Va., May 20 (AP).—Three colored persons were killed by a tornado which swept a path five miles long in Richmond County this afternoon.

The storm demolished the two-story frame home of James Ball as it swept through Woodland, five miles south of Farnham.

Ball's 44-year-old wife, Cecil, and two of her 10 children, Sherwood, 8, and Dora, 2, were killed. Dorothy Ball, 14, was severely hurt and another child, Stewart, 4, slightly injured.

A 1-year-old baby was buried beneath chimney bricks but was unhurt.

2 Warrings Win Week to Explain Income Tax Case

An indictment charging Emmett, Leo and Charles Warring, together with tax consultants Gordon L. R. Sadur and Henry L. Sherr, with conspiring to violate the income tax law, was attacked in District Court yesterday by Attorneys Whelan and O'Connell on behalf of Emmett and Leo Warring.

The defendants were given until next week to explain alleged deficiencies in tax returns of 1934, 1935 and 1936. The Warrings argued that the indictment was invalid in that it blanketed numerous alleged instances of conspiracy under a single count.

The indictment charges the Warrings failed to declare profits from a gaming racket in Georgetown. The third Warring, Charles, in prison, has not been arraigned.

Dr. E. R. Clinchy To Describe Life In Middle Europe

Dr. Everett R. Clinchy, director of the National Conference of Jews and Christians, who returned last week from a tour of central Europe, will speak on "Religious and Social Conditions in Central Europe Today" at the morning service tomorrow in Mount Pleasant Congregational Church.

Dr. Clinchy spent the last two months traveling in Austria, Hungary, the Balkan states, as well as France and England. He was in Vienna the week of Hitler's arrival there. He talked with the leaders of the social, political and religious life of those countries and so secured first-hand observations and reactions.

He is a brother of the pastor of Mount Pleasant Church, Dr. Russell J. Clinchy, and has been in his present task of directing understanding between Catholics, Jews and Protestants for ten years.

Dr. J. M. Bader Will Preach at National City

Christian Church Speaker Is Director of University Mission.

Dr. Jesse M. Bader will fill the pulpit tomorrow morning at the National City Christian Church, during the absence of the pastor, Dr. Raphael Harwood Miller. Dr. Bader is director of the University Christian Mission, and executive secretary of the department of evangelism of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America. During 1936-37, Dr. Bader was national director of the National Preaching Mission. He is also general secretary of the world convention of the Disciples of Christ. His subject tomorrow morning will be "The Man Who Changed a Century."

In the evening, the associate pastor, the Rev. Ivan H. Dugan, will deliver the sermon.

Columbia Heights. The Rev. A. P. Wilson's morning topic will be "The Last Line of Defense." He will speak at Takoma Park in the evening on "Three Big Words." The evening service will be led by the Rev. E. C. Gordon as guest speaker.

Ninth Street. Boyce Luckett will preside at morning worship tomorrow, the third Sunday of youth month. The morning prayer will be given by Mildred Cooper, the Scripture reading by Georgia Lee Norris, and the closing prayer by Maurice Petersen. The Rev. Clifford H. Jope will preach on "Branch Houses."

The Philo Christo Christian Endeavor Society meets at 6:30 in the church house, with Louise Whitney as the leader. Her subject will be "Being Popular Without Sacrificing High Ideals." At 6:45 p. m. the Forum C. E. meets in the senior department room, with Helen Teague as leader. Her subject will be "How Should We Pray?"

Hazel Hoover presides at the 7:45 o'clock evening worship hour. The junior orchestra will play and the junior choir sing. James Moudy will give the evening prayer. Milton Goes will read the Scripture lesson and Virginia Elliott will give the closing prayer. A symposium will be given by four young people of the church, Lowell Keagy, Dorothy Johnson, Andrew Shannon, and Betty Wray.

Fifteenth Street. The Rev. Leslie L. Bowers will speak at morning worship tomorrow on "Through Life's Hard Places."

At the evening service the McKimmie-Catterton Police-Fire Post, No. 2979, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be the guests of the church and will conduct their annual memorial exercises. The Rev. H. E. Snyder, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Atonement and chaplain of the post, will preach.

Choir to Aid Dedication.

D. Sterling Wheelwright, organist and choir director of the Chapel of the Latter Day Saints, here, will take his choir to Philadelphia tomorrow to assist in the dedication of the new $75,000 chapel of the denomination there at 2 p. m.

Millington Tribute.

Services to honor the memory of the late H. W. O. Millington will be held tomorrow at 4 p. m. at the Baptist Home for Children, of which he was one of the fond founders and first president of the board of trustees.

Vote

cent plebiscite was a "Roman holiday," that when the city did have the vote it was plagued by rioting and corruption; that the city now has a good government; that to grant it suffrage would be to bring about "colored domination," and that the Communist Party in supporting suffrage here for selfish reasons.

Representative Hatton W. Sumners (Democrat), of Texas, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, would make no forecast as to when he would call the committee together to consider a report. Congress now is speeding up its work in an effort to adjourn.

Women, most of them representing clubs or associations, dominated the picture as the hearing drew to a close. The loudest applause was precipitated by Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, president of the Board of Education, when she said:

Pleads for Children.

"It is a pity that in the Capital City this typical American process (the ballot) should be impossible, and that in order to see the exercise of the usual franchise it is necessary for our children to go to another city or State.

"Will you not grant to our children an opportunity to take more than an academic interest in the exercise of the franchise? And will you not give adults the franchise, that we may, by our example, train our children to be American citizens in the full sense of the word?"

Rear Admiral William Ledyard Rodgers, U. S. N., retired, of the Dupont Circle Citizens Association, was the first opposition witness in the morning. He insisted that this city has a good government and that it is fortunate in being free of municipal corruption and debt. Recalling conditions here when the city did have a vote, Admiral Rodgers said:

"It was thought then that the colored vote dominated elections, even if colored men were not in the majority of the elected officers. This is a country of white people, and the National Capital should not be dominated by people of another race."

He told the committee that members of the Communist Party, meeting here recently, decided to support suffrage.

Grover Ayers Speaks.

"If the Communist Party sees an opportunity to better itself by suffrage," he said, "probably many people will be less hopeful of good results from suffrage."

The retired officer said that the small attendance at the hearing proved that there was not much popular support for suffrage. Most of those present, he said, wanted to talk on one side or the other.

Grover Ayers, head of the Ten-Mile Square Club, leader of the opposition, charged that the proponents had used every means to discredit him. He said that Paul Lash, chief spokesman for the suffrage advocates, once had told the Columbia Heights Citizens Association that if the local school board were elected, the colored vote might cause "embarrassing circumstances."

Ayers, after estimating that between 35 and 40 per cent of those who balloted in the recent plebiscite were colored, "wondered" if those who now want the colored residents to vote would back a prominent colored citizen, Dr. Garnett C. Wilkinson, assistant superintendent of schools, for the post of commissioner to succeed George E. Allen, who is resigning. Dr. Wilkinson recently was boomed for the job by a group of colored Government workers.

Color Issue Called Improper.

Chairman Sumners asked Ayers to get down to a discussion of "fundamentals," and Representative Earl Michener (Republican), of Michigan, reminded Ayers that, under the Constitution, colored people enjoyed the same rights as whites.

"Why argue about color in view the Constitution?" Michener asked. "It seems to me it is not a proper discussion here."

Ayers read a letter from Lothrop Stoddard in which the writer and lecturer recalled that the Founding Fathers envisioned just such a city as Washington now is in a political sense, and urged that their vision be respected.

He read another letter from Ford E. Young, jr., who said that "rioting and bloodshed" were possible if Washington were given the vote."

Ayers said that the framers of the Constitution went out of their way to emphasize that Congress should control the District of Columbia. They not only wrote that Congress should exercise "exclusive" legislative power here, he said, but added "in all cases whatsoever."

Maddox Scores Plans.

Alfred D. Calvert, president of the Lincoln Park Citizens' Association, told the committee that conditions here in the days when people voted was "a stench to the Nation." Finally, he said, the city became bankrupt and Congress had to abolish the territorial form of government.

"To give suffrage to Washington would be to open a Pandora's box of evils," he said.

Luther R. Maddox, of the Columbia Heights Citizens Association, criticized the Capper-Norton and Lewis-Randolph resolutions because they did not make suffrage here mandatory, after amendment of the Constitution, but allowed Congress to use its discretion. He urged substitution of the Sirovich resolution which would set up a city-state here to be called "Columbia."

Mrs. Harris T. Baldwin, first vice president of the National League of Women Voters, told the committee that her organization, with units in 600 communities, stood squarely behind the principle of suffrage for the District.

Mrs. Wiley a Witness.

Mrs. Louis Ottenberg, president of the Voteless D. C. League of Women Voters, who spoke for that organization and several others, said that the arguments against local suffrage reminded her of those made against women's suffrage.

Mrs. Harvey Wiley, vice chairman of the Citizens Joint Committee, said that, having been in Europe and seen children being trained under dictatorships, it would be "a refreshing spectacle" if Congress would make it possible in Washington to train young people in the ways of democracy.

Mrs. Horace J. Phelps, of the D. C. Federation of Women's Club, said her organization had voted overwhelmingly for national representation. This city, she said, should be an inspiring example of representative government.

Walter A. Pinchback, president of the Bloomingdale Citizens Association, was the first colored witness to testify. Although the committee's program was crowded, Chairman Sumners told him he could have all the time he desired. Pinchback said the founding fathers never intended this city to be enfranchised. He told the committee that Washingtonians "no longer want to be Charlie McCarthys, but would like to be Edgar Bergens."

Arthur D. Gray, of the Washington Chapter of the National Negro Council, also indorsed local suffrage and national representation.

Miss Etta L. Taggart, representing the Federation of Citizens Associations, reminded the committee that "taxation without representation in still tyranny."

Mrs. Anna E. Henley, honorary vice president of the Society of Natives, told how she had obtained more than 1,000 signatures in all parts of the country to a suffrage petition.

Sidney R. Katz, speaking for the Washington C. I. O., said that the April 30 plebiscite was a "vote of no confidence on the way the city is being run." He said that if Congress granted suffrage here it would be a "thrust at reaction," a reply to the spread of Fascism.

Former Representative William Upshaw, of Georgia, a celebrated dry of the 20's, added his voice to those urging suffrage.

Lesh, the last witness, said that while the Citizens Joint Committee was somewhat divided as to the wisdom of local suffrage, it was united on national representation—the right to elect members of the House, one or two Senators, and to vote for President.

Good Samaritan Robbed Of $160 by Bandit Trio

Joseph J. Sullivan, 42, of 783 Nineteenth street northeast, was assaulted and robbed of $160 early yesterday by three men near Eighteenth street and Constitution avenue.

Sullivan, who told police he was employed with the WPA, met the men in a lunchroom in the 400 block of Ninth street northwest. One of them complained that he felt ill and Sullivan offered to take him home. They took a taxi from the restaurant, and the assault followed.

Spends Night in Plane on Exhibition

Writer Nearly Stands on Head Sleeping in Airliner on Ground

Tilted Berth, Level in Flight, Slides Him Into Aisle Where Thousands Have Tramped in Plane Moored Near Commerce Building.

By Barry Sullivan.

Sleeping on the slant last night in the American Airliner at Flagship Post Office Station, Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue, was my first experience with after-dark facilities in modern transport planes.

Going to bed after midnight I woke up several hours later to find I had slipped down into one corner of the berth. The light and puffy mattress was wrapped around me like a blanket.

Untangling the mattress and straightening out the sheets I tried again to get some rest since I had to get up at 7 a. m., an unearthly hour for a reporter on a morning newspaper.

As was carefully explained to me the slanting position of the plane is not one to which night airline travelers need to be accustomed. my experience of gradually working to the foot of the berth resulted from the landing position of the great aircraft. The plane in flight has a level stance.

While falling asleep I noticed the peculiarly deadened sound of traffic, hushed by the noise-proofing of the airliner. Automobiles passing on Pennsylvania avenue made a ghostly shushing noise while street cars hissed along their tracks with only an occasional dulled screech as their wheels came to abrupt stops beside the loading platform in front of the Willard Hotel.

My second waking, shortly after dawn, found me slumped down in the berth with my head lolling over the side into the aisle where tens of thousands of people have tramped in the last several days. Putting one foot against a partition I straightened myself out, punched the soft mattress flat, waggled my head around to get the crick out of my neck and was asleep again.

Several hours later 7 a. m. was upon me. I heard the watchman open the door on his way to rout me out. I beat him to it and was wide awake by the time he reached my berth.

Sleeping in a plane firmly moored to the ground is an unusual experience. My next night on a flyer, however, will be aboard one en route. I am sure it will have the added attraction brought by that gentle "rocking-in-a-cradle" feeling characteristic of air travel.

Postlude

By Ray C. B. Brown.

Stanley Olmstead gives a piano recital at the Washington Club. "The Piano as Imagery" is demonstrated in compositions by Eastwood Lane, Chopin, MacDowell, Moszkovski, Skryabin, Debussy, Ravel, Arenski, Schuett and Charles Griffes.

Shattering the program formula and remolding it nearer to his mind's desire, Stanley Olmstead gave an interesting recital last night at the Washington Club, taking as the basic idea the use composers have made of the piano as a medium for the evocation of poetic imagery. One heard no abstract patterns of sound, no meditative musings and no intellectualized music, but only the play of tones about figments of the imagination. The forms were those of the fancy and not of the textbook; in place of the fugue and the sonata were those freer and more plastic shapes: the prelude, the etude and the caprice.

Eastwood Lane, whose originality and independence give him a certain kinship with Charles Ives among American composers, was honored with the place at the beginning of the program with his "Abelard and Heloise," "Powwow Dance," "Girl on Tiptoe" and "Sea Burial," and came in for later consideration with excerpts from his "Sold Down the River" suite, a transcription of his ballet based on "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

From the Chopin shelf were taken the "Ocean" etude, the C major prelude and the "Nocturne" and "Sylph" etudes. Moriz Moszkovski was represented by "Les Etincelles" and "Les Vagues." Edward MacDowell's sketch-books opened at "Mid-Summer," "Mid-Winter" and "Will o' the Wisp." The mystical yearnings of Skryabin spoke in the "Desire" prelude.

Other images on the program were Debussy's "Reflets dans l'Eau," Ravel's "Jeux d'Eau" and a bit from "Daphnis et Chloe," a caprice by Arenski, Eduard Schuett's "Harlequin with Piccolo," "Dreaming Pierrot" and "Etude Mignon," and Charles Griffes' "The White Peacock."

Mr. Olmstead's readings were as unconventional as his method of program-building. Nothing of the academic hampers his playing, which is indicative of a positive personality. Wayward one might call it, were it not so obviously the expression of artistic convictions. He is not so much concerned with his competent technical resources as with the poetic content of music.

CCC to Spend $700,000 For Motor Machinery

James J. McEntee, acting director of the Civilian Conservation Corps, yesterday announced that the CCC shortly will purchase $700,000 worth of trucks, tractors and other heavy machinery through the procurement office of the Department of Interior and Department of Agriculture.

$212,000,000 Voted for Farm Parity Payment

Spend

Works Progress Administration appropriation, to finance relief operations for eight months instead of seven. The proposed total $1,425,000,000 appropriation would last the WPA through March 1, when Congress would provide funds for the rest of the year.

Some Votes Are Close.

Some of the sub-committee votes were close, and it was said that at least one phone call was put through to the White House.

The farm parity price amendment was sponsored by Senator Russell (Democrat), Georgia. It had the backing of the American Farm Bureau Federation, which had pointed out that large supplies of cotton, corn and wheat threatened farmers with a price collapse paralelling 1932. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace had warned the sub-committee acute distress might develop in large agricultural areas, particularly in cotton and wheat territory.

The Russell amendment would extend parity payments (based on 1909 to 1914 price indices) to only cotton, wheat and corn. Of the $212,000,000 made available for the purpose, $100,000,000 would be earmarked from PWA "pump-priming" funds. Payments would be limited to 2 cents a pound on cotton, 8 cents a bushel on wheat and 5 cents a bushel on corn.

Would Give Considerable Aid.

Russell has contended that payment of parity prices not only would aid distressed farm areas but by distributing payments over large areas would have a greater "priming" effect upon business than any other money provided in the bill.

Although authorizing farm parity payments when funds were available to make them the recently-enacted farm act provided only the $500,000,000 necessary to make the regular crop-control benefit payments and loans. Senator Pope (Democrat), of Idaho, failed in an effort to tack a processing tax amendment to the revenue bill to supply funds for parity prices.

Utility Aid Pledged.

In barring further PWA loans and grants to communities for use in competition with private utilities, the subcommittee followed a recommendation of Philip H. Gadsden, chairman of the committee of utility executives. Gadsden had pledged utility aid in providing jobs if confidence was restored by elimination of Government competition.

The $175,000,000 increase in WPA funds followed expressions of concern by Works Progress Administrator Hopkins over the plight of large industrial centers and his forecast that the country is headed into a "serious" relief situation next winter. Chairman Adams said the added funds for another month of WPA operations would give Congress more time next session to consider supplemental needs.

Other Moves by Group.

In other quarters it was learned the sub-committee also:

Retained the House requirement that the President must approve projects allotted funds by the WPA, although appropriations would be made directly to the agency.

Slashed the $100,000,000 provided by the House for RFC loans for rural electrification to $25,000,000.

Restored $6,000,000 in funds for the Treasury to continue auditing of WPA outlays, and eliminated the House provision for WPA to set up its own accounting office.

Refused to eliminate the House section permitting PWA advances to States and communities over and above their legal debt limitations, and permission for 25-year leasing of Federal projects to such communities.

The prohibition on PWA loans for construction of public plants to compete with privately-owned facilities would deny further funds for this purpose so long as the private utilities were publicly regulated.

Sharp Contest Expected.

The amendment was expected to be contested sharply by the PWA and Tennessee Valley Authority, whose projects compete on many fronts with private utilities, and which have battled in the courts for their right to continue them.

Gadsden promised the group the utilities would provide "a mighty machine for creating jobs and spreading social benefits" if the Government would cease competition with private power.

The utilities representative said the chief obstacle to creating "a great job pool" in the power industry was investor fear of further Federal duplication of existing private facilities. He promised "full co-operation" of the utilities in returning men to work if the Government would end public competition.

"Stop duplication of facilities by Federal subsidy and much lost confidence will be restored," he said.

The sub-committee rejected another recommendation of Gadsden that it strike out the House provision for the PWA to build and lease projects to public agencies disqualified from borrowing because of legal debt limitations.

All changes voted by the sub-committee are subject to review by the full committee at its meeting this morning. The spending bill will go to the Senate floor for action Monday.

Over 200 to Take Part In May Festival Today

More than 200 children will take part in the thirty-sixth May Festival at Barney Neighborhood House, 470 N street Southwest this afternoon. Seven Maypole dances and the crowning of a queen were on the program.

The Mothers' Club will furnish supper to those who wish to remain for the evening performance. Music will be by the United States Army Band.

Rose Langdon Kept Off Stand; U. S. Rests Case

her bedroom by Langdon were fired from the same weapon.

The Government, however, failed to produce the now famous "mystery gun." It failed also to offer in evidence the .25-caliber shell Langdon claimed to have found in a coffee cup in the Limerick kitchen.

This shell, said witnesses, is missing. Fowler said he had not seen it since March 28 of this year. There was no explanation as to how the shell disappeared, or to whom it was entrusted.

It was also Fowler's opinion that the bullets in question—the death slug and the one taken from the floor—were not fired from either of the two .25-caliber automatics seized from Langdon when he was first arrested in 1931.

Refusal of the court to permit Mrs. Langdon to testify blasted the prosecution's final "surprise" offer. She was, according to reports, prepared to tell of a statement to her by her husband. It was understood that Justice O'Donoghue ruled the scheduled evidence out on grounds it was a confidential communication between husband wife.

Courtroom spectators craned their necks as the attractive blond woman was escorted to the witness chair following the noon recess. Not once did Mrs. Langdon glance toward her husband seated at the counsel table and as she took the stand he turned his head and fixed his eyes on an object across the room.

Mrs. Langdon said she married the defendant in Chelsea, Mass., in May, 1919. They have a 20-year-old daughter, she added. Her testimony was interrupted after she had been on the stand less than one minute. Counsel for both sides approached the judge's bench. A long conference followed. Finally Wilson stepped back and addressing the court said:

"I offer the proposed testimony of this woman."

"I object," said Kelly.

"Objection sustained," ruled Justice O'Donoghue.

"That is all, step down," Wilson told Mrs. Langdon.

She was whisked from the courthouse and returned to the hiding place where authorities have kept her since her arrival from New York several weeks ago.

Talked to Langdon in Cell.

Yesterday's courtroom drama was provided by another Government "surprise" witness. He was Robert M. Miller, dapper, aggressive former convict. His nonchalant, evasive manner of testifying and inability to recall specific dates and facts brought repeated snickers from the crowded court. Deputy marshals were forced repeatedly to rap for order during his story.

Miller, using the name of John Penn, said he was employed by Lieut. Floyd Truscott, of the Metropolitan Police, principal investigator in the re-opened Limerick case, to make friends with Langdon whil he was held in jail at New Haven, Conn., earlier this year.

The one-time penitentiary inmate, who admitted a prison record in three States, said he was paid $3 a day for the stool-pigeon job.

At the behest of Truscott, Miller testified he left Washington on January 10 and was committed to the same jail with Langdon on a trumped-up charge of breaking and entering box cars.

He remained two months in a cell adjoining the one where Langdon was awaiting trial on charges of attempting to wreck a train, Miller said.

"Did there come a time when you identified yourself to Langdon?" asked Wilon.

"Yes, sir."

"How did you do it?"

"I told him I was a hard guy from the border who knew gunmen ir. Texas and New York."

Miller said he talked frequently with Langdon, but denied he was under instruction to secure any particular information.

"Did he, Langdon, discuss himself with you?" inquired Wilson.

"Yes, sir."

"Did there come a time when you discussed with him the matter of one man killing another—that is, murder?"

"Yes."

"Did you at one time tell Langdon that after you got the first one the rest are easy?"

"Yes. One time I told him of shooting a rat that was disposed of and told him after you got the first one, the rest are easy."

"What did he say?"

"He said 'Don't worry, I've already got my first one.'"

After a time, Miller said, he was able to bring the Limerick case into his conversations with Langdon. At one point, he quoted Langdon as saying:

"The Limerick case will never be solved."

Langdon, Miller declared, told of intimate relations with Beulah and described trips with her into nearby section of Maryland.

"I wish," the defendant was quoted as saying, "I had hung on a little longer in Washington, D. C., and I wouldn't be in the mess I'm in now."

"He meant, he wished he had hung on to the police job," Miller explained.

Under cross-examination by Kelly, Miller admitted he had served jail terms for burglary, assault and smuggling.

"As a matter of fact," thundered Kelly, "Langdon new you were a plant in the New Haven jail, and told you to quit pestering him, didn't he?"

"No. I'd have been in a tough spot if he knew I was a plant," answered Miller.

The witness, pressed for details by defense counsel, was unable to remember exactly how the charge against him was disposed of or how many times he was taken into court. He said he was fined for court costs, but didn't know who paid the fine.

Shaking his fist in the air, Kelly shouted:

"The only thing you can remember is being sent up there to get Langdon to make some statement to you about the Limerick case, is that it?"

"No. Not exactly that."

"That's all," said Kelly, slumping into his chair.

To support testimony of Donald Boyer, a previous witness and milkman who served the Limerick neighborhood, that he heard the two shots he described as coming from the house the night Beulah was killed, Wilson called Lieut. Truscott to describe certain tests that were made recently at the old murder scene.

Truscott told how he and Lieut. Fowler determined that shots could be heard at a distance of 250 feet. Truscott said he stood on the site where the Limerick house once stood at 18 Nineteenth street southeast and Fowler fired several shots in the closed basement of a house on the corner of Nineteenth and A streets, where the milkman said he was standing.

The shots, fired at intervals of 15 seconds, with a .25-caliber automatic, could be heard distinctly where he stood, Truscott testified.

Earlier in the day, Inspector Edward J. Kelly and Lieut. Robert Pierce testified to events during the first investigations of the Limerick case. Inspector Kelly said Langdon denied he killed the girl and Lieut. Pierce told of numerous complaints received by police about the Limerick house.

"THE PLOUGH AND THE STARS."
Elbert A. Wickes presents the Abbey Theater Players in the tragedy in four acts by Sean O'Casey, under the management of F. R. Higgins.
THE CAST:

Comdt. Jack Clitheroe	F. J. McCormick
Nora Clitheroe	Eileen Crowe
Peter Flynn	M. J. Dolan
The Young Covey	Denis O'Dea
Fluther Good	Barry Fitzgerald
Bessie Burgess	Maureen Delany
Mrs. Gogan	May Craig
Mollser	Aideen O'Connor
Captain Brennan	Joseph Linnane
Lieut. Langon	U. Wright
Rosie Redmond	Ria Mooney
A Barman	Austin Meldon

In "The Plough and the Stars," Sean O'Casey has combined with a vein of rich comedy the tragic pathos of women whose men dedicate their lives to patriotic service, strife and death in behalf of causes they deem greater than love. He has welded his divergent elements of drama into a play that has stood the test of years and, while Irish in locale and treatment, is universal in its appeal and analysis of the indefensible havoc wrought upon the innocent by war.

The scene of the play is a tenement district in Dublin; the time, during the Irish Uprising of 1913 and 1916, the period of the play extending from November of one year to Easter week of the next.

During this brief interval havoc is wrought in the home of the Clitheroes. Jack is a commandant in the forces fighting for liberty; Nora, his wife, recognizes no other thing in her life but her love for her husband. His call to duty and her futile call to his heart supply the basis of the play's major theme and dominant purpose. About this central theme are woven homely studies of lowly people caught in the mesh of events with which they cannot cope. It is a vigorous, a compelling and a tragic treatise.

Last night's cast, as they always do gave the play a realistic and believable interpretation, reading O'Casey's occasionally lengthy perorations with a full measure of meaning. Barry Fitzgerald's Fluther Good, the ineffectual tippler, was the comedy highlight of the performance. F. J. McCormick, Eileen Crowe, May Craig and Maureen Delany were not far behind. The remaining roles were portrayed with admirable skill and balance.

The engagement will come to an end tonight, with "The Far Off Hills," the bill for today's matinee and "Drama at Inish" at night.

side everything. In other words, they let us down badly. This was not a new experience, by the way."

"The only question now is," he continued, "whether, in order to save the State Department from the humiliation of acknowledging its error of leadership or of being told by Congress that the State Department guessed wrong, we should put an end to this policy which has turned out so differently from what was expected."

He denied Secretary Hull's contention that there are risks for the United States in changing its policy. "The civil war in Spain has been going on for months," he said, "before the Administration decided to change our policy toward that war. Change now, in the middle of the war, would only embarrass the British government."

He declared the element of risk was avoided in his resolution by the provision that no goods or materials sent to Spain shall be owned by Americans or carried in American ships.

The civil war clauses in the neutrality act have done much, he said, to raise doubt about the value of the whole neutrality law.

The Administration," he added, "which has always wanted the President to have as free a hand as he had during the days in which we were being pulled into the World War, has been against the neutrality law. Its own mistake about Spain has served to rally opposition to the whole law. It would be ironic and tragic if the country should be convinced that we had better leave everything to father, just because father made this one horrible mistake of trusting England too much. It may well be that the repeal of the whole neutrality law will be the goal of those who refuse now to eliminate the only part of it which has invited criticism."

At another point he said:

"Again, the aggressor nations of Italy and Germany, as well as England, their new found ally and abettor, owe the United States billions of dollars, which they refuse to pay. Spain, their victim, owes our Government not a penny. Nor is Spain asking us for loans. It asks only the right to spend its own money here for goods to be carried away without risking American ships or security. Where is our reason gone these days?"

Commodity Loans Cost $83,987,495

By the Associated Press.

Congress learned yesterday that the Federal Government had lost $83,987,495 in agricultural commodity loan operations of the Commodity Credit Corporation since the agency's creation in 1933.

The loss was made known in a communication President Roosevelt sent to the lawmakers, asking that $94,285,404 be appropriated to "provide for the restoration of the capital impairment" of the corporation.

A budget bureau statement accompanying the communication showed that the bulk of the losses grew out of shrinkage in the market value of cotton, corn, tobacco, turpentine and other commodities put up as collateral for price-bolstering loans.

Car Thief Suspect Caught After Chase

A five-block chase last night by Motorcycle Policeman Anthony Ritchie ended in the arrest of a 23-year-old colored automobile theft suspect and the recovery of a real estate man's new automobile.

Lloyd R. Turner, realtor, 3553 Sixteenth street northwest, told police he had parked his car at Water and G streets southwest and entered a store to buy cigarets, when he heard the motor of his sedan being raced. He ran towards the car, already in motion, and then jumped for safety as the colored man drove directly at him. Private Ritchie, cruising half a block away, heard Turner's shouts and chased the car. The suspect surendered when the policeman drew his gun.

2 Rob Liquor Store.

Two colored men robbed Clark Walker, liquor store proprietor, in the 1800 block of Fifteenth street northwest of $300 last night, the police reported. As they left, one noticed a gold-wrist watch Walker was wearing, and took it from him. They escaped in an automobile.

posits, Treasury Department. The conclusions reached in this survey, he said, were:

"That the results accomplished by the said office are not commensurate with the cost thereof; that its functions and duties are principally duplications of functions and duties regularly required of the several departments and establishments of the Federal Government under standard procedures, and in the interest of economy and efficiency such office could in the near future be discontinued without harmful effect to the financial operations of the Government."

Morgenthau In Reply.

Secretary Morgenthau's reply was contained in a letter sent yesterday to Representative Cochran (Democrat), of Missouri, chairman of the House Committee on Expenditures in the Executive Departments.

Morgenthau said that Elliott's displeasure was aroused, not by any defects in the Treasury's system of accounting for emergency funds, but by its merits.

"He charges that too much is being done and that it is too well done and that thus too little grist is left for the mill of the General Accounting Office," Morgenthau said.

"This must inevitably lend new weight to the suspicion that the General Accounting Office seeks to thwart attempts to provide adequate administrative accounting and to tear down accounting safeguards in the executive branch of the Government in order that the General Accounting Office may have sufficient grounds for complaint to prove the value of its audits.

20,000 Errors a Month.

"Whether or not this suspicion is justified, it is entirely plain that in this instance the General Accounting Office is endeavoring to thrust itself into an administrative function between the President and executive agencies for whose operations he is responsible, and to deprive him of records which he deems essential to the orderly and safe conduct of the public business."

Morgenthau said that the Treasury accounts office detected on an average of 20,000 errors a month. These, he said, are detected before payment, and therefore protect not only the Government, but the certifying officers. He then cited figures to show that this was a far better record than that of the General Accounting Office.

Tense Europe Shifts Forces In North Africa

By the Associated Press.

London, May 20.—European powers warily shuttled warships and troops in imposing numbers in the vital Mediterranean area tonight while diplomats bickered over the Spanish war.

France and Italy, suspending conversations for friendship pact because each backs a different side in Spain, prepared for almost simultaneous maneuvers in their bordering African colonies of Tunisia and Libya.

Diplomats were frankly worried over the rapidly developing, tense situation but refused to express open alarm.

Hopes in Committee.

Great Britain hoped all difficulty would be ironed out at a meeting of a subcommittee of the international "hands-off Spain" group called for next Thursday.

Significant developments of the day included:

Seven French cruisers and 18 destroyers anchored off Bizerta, naval base of the French protectorate of Tunisia, for combined maneuvers with the air forces.

Four German warships—the pocket battleship Admiral Scheer and the torpedo boats Iltis, Wolf and Tiger—will stop at Gibraltar tomorrow on what officials labeled a routine call.

Sir Neville Henderson, British Ambassador to Berlin, called at the German foreign office because of reports of large German troop movements toward the frontiers.

"Routine Training."

It was reported Sir Neville was assured the movements were only a part of routine training—transference of troops from town barracks to country camps.

This development came at a time when Germany's designs toward Czechoslovakia rank with the Spanish problem among Europe's great worries.

Meanwhile, with Premier Mussolini apparently ignoring French and British overtures, a Fascist "Day of solidarity with nationalist (insurgent) Spain" was ordered for May 29 throughout Italy and her empire.

British Work on France.

Lord Plymouth chairman of the 27-nation nonintervention committee, nevertheless called his nine-nation sub-committeee for a session next Thursday in an effort to get the 22-month-old civil war ended on a purely Spanish basis.

Britain hoped by calling the subcommittee to hasten arrangements by which France would close the Pyrenees frontier while nonintervention commissions arranged for withdrawal of foreign fighters from Spain.

By so doing she expected to save her own paper partnership with Italy and rebuild the broken structure of the Italo-French friendship negotiations.

Franco Begins Furious Drive For Albocacer

By the United Press.

Morella, Spain, May 20.—Gen. Franco's mixed columns, sweeping through the battered sides of a loyalist salient 10 miles south of Morella, today opened a three-pronged offensive against Albocacer, near the Mediterranean.

The Fifty-fifth Insurgent Division of African Moors and Navarrese under Gen. Jose Adrado struck south through mountain snows in the van of the assault on Albocacer, which lies at the eastern end of the government's Teruel - Mediterranean line.

To the north and west two other insurgent armies, having captured the highway towns of Villafranca and Castelfort to open up lines of communication for Franco, mopped up around the Picayo and Ares mountain peaks.

The only important foothold held by the loyalists north of Albocacer after the smashing of the 16-mile-deep salient imperiling the Morella-Valencia highways was Ares de Maestre, between insurgent-held Villafranca and Gati. The loyalists holding out desperately there were under artillery fire from three sides.

Perpignan, France, May 20 (AP).—Twenty-four French trucks crossed the Franco-Spanish border from Barcelona today with a cargo of gold which an escort of Spanish government officials said was destined for the United States to pay for supplies.

(The United States neutrality law prohibits the shipment of armaments to government Spain, but does not apply to foodstuffs and other supplies.)

The value of the gold was estimated between 75,000,000 to 100,000,000 francs ($2,096,250 to $2,795,200).

'Hungarian Hitler' Goes to Hoosegow

Budapest, May 20 (AP).—Ferenc Szalasi, "Hungarian Hitler," was sentenced today to two weeks in jail on a charge of "incitement against the constitution."

Testimony showed he and others published and distributed 50,000 copies of a pamphlet containing the statement:

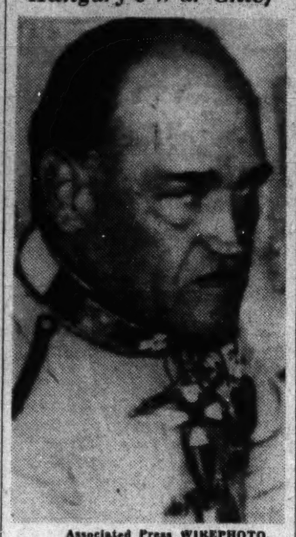

"The Hungarian people should be asked in a plebiscite whether they wish to retain the existing constitution or desire national socialist rule."

Unconscious Humorist Quits Reich for Health

Basel, Switzerland, May 20 (AP).—A young German who recently escaped a concentration camp sought a new home in Switzerland today, all because of his name—Adolf Fuehrer.

The refugee, who formerly was general manager of a Catholic organization in Cologne, said that each time he told a Nazi officer his name he was threatened with punishment for mocking Hitler.

Britain Is Held Asking U. S. Aid To Halt Japan

of the Yangtze Valley and limit her victory to North China.

The British Ambassador, Sir Archibald Kerr, has been in intermittent conference with French and American officials since Tuesday. A meeting was held last night, lasting two hours, after which a second conference was held between the British, French and American consuls general.

Ostensibly, persons close to the conferees said, the meetings were held merely to discuss co-operation between the powers for preservation of the principles of the "open door" and equal opportunity for all nations in event Japan consolidates her control of the Yangtze Valley by taking the Hankow area—the military heart of China.

In reality, it was said, the British have in mind vigorous intervention, although they have little hope Washington will agree to join with London and Paris in any program of joint action. It was said the British would be satisfied if the United States would agree to follow a program generally parallel to that of London and Paris.

May Be Only Feint.

Another suggestion was that the story was circulated for purposes of "sobering" the Japanese, who remember the triple intervention by Russia, France and Germany as preventing them from achieving the full fruits of their victory over China late in the last century.

All the officials concerned in last night's conferences refused to comment. They denied persistent reports a first move would be to increase the naval strength of the powers in Shangaai. The arrival here of the French naval commander, Admiral Lebigot, on his flagship, the cruiser Lamotte-Picquet, was described merely as a "coincidence," as was the fact the garrison of French provincials in the Shanghai French concession was enlarged by a fresh regiment from French Indo-China.

Clarence Gauss, United States consul general, now is on home leave and it was thought he might be reporting to the State Department on the local situation.

Other developments in the fast-moving train of events following Japan's capture of Suchow, key city in China's central defense line, included:

In Hankow the Chinese war office showed newspaper correspondents "documentary proof" to support their announcement Chinese warplanes had flown over Japan proper and dropped leaflets addressed to the Japanese common people and designed to convince them the Japanese armed forces never can conquer China. Tokyo ridiculed the story as "preposterous" and designed to offset the blow to Chinese morale caused by the loss of Suchow.

300,000 "Liquidated"

The newspaper Nichi Nichi of Tokyo said one Chinese plane flew over the town of Kumagun in the prefecture of Kumamoto on Kyushu island Friday, 1,000 miles from Tokyo and dropped leaflets addressed to farmers and laborers. This was the first Japanese confirmation of the report.

Japanese war minister, Gen. Sugiyama told newspapermen in Tokyo the fall of Suchow would not end Chinese resistance and the Japanese forces in China would continue to Hankow "and further if necessary."

A Japanese army spokesman here said more than 300,000 Chinese soldiers, including 70,000 of Gen. Chiang's best German-trained infantrymen, had been trapped by the four Japanese armies operating in the Suchow area and were being "liquidated."

Cedillo Bands Fight Mexican Aviation Forces

By the United Press

San Luis Potosi, Mexico, May 20. Fighting between "bandits" and government air forces at Ciudad Fernandez, 25 miles southeast of here, was reported today as additional Federal troops were ordered to this state to avert a threatened uprising.

The railway union telegraphed headquarters in Mexico City that bandits, armed by Gen. Saturnino Cedillo, war lord of San Luis Potosi, who was denounced by President Lazaro Cardenas for plotting a revolution, cut the railway line on the Rio Verde branch of the Tampico-San Luis Potosi line.

A train which left Tampico yesterday failed to arrive here. The crew was unable to communicate their plight because telegraph and telephone lines also had been severed.

Two government planes found the stalled train and the bandits, and dispersed the latter with machine gun fire. Authorities gave scant military importance to the incident.

As revolt rumblings grew louder, the department of national defense announced that ten regiments, comprising approximately 10,000 officers and men, were in this state. An aircraft battery and a section of the signal corps also entrained for this city.

He departed for Vera Cruz by way of the British-owned Mexican railway. At Vera Cruz he will board a ship for New Orleans, La.

By the United Press.

Laredo, Tex., May 20.—Rumors that Gen. Saturnino Cedillo, of San Luis Potosi state in Mexico, might be following his daughters by airplane to the United States, were circulated in the Mexican colony here today.

Cedillo's five daughters arrived today, accompanied by Juan Luna, his brother-in-law, who indicated he was planning a trip to San Diego, Calif., to confer with Plutarco Elias Calles, former Mexican dictator.

Reports of Cedillo's flight said the general eventually would go to see the exiled former President.

Members of the party which included the five Cedillo daughters left Laredo announcing they would go to San Antonio. Soon after leaving Laredo the two cars changed routes and headed for Brownsville.

By the Associated Press.

Mexico, apparently seeking to improve recently strained relations with the United States, moved yesterday to slash the tariff barriers between the two countries.

A Treasury spokesman immediately called the action a friendly gesture and said it would help clear the way for negotiations if Mexico sought new silver concessions here.

The American Commercial Attache at Mexico City cabled the Commerce Department that Minister Suarez had asked the Mexican Congress virtually to wipe out the sharp tariff increases it imposed last January. The January duties, which affected primarily the United States merchandise, were moderated in part May 1.

The Treasury, in apparent retaliation for the tariff increases and for Mexico's expropriation of American oil properties, on March 27 suspended an agreement to buy 5,000,000 ounces of silver monthly from the Mexican treasury.

However, Secretary Morgenthau already has shown signs of relenting by purchasing Mexico silver offered via the open market in New York. Formerly the Mexican treasury sold silver directly to the United States Treasury, saving brokerage fees and other small costs. Resumption of the agreement would restore these savings and give Mexico the advantage of a fixed silver sale quota.

Under either method, the price is governed by daily bids posted by the Treasury in New York. Prior to suspension of the Mexican agreement this bid remained at 45 cents an ounce for more than two years. But in the two days after the suspension order, Morgenthau dropped the price to 43 cents and has kept it there.

At the State Department, officials expected to learn more of Mexico's intentions when Francisco Najera, Mexican Ambassador, returns to Washington from Mexico City Monday. Josephus Daniels, American Ambassador to Mexico, was here this week and conferred with Morgenthau, among others.

Significance also was attached to the tariff action because of Mexico's rupture of diplomatic relations with Great Britain last week after Britain had protested expropriation of her nationals' oil properties.

Daladier Assures America of French Devotion to Peace

Paris, May 20 (U.P.).—Premier Daladier spoke by radio to the United States tonight, assuring Americans that France is determined to maintain peace on the basis of justice and rejects any "exaltation of force."

Daladier, although he made no direct mention of Italy or Premier Benito Mussolini in his speech over the Columbia network, said France shares common ideals with the United States that "democracy can best serve the aspirations" of peace.

Playwrights' Duel Ends With Bourdet Blaming Wet Grounds for His Defeat

By the United Press.

Paris, May 20.—Edouard Bourdet, a famous playwright, but a bum swordsman, nursed a bandaged right arm tonight and lamented that wet grounds kept him from thrusting his steel through Henry Bernstein's ear.

They fought a duel today and Bourdet stalked off the field of honor, as they call it here, with blood dripping from his arm. But the wound was by no means serious, the doctors said.

Serious, however, by all means, were the wounds to Bourdet's feelings. He refused to make up with his opponent, and he hinted that Paris has not heard the last of it all. The referee halted the duel at the first trickle of blood, robbing Bourdet of another chance at Bernstein's ear. Bourdet doesn't think much of this either.

When not capering about the grass with an epee foil, guarding his ear from Bourdet, Bernstein is a playwright—67 and revered as the Dostoievsky of France. He wrote the play "Judith" for the Comedie Francaise, of which Bourdet—when not trying to skewer people's ears—is director.

They argued. Bourdet, Bernstein claimed, was going to rush the play through to production without rehearsals. Finally Bernstein decided that he had been insulted. Both are Frenchmen, so there was nothing for it but a duel to death, or ears, anyway.

The duel, in the traditional manner, was to have been fought at dawn. Bernstein has fought eight duels and knows the ropes. Bourdet, being a first starter, overslept. So it was not until 1 p. m. that they faced each other, in shirt sleeves, but with their hats on, because it was raining. They looked very valiant. Their seconds looked very wet.

Due, doubtless, to the muddy track, the first round was slow. But the second, voila!

Bourdet, hopping about nimbly, with quick, short thrusts, narrowly missed Bernstein's face and left ear. A moment later his epee almost reached Bernstein's ample breast but he missed again. His arm was nicked. In an instant Bourdet was back on the offensive. But, just as his foil found an opening to Bernstein's ear, he slipped. He was down!

Bernstein stepped back and lowered his blade.

"That's all, boys" said the referee, who not only looked wet; he was wet.

Filipino Autonomy In 1946 Is Proposed

By the Associated Press.

Political independence for the Philippine Islands in 1946 and economic separation from the United States by 1960 were proposed last night as the basis for future Philippine-American relations by the joint preparatory committee on Philippine affairs.

The committee, headed by Ambassador John A. MacMurray, wound up a year of study by signing a report outlining recommendations to Congress.

The economic adjustment would be accomplished by forcing Philippine products entering the United States to pay a tax equivalent to 5 per cent of prevailing foreign duty on such products.

Dr. Bowerman Carries On.

In ordinary circumstances retirement of public servants not later than the age of 70 is a sound rule. Rigid application of that provision in the case of Dr. George F. Bowerman, however, would have worked an unreasonable hardship upon the community. For Dr. Bowerman's services as District librarian will probably be even more valuable during the next year than at any time in his long and distinguished career in that capacity.

For many years Dr. Bowerman has worked diligently in behalf of a new and adequate central library for Washington. Not until this spring, however, was he able to convince Congress that this desirable project should be undertaken. The work of planning the new library is now under way. In many respects that is the most important task ever assumed by the District's library system. It would have been a blunder to have deprived the District of Dr. Bowerman's experience and judgment during this period.

There is also a satisfying personal element in the extension of the librarian's period of active service. He has worked against great difficulties to develop and uphold high library standards for the people of Washington. Thanks to President Roosevelt's discriminating judgment Dr. Bowerman will remain in control during the period in which one of his cherished dreams begins to materialize.

The Stagnant Utilities.

The transfer from private to public ownership of important electrical properties in the Knoxville area appears assured, following sporadic negotiations extending over several years. It is difficult to pass judgment on the fairness of the purchase offer made by the TVA and the City of Knoxville in view of the pressure upon the company. But the terms are better than those originally suggested and the final price set is higher than the valuation of the property for regulatory purposes.

While the consummation of this particular deal creates hopes of a peaceful and orderly general retreat of the private utilities from the Tennessee Valley, it provides no assurance against struggle and conflict in other parts of the country. On the contrary the pump-priming bill appropriates huge sums for PWA projects without any safeguards against the duplication of existing facilities for the generation, transmission and duplication of power.

This bill not only continues the gifts and loans which enable the Government to subsidize local utilities, but also permits PWA Administrator Ickes to build and lease such projects to local bodies unable to borrow because of debt restrictions. It is indeed an anomalous situation for the TVA to be actively encouraging purchases of private utilities to prevent wasteful duplication of existing facilities while Congress is considering legislation that would enable Secretary Ickes to finance new projects admittedly competitive and duplicative.

Philip H. Gadsden, chairman of the committee of utility executives, when testifying before the Senate sub-committee on appropriations referred to the "incongruity" of encouraging Federal construction and leasing of duplicate facilities in a measure designed to encourage re-employment and recovery. He quoted in support of his views the opinion of Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, who recently said: "The stimulus to utility construction would be more effective if the relations of government to the industry could be definitely determined. Personally, I believe that public funds should not be used in any way to subsidize public competition with private industry, if this can possibly be avoided without detriment to the general public interest."

As a matter of fact, the public utility field offers a very promising available outlet for new capital investment, given propitious conditions. There is need, and there is room, for profitable employment of huge sums in the replacement, modernization and extension of plant and equipment. Naturally such investment outlays will not be made so long as the industry is uncertain about the future policies of the Federal Government. Given assurances of protection against subsidized competition, investors would provide funds for purchase of supplies and employment of labor on a great scale. The resultant stimulus to recovery would probably be much greater than that provided by execution of the projects on the PWA waiting list.

The Relief Muddle.

Both in Cleveland and Chicago many families would today be starving except for meager rations distributed by the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation. The proximate explanation of this desperate state of affairs is simply that there is no more relief money in local treasuries. These two great industrial centers, and others in not much better case, have utilized all the funds provided by the State and city governments. Until more appropriations are voted the emergency will remain acute. And if the depression continues additional local relief will be only a palliative.

In Chicago relief payments to over a quarter-million people have been stopped. In Cleveland the city relief commissioner estimates that from one-fourth to one-third of the total population is dependent either on direct relief or on WPA work. He reports that the relief load is heavier than it was in the 1932 depression. In view of the billions of dollars poured out by the Federal Government to solve the unemployment problem this is a gloomy picture. It is not brightened by the fact that no really constructive action is being taken to cope with these intolerable conditions.

The relief bill now before Congress makes no attempt to deal effectively with the problems created by the concentration of great numbers of unemployed workers and their dependents in our industrial centers. It is all too evident that the additional billions which Congress is preparing to vote for work relief in various guises will take care of only a small proportion of the Nation's employable idle. The others will have to depend upon local governments and private charity for aid. And of course the Federal Government makes no attempt to assist unemployables. This is exclusively a local responsibility.

The present plight of Cleveland and Chicago emphasizes the basic deficiencies of the WPA system. In spite of the enormous cost it does not take care of acute local emergencies. The only central agency capable of rendering first aid in a community where relief funds are exhausted is the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation. And its primary purpose is to remove price-demoralizing agricultural surpluses from the markets. Consequently, the supplies distributed to the needy are not bought with much regard for relief requirements.

In theory it is no doubt better to provide relief in the form of jobs rather than as a dole. But we are confronted today by the imperative need of using every relief dollar efficiently. Everyone knows that this is not being done at present.

Instead of allocating funds for Federal projects to communities that might be able to take care of a great proportion of the local unemployed there should be more direct assistance in the form of grants-in-aid to particularly hard-hit areas. Cities where closed factories have turned many thousands of workers into the streets may well be unable to cope with the resultant relief problem. In case of devastating fires and floods, emergency aid is provided by private and public agencies alike. The same procedure is called for when depression results in an abnormally high degree of local unemployment.

Under adequate supervision, and with proper safeguards to prevent local governments from evading their responsibilities, the Federal Government could provide much more relief at much less cost by directly supplementing the limited resources of hard-pressed communities. To increase the scope of the WPA is a bungling and extravagant way of meeting these local emergencies. The WPA affords no real solution of the problem of unemployment. It is necessarily discriminatory as a form of relief. As pointed out elsewhere on this page today it inevitably lends itself to political abuse.

The local relief crises in Cleveland and Chicago point a clear-cut moral. They symbolize the inevitable consequence of a high degree of industrial centralization combined with the instability of the economic mechanism. The ultimate remedy for mass unemployment within restricted areas probably lies in decentralization of industries and in various steps which can be taken to stabilize employment. But these are long-range basic reforms. Starving masses of unemployed require immediate attention.

The Federal unemployment relief system should be adapted to meet the obvious needs of the situation. One distinct function is to provide employment through the development of carefully planned public works. Another distinct function is to furnish emergency aid in direct relief to communities unable to provide for their own. The trouble with the WPA is that it confuses the two functions. It seeks to provide employment and relief simultaneously. It can do neither efficiently, and it is fabulously costly in its failure.

No Excuse For Silence.

With access to TVA files assured, Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, deposed chairman of that agency, no longer has an excuse for maintaining a "contumacious" silence. His steadfast refusal at the President's inquiry to substantiate charges of fraud and corruption reflecting upon his former colleagues created a bad impression and gave rise to a suspicion that his claims may not be well-founded.

Regardless of the character of Dr. Morgan's testimony, however, this aspect of the inquiry should not engross the attention of the investigating Congressmen to the exclusion of other more important questions. Indeed, it is to be hoped that his charges will be quickly disposed of. While it is important from the viewpoint of those involved in the personal controversy that charges and counter-charges should be fully examined, the country is primarily concerned with the future of the TVA and the policies to be followed by it.

The really vital questions to be considered in the course of any thorough-going investigation relate to the development of a national power policy. It is upon this phase of the inquiry that the committee should expend most of its energies.

Political Dividends.

It is axiomatic that many voters are influenced by benefits from the Federal Treasury. And in obtaining a scientific measure of the extent of this influence the Institute of Public Opinion has rendered an important service. The poll analyzed in The Post yesterday clearly shows that the outpouring of public money gives the spending group a tremendous political advantage.

Of the persons on relief replying to the Institute's poll 80 per cent cast their ballots for President Roosevelt in 1936. A cross-section of those receiving home and land loans showed a 73 per cent vote for the New Deal. By contrast, the poll shows that the President received 57 per cent of the votes cast by those receiving no direct financial aid from the Government.

These percentages must be considered in relation to the vast number of persons now obtaining Federal benefits. In its report on the pump-priming bill the Committee on Appropriations estimated that 20,112,000 persons were receiving relief works-program employment and emergency employment from all sources during March of this year. To this vast number must be added farmers drawing AAA benefits, and many other citizens obtaining loans or other forms of aid from Washington's multiplicity of spending and lending agencies.

More than one-third of the population voted in the 1936 election. If that proportion held for persons on relief, the President received a majority of more than 4,000,000 votes in this group alone. National elections may be swung with a fraction of these votes. When the other beneficiaries are added, they obviously give the party in power an overwhelming margin of strength.

That problem would be exceedingly serious for a democracy even if it could be demonstrated that Federal benefits are distributed without any reference to partisan objectives. But the record indicates no such impartiality. In the minority report on the spending bill Administrator Hopkins' own figures were used to show that WPA rolls expand during political campaigns and contract during the same periods of non-election years. Apparently they have been more sensitive to the political needs of the Administration than to economic conditions.

A study in the current issue of Life indicates, moreover, that a large part of this money has been spent in the West, which holds the balance of political power. Nevada's per capita share of relief and recovery spending amounts to $1,114 during the last five years, compared with $124 for North Carolina, where the Democratic Party is thoroughly intrenched. No doubt there are many reasons for this variation. Yet it is impossible to escape the conclusion that, consciously or unconsciously, the Administration makes political capital out of relief spending. That is one of many reasons for decentralizing relief expenditures, subject to adequate supervision of the disbursement of Federal funds.

China's Bloodless Victory.

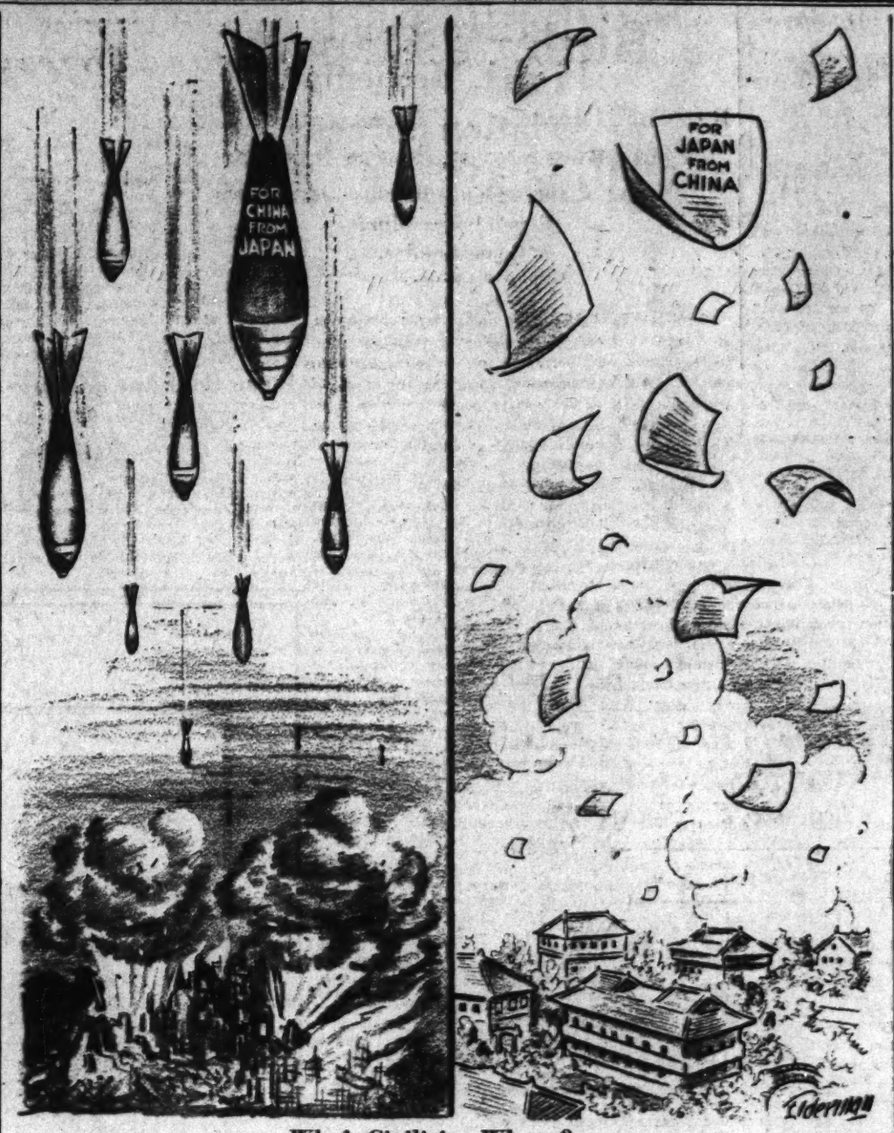

Repeatedly, since the undeclared war began, Japanese planes have set out from their bases on errands of death and destruction. Shanghai, Hangchow, Canton, Nanking, Hankow—these and other populous Chinese centers have been bombed unmercifully by the invaders, with frightful casualties ensuing.

China now claims a retaliation, of a type which puts Japan's vaunted civilization to shame. The reported flight of two Chinese war planes from Hankow to Nagasaki is an intimation of what Chinese aviators could do to the flimsy Japanese cities if it should become necessary for China to exert her full strength. But no one in Nagasaki or nearby towns was injured by a bombardment in which only leaflets fell from the skies. The aerial visitors were intent on preaching not the gospel of death but the rule of reason to their enemies.

The flight to Nagasaki was a perfect gesture and perfectly timed. In Japan the signal is being awaited to celebrate the taking of Suchow, the cutting of the Lunghai railroad and the long-deferred "final" victory of the Japanese invaders. But that prospective celebration is ruined by the new demonstration of the latent strength and moral self-control of the Chinese. Certainly few Americans will miss the contrast between this episode and the deliberate insanity of the Japanese attack on the gunboat Panay.

On this occasion China has held her fire and it was the essence of wisdom that she chose to do so. It emphasizes the vast superiority of China's civilization over the parvenu nation which is trying to subject a great people by military force. Once again China, in her relations with Japan, is playing the role of teacher.

Miss Edith Kroupa, of the University of Vienna, is trying to find out how old the earth is. We wouldn't know, but we will go so far as to venture the opinion that it's old enough to know better.

Psychic Experiences.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:
In The Post columns of May 17 Edward Wolesensky in defense of science deplores the gross ignorance of some people who "without a particle of evidence and contrary to their own experience" believe that it is possible for them to "communicate with other human beings without the use of their vocal or other bodily organs."

Why, of course such things are possible! Library shelves are stacked with books that give instances of it. And surely this correspondent has heard of the Duke findings in telepathy. These findings are mathematical but are otherwise insignificant beside what goes on every day, usually between those sympathetically attuned and where some purpose is to be served. Try to find an honest person who has not had some connection with a psychic experience. All those stories are not made up.

Scientists, piqued at their inability to discover the law, gain nothing by denying the phenomena. Says Upton Sinclair in his book "Mental Radio," "It is foolish to be convinced without evidence. It is equally foolish not to be convinced with evidence." Science has discovered emanations coming from the brain. Dr. Frederic A. Gibbs, of Harvard, has discovered invisible rainbows produced by the brain. This alone is enough to postulate personality functioning apart from a body gross enough to be seen with the eye. Microscopes may not yet have revealed all of the invisible world.

Extra Air Mail Charges.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:
I note that the Postoffice Department is endeavoring to stimulate the use of the air mails through the device of an "Air Mail Week," which is now upon us. But if the department really wishes people to use the air mails more, why does it not take the obvious step of reducing the price

Indeed, why should there be any extra charge at all. Have we not the right to expect that first-class mail will automatically go forward by the quickest means? All first-class mail ought to be sent by plane whenever there would be a saving in time. With the increased volume which would result, the cost need be no greater than the present rates for rail-borne letters.

It is curious that we, who lead the world in aircraft design and production, should accept a position second to any nation in the use of aircraft for postal service. Yet Great Britain, in recent months, has adopted the practice of sending all her first-class empire mail by air, at no extra charge. A letter from London to Hongkong automatically goes by air, half way around the world, and costs only 3 cents. To send a letter from Washington to Hongkong by air, our Postoffice Department charges 70 cents.

Effect Of RFC Loans.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:
I was interested in the statements of Chairman Jesse Jones to the effect that holders of railroad securities (bondholders) would suffer no ill effects to their investments if the RFC made further loans to the carriers, the railroads further pledging their assets as collateral.

It didn't work out that way in the case of many national and State banks to which the RFC loaned moneys a few years back, on what seems to be identically the same basis

I have in mind specifically money loaned in big wads to New Jersey shore institutions to keep their doors open when subsequent events clearly indicate depositors would have been many times better off financially if the money had remained in Washington and the banks closed. Ten per cent has been the total dividends paid to depositors of such institutions and the reason is that the RFC took the bulk of prime securities as collateral as their pledge before they sent Government money down to these banks for the hopeless purpose of maintaining their operation. In other words, instead of getting somewhere near the amount they had in such banks, depositors have gotten 10 cents on the dollar. Just how well the RFC has fared in the matter of recuperation by sale of the collateral they took from these banks I do not know.

So when Mr. Jones talks about pledging railroad securities to his RFC for further loans, I have an idea that his critics who assert his real reason is to strengthen his control over railroads are not so silly as Mr. Jones makes out. And the Jersey shore situation most certainly bears me out.

The Evolution Of A Neutral.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:
A great deal has been said and written lately concerning public opinion, and, in contemplating it, one cannot help remarking how quickly and easily the public forgets and changes its opinions of a few years back.

This applies to many serious issues of today, but the most striking example just now is that afforded in the movement to lift the arms embargo against Spain. By a curious and, to many of us, inexplicable irony, the author of the resolution to lift the embargo is the same man who in 1935 headed the Senate committee investigating the munitions industry, who in that year was co-author of four resolutions on United States neutrality, involving arms embargoes, who in 1936 offered another bill for an embargo on raw materials essential for the conduct of the war and in 1937 offered another neutrality bill denying passports for travel in war zones. In the year 1937 Senator Nye also put himself on record during debate of the present neutrality act as opposed to giving the President discretion in the application of embargoes and other measures to belligerents.

The year 1935 was marked by a widespread antiwar feeling in this country. Countless books such as "Merchants of Death," "Road to War," "Iron, Blood and Profits" made their appearance to inform people in regard to the munitions industry and to discourage any tendency to profit by that industry again at the cost of another World War. The Nye committee made a far-reaching investigation of the traffic in arms and its report is one of the strongest arguments ever made against war and the European intrigue leading to it. Mr. Nye spoke earnestly and compellingly on the subject throughout the country and, in a speech on April 27, 1935, he was quoted as saying:

"It is high time we changed our policy and adopted a policy of neutrality which said that in the event of more engagement in war, it shall be unlawful for the American flag to be flown on any cargo whose destination is a nation engaged in war."

And further:

"I would still insist that the duty was upon us to give our every effort to the accomplishment of these better things, these things that might save us from the consequences of more wars. We owe something to others than ourselves."

With these sentiments many of us heartily agreed then and do so now. In the same year, during the discussion of the neutrality act and the embargo against Italy and Ethiopia, Mr. Nye was quoted as saying: "It will be impossible for Congress to form a policy later without incurring representations that such a new policy involved the taking of sides against one particular belligerent."

The joint resolution of January 8, 1937, states that during the civil war in Spain it shall be unlawful to export arms and munitions of war "to Spain or to any other foreign country for transshipment to Spain or for use of either of the opposing forces in Spain." This resolution was passed unanimously in the Senate. We can safely assume that Senator Nye either voted for the resolution or at least did not register any opposition by a negative vote.

His attitude up to the present time apparently has been that of firm opposition to the shipment of arms abroad to feed wars and to draw the United States into them. One of his arguments was that our last war was brought upon us when American ships carrying munitions to Europe ran afoul of the belligerents. From the beginning of the civil war in Spain, British ships carrying supplies to the loyalists have been attacked and sunk. Yet Senator Nye in the face of all his previous statements introduced a resolution "repealing the joint resolution . . . approved January 8, 1937, and conditionally raising the embargo against the government of Spain."

No reasonable person disputes the fact of a state of belligerency in Spain, regardless of whether it has been legally recognized or not. Senator Nye's attitude on war and shipments to belligerents is equally applicable to the condition in Spain. But he asks that "the attitude of strict neutrality maintained by the United States since the beginning of the civil war should now be altered and arms be permitted to be sent to one party. It is superfluous to discuss the merits or demerits of the Nye resolution now, but the striking thing is that the Senator has executed as sudden and as neat a reversal of position as any acrobat—and apparently without any explanation.

Today, in 1938, the popular tune has changed from absolute neutrality to active partisanship in quarrels that are strictly European.

More On Resurrection.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:
With reference to Mr. C. A. M. Wells' letter of criticism in regard to my thoughts on the "Resurrection," which appeared in The Post of May 13, I would like to add just a very few words, though I am very far from wishing to enter into any argumentative discussion.

I am perfectly well acquainted with the words of our Divine Lord, to which he referred me (together with other quotations), viz, that "all that are in the sepulchres shall hear the Voice of the Son of God, and shall come forth, etc., etc." But I believe that these words apply only to those people who at the time of the Resurrection will have just then recently died, or whose bodies will not then yet have become decomposed or disintegrated. I do not think that they at all apply to those who have died many, many years ago, whose bodies have long crumbled into dust or have been devoured by wild animals, insects, or fish at sea.

In these latter cases, some other process of resurrection will doubtless take place. St. Paul's comparison with that of the growth of a seed sounds the most feasible and satisfactory. And, moreover, his words are stamped with Divine inspiration.

If Mr Wells will look into some of the findings of the Psychical Research Society—especially the British—he will probably be convinced that the existence of the astral body has been, almost if not quite, proven to be a fact.

Jefferson Memorial Site.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir:
The President has approved the location of the Jefferson Memorial at the southeast end of the Tidal Basin. What a grand site would be the hill, close to the Virginia bank of the Potomac, which formerly was occupied by Abingdon, the birthplace of Nellie Custis. A wonderful prospect, opposite the mouth of the Anacostia River! A driver on the Mount Vernon boulevard can see the marker on the right, approximately half-way between Washington and Alexandria.

In a few years, Washington will be twice the size of the District of Columbia. Why not bear this in mind when locating the Jefferson Memorial?

Virginia And The South.

UPON two or three recent and separate occasions I have seen the question asked in print as to whether or not Virginia still is a Southern State. This surprises me. It also interests me because I am at a loss to know what advantage could be realized by considering Virginia anything except a Southern State.

One of the accounts that I recall listed the States of the "old South," the "solid South," in groups of two, associating them together because of geographical proximity and for not too clearly defined "economic reasons." Tennessee and Kentucky were listed together, North and South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama and Mississippi with Louisiana. I am unable to recall where Florida was placed. But Virginia was left conspicuously alone. Neither Maryland nor Arkansas nor Oklahoma nor Texas was mentioned at all. Whether or not the last four States wish to be called "Southern" I do not know; however, the Mason and Dixon line is just as visible today as it was in 1860.

The "economic reasons," which really are little more than agricultural reasons, for grouping certain States of the Union into twos do not seem to serve any purpose at all. If there were a benefit to be gained from such an association one could as easily say that both Virginia and North Carolina produce great quantities of tobacco, that it is impossible to tell from looking at it which comes from the two Carolinas and which from Georgia. The fine citrus fruits which grow in Florida do not happen to grow in Georgia, and by a reverse token the famous blue grass which thrives in Kentucky happens to be just about as green in Virginia.

Perhaps there are skeptical theorists who would have Northern and Western markets buy only from properly grouped States. But I can't believe that. And because it can't be believed, any grouping of the Union at all (except to speak of the North and the South and the West, and when in the West, of the East) seems pointless. Even the theorists could not conceivably deny that Virginia's whole heritage, up to the world cataclysm of 1914, was solely Southern. Since 1914 there have been improvements and additions in Virginia's industry, but most of the labor employed was born in the State. Similarly have there been improvements and additions to the Birmingham mills, to the cotton mills of the Carolinas. And even if all of this capital had come from outside the South, its presence could in no way change a map's description of "the South."

So, geographically, Virginia is Southern. And one of the strongest bulwarks against any possible change in this status is the City of Washington. Until 23 years ago the tone, the pace of life, in America's Capital was preponderantly Southern. This was true because the greater number of Washington residents had been drawn from both banks of the Potomac. With the war a new influx came to quicken the pace, but much of the quickening was merely temporary. Many of these newcomers came from the South. Whatever change was wrought they wrought on Washington, not Washington on them.

Climatically, Virginia is Southern. You have only to contrast a New England winter or a Wisconsin winter with a winter in Virginia to know this.

But the stanchest proof of the fact that Virginia is Southern lies in the people of Virginia. They have been Southern since Jamestown, since with adjectival praise Capt. John Smith described the verdure he saw on the banks of the Tidewater rivers. The ancestors of present Virginia were Southern when "States' rights" were the most fiery issue of the day. They were Southern in the War Between the States and this war was fought in some of their front yards. They are Americans now, but one remembers the past and history records it. History proceeds, with or without repeating itself, on the principles learned in the past. If it did not, civilization would have very little hope.

The day of the plantation and the faithful slave is gone forever from the South. It did not pass from Virginia and remain in the Carolinas or on the banks of the Mississippi. And it existed in Virginia when Kentucky was a county of Virginia.

For those of the twentieth century with a sentimental side who like their fiction and their films liberally populated with two-story white columns and with well-fed, singing slaves (whether they believe it or not) there may be poignant regrets. About this we can do nothing, even if it were possible and wise to do something. If we wish we can read of the past, and the more we read of it the deeper we discover the roots of Virginia buried in the same soil that has held them for more than 300 years.

Such roots are deep. They nourished the past and all the culture, the thought, the life of Virginia. From these roots all kinds of men, the prominent and the obscure, the good and the bad, have come. From these roots the present springs, and the present concerns us now. If there are fewer magnolia trees than there were a hundred years ago perhaps Virginians should plant some. They will grow now as they grew then, because Virginia can be called only—Southern Boomerang Law.

THAT IS INDEED a beautiful and well-preserved antique, that law under which Homer Cummings is investigating the conduct of the Hague organization in Jersey City. It is 68 years old and was originally intended the protect the newly citizenized Negroes of the South about the time Homer was born. By the New Deal standard Homer is only two years short of the age when it will become necessary to turn him out to grass on the grounds of drooling senility, but this law still has all its original teeth. It is now being used against the Harlan County mine operators, but that case is still before the courts.

PEGLER.

More important, as demonstrating the effectiveness of this law, are the Kansas City election fraud prosecutions, many of which have been completed. In those cases the law snapped at a large number of tough citizens and tore living hunks out of them. It's alive, all right.

It says that if two or more persons shall conspire to injure, oppress, threaten or intimidate any citizen in the free exercise or enjoyment of any right guaranteed by the Constitution they shall be fined not more than $5,000, serve a year in jail and be barred from certain public offices.

* * * *

THERE IS an awful spread of law in those few words, and I am surprised to read that Mayor Frank Hague's opponents in the Jersey City suppression thing are jubilant over its revival, because obviously the same sort of prosecution could be brought against unioneers over on the left wing, including, undoubtedly, some of those who are described as jubilant, for conspiring to injure, oppress, threaten and intimidate non-union or non-striking workmen and employers.

Conspiracy to injure, oppress, threaten and intimidate is standard practice in some unions and is widely regarded as a legal weapon in the class struggle. But those who think so probably didn't know about this law and even now, knowing it, may not have paused in their jubilation over the Hague thing, the Harlan thing and the Kansas City thing, if they knew about it, to consider that it might be used with equal vigor and effect against them.

Suppose you have a union meeting in which some fire-eater gets up and yells that they will place one of those living walls around the struck plant and that any dirty rat, bum, fink, who attempts to go through the line to his work will think he is going through a concrete mixer. So then they vote strike, and the men who refused to join the union find themselves hampered in the free employment of rights guaranteed by the Constitution.

I believe I am the only oracle in general practice at this time who avoids constitutional questions and sends patients suffering from constitutional complaints to one of the specialists in that line. But it is plain that fundamental rights of citizens are involved in these conspiracies, which certainly are nothing else but, and that the same law which has been invoked in Kansas City and Harlan and which may now be turned loose against Frank Hague could, with equal justice and equal prospect of success, be used against conspirators of the kind here depicted. It might also be trotted around on a stout leash past the headquarters of some of those pestiferous organizations which are always crying boycott against this or that business firm or individual and, in general, make a valuable contribution to the peace and prosperity of the community.

* * * *

AS TO the sincerity of the move against Hague, a recollection of the Huey Long strife in Louisiana and the dismissal of certain indictments against members of his crowd in the job known as the Second Louisiana Purchase make one pause.

Certainly it would not be difficult to prove conspiracy in cases where leaders organize groups to injure, oppress, threaten and intimidate individual workmen and employers, leaving only a question whether the conspiracy impaired their enjoyment of their constitutional rights. That would be one for the book—to prosecute and convict conspirators under the very law which they invoked against Hague for doing the same to them.

Scene 1—Outer office of a mayor at most any golf club.

Caller—Is the mayor in?

Secretary (absent-mindedly)—He ought to be in by this time; it's his fifth putt.

* * * *

Caller—Do you think I can see him?

Secretary—Have you an appointment?

Caller—Yes.

Secretary—In which TRAP?

* * * *

Caller—I thought the mayor didn't play golf.

Secretary—He doesn't. But that's true of most people who live on golf courses.

* * * *

Taxpayer—Mr. Mayor, I'd like to be heard on this bill.

Mayor—It isn't your turn yet.

Taxpayer—I've been standing here for an hour.

Mayor—You should have put up a ball. There are four speakers ahead of you.

Taxpayer—I think they will let me go through.

Mayor—Nonsense! I hadn't been around a golf course two hours before I found out a foursome never lets anybody through. Let's proceed to vote.

Taxpayer—Mr. Mayor, I plead with you to take more time on this matter——

Mayor—So, you think I'm off on my timing, eh! Proceed to vote!

A Councilman—What're we voting on?

Mayor—Where have you been?

Councilman—Looking for a lost ball.

Mayor—You shouldn't look for lost balls on city time.

Councilman—Well, it was your idea having a city hall on a golf links, so don't blame me.

* * * *

Assistant Mayor—We are not getting anywhere.

Mayor—It must be the course is slow.

Assistant Mayor—We really ought to make more progress, sir.

Mayor—How many strokes are we up to here?

Assistant Mayor—This is not a golf game; it's a city meeting.

Mayor—Then who handed me the wrong club?

* * * *

Scene 3—Mayor's office.

Voice (on telephone)—Is this the mayor's office?

Secretary—So they tell me.

Voice—Where's the mayor?

Secretary—He's in conference.

Voice—Are you positive?

Secretary—Of course I'm positive; I just saw him call his caddy into the trap with him!

Park Worker's Lament.

Oh, woe is me. This life is sad;
A job is what you make it;
I need a vacation awfully bad—
But I've nothing from which to take it.
—Cejay.

Attorney General Cummings seeks to indict General Motors, Chrysler and Henry Ford on a charge of forcing dealers to finance time payments through companies controlled by them. The automobile leaders won't mind as they are not doing anything special this year anyhow.

Butler's Report

By Bertram Pickard.

Special Correspondence of The Post.

Geneva.

THE LAST REPORT that Mr. Harold Butler will write as director of the International Labor Office for presentation to the International Labor Conference here is by no means the least interesting. In particular, he has some stimulating things to say about booms, slumps and recessions.

In his first two chapters Mr. Butler shows by graph and shrewd comment that the "boom of the thirties" was an unusual kind of boom; while the latest slump, if slump it be, is not behaving quite as orthodox slumps behave.

Statistically, as the report shows, the boom of the thirties, both as regards world production and the quantum of world trade, can bear comparison with the famous—almost fabulous—boom of the twenties. But, psychologically, the latest boom was a poor thing beside its predecessor. It was, as Mr. Butler says, "a little advertised affair," and often even regarded as an impostor. Hence, he suggests, the factual reality of the regained prosperity of early 1937 "is a remarkable testimony alike to the tenacious optimism of humanity and to the unfathomed possibilities of economic expansion which lie at its door."

Newest Depression Defined As "Recession."

SO WITH the new slump. Statistically, there is some evidence for thinking that the peak of the boom was reached in the summer of 1937; certainly, in the United States especially, "the familiar downward spiral of declining production, declining prices and declining demand began to make itself felt."

Nevertheless, the serious setback in the United States has not been paralleled in the world as a whole. Hence, Mr. Butler does not hesitate to use the new word "recession," which pleasantly hints that 1937 and after will not repeat 1929 and after, but marks only a pause in the advance to yet further prosperity.

If Mr. Butler employs this magic word, however, he does so, not in blind optimism, but because he sees that the upward trend toward a larger prosperity could easily be maintained today if only some of the political and economic obstacles to progress were removed.

But, there precisely is the rub, as Mr. Butler sees clearly enough. If it be true, in the words of the I. L. O. constitution, that "universal peace can be established only if it is based upon social justice" it is equally true that so long as the present wars and rumors of war continue "there is no chance of attaining the standard of feeding or clothing or health or housing or working hours or leisure which the vast technical progress of this century has brought within our grasp."

Social Progress Noted By Director.

IN A CHAPTER entitled "The Social Balance," Mr. Butler gives detailed reasons for believing that, despite "the frost of unpropitious economic or political circumstances" real social progress has been made.

Employment has been better than since 1929 on the average, though here the exigencies of war and war preparations are not overlooked. Real wages are shown to be higher in 1937 than in 1929 in all countries (except Germany) where adequate statistics are available.

Social insurance has steadily spread. "Nothing," we read, "is more characteristic of the evolution of social thinking than the fact that, in spite of economic vicissitudes, the consolidation and development of social insurance and assistance is regarded as being a necessity to be faced unhesitatingly and unshrinkingly." As for housing, recent years have seen the growth of what is described as "a national housing consciousness."

Why is it, then, that little if any progress has been made in the direction of lessening hours of work, upon which development organized labor has set such store? In view of the great importance of this question and the outstanding place it occupies on the conference agenda, Mr. Butler devotes a whole chapter to it.

He does not share the view held in some quarters that the movement for shorter hours has defeated itself by running counter to economic law. On the contrary, he believes that under normal circumstances, the 40-hour week would have abundantly justified itself not only on social grounds but on economic as well.

The case of France is specially examined. The enemies of French left-wing governments delight to point to the 40-hour week as the major reason of France's economic and financial troubles. Mr. Butler shows, in an objective analysis of the situation, that the French application of the principle of a 40-hour week came too late on account of recession; and that, in any case, it was made under political and financial conditions that handicapped the experiment from the start.

And, although Mr. Butler evidently foresees difficulties for France if she were to operate a lower average working week than her chief competitors, he is firmly convinced that the world movement toward shorter working hours is not stopped, but only slowed down.

Withdrawal Of Italy And Germany Discounted.

IN TWO FINAL chapters Mr. Butler writes of "The Progress of the I. L. O." and of "The Future."

He maintains that, despite the defection of Germany and Italy, the stock of the I. L. O. stands high; and that through the adherence of the U. S. A. and the U. S. S. R. the representative character of the institution is at least as great as it was five years ago.

He suggests that "whether peace be divisible or not, the economic world is undoubtedly and perhaps unfortunately indivisible." And that therefore, willy-nilly, economic and social questions must be dealt with internationally as well as nationally.

He attributes the success of the I. L. O. in weathering the storms of recent years in part to the objective attitude it has maintained to ideological controversies, and in part to the fact that instead of drawing in its horns it has increased its activity in face of difficulty. In this connection he cites the series of special conferences organized under the auspices of the I. L. O. during 1937, not the least of which was the conference on the textile industry held in Washington in April of that year, at the suggestion of President Roosevelt.

He gives some striking illustrations of the way in which the industrial center of gravity of the world is steadily shifting from Europe. For example, "In the construction of the index of world production, the weighting to be allocated to the principal industrial countries of the world was estimated for the period 1925-1929 as follows: United States, 45; Germany, 12; Great Britain, 10; France, 8; U. S. S. R., 5; Italy, 3.4; Japan, 2.6; Canada, 2.5; Belgium, 2. These proportions are, in all probability, still approximately true for most of the countries concerned, with two notable exceptions: Japan has increased her industrial output by some 75 per cent; the U. S. S. R. by over 45 per cent."

It was inevitable, Mr. Butler suggests, that Europe should one day lose her preeminence in the economic sphere. But this process is being hastened, he thinks, by the "division of Europe into groups pursuing different social objectives and working upon different economic principles."

But Mr. Butler concludes his last report on a note of optimism: "The blending of the long experience of Europe with the youthful visions of America and the new-found energies of Asia is more likely to infuse new confidence and determination than to induce stagnation and decay."

For example, "it is because measures such as the Tripartite Monetary Agreement and the commercial policy followed by Secretary Hull are in accord with this principle that they have a great symbolic as well as a great practical importance."

"It is not suggested," Mr. Butler concludes, "that the organization can by its own efforts bring about such enormous changes as these. What it can do, and by the terms of its charter is bound to do, is to insist upon their necessity and their inevitability."

Whoever the new I. L. O. director may be, he will not be able to charge his predecessor with taking a narrow or unimaginative view of its duties and opportunities.

Paris Dilemma

By Barnet Nover.

Russia Demands A Showdown.

ON HIS WAY home from Geneva to Moscow, Maxim Litvinov, Soviet foreign commissar, stopped off in Paris to have a showdown with France.

At Geneva, Russia and France, though allies, found themselves on opposite sides of the fence with respect to two highly important questions before the League Council. One was Ethiopia, the other Spain.

On the Ethiopian issue, the Soviet Union, supported only by China, New Zealand and Bolivia, upheld the doctrine of non-recognition as applied to Italy's new domain in East Africa. France took the opposite tack. She supported the British plea that individual League members be permitted to recognize Italian rule in Ethiopia if they wanted to.

On the Spanish problem, Russia supported while France opposed the Barcelona government's plea that non-intervention be scrapped.

* * * *

IN NEITHER instance can it be said that France showed any real enthusiasm for the stand she found herself forced to take at Geneva. Her attitude was the product of opportunism and necessity, in particular the necessity of following along with her other great power ally, Great Britain.

When Chamberlain made his deal with Mussolini it was assumed and with reason that a Franco-Italian accord would soon follow. That meant two things. It meant, first of all, French recognition of King Victor Emmanuel as Emperor of Ethiopia. It also meant some kind of a Franco-Italian understanding with respect to Spain, presumably one echoing the Anglo-Italian deal.

To ease the hurt that France was inevitably bound to feel as the one-time champion of collective security and as the alarmed observer of Fascist intervention in a nation along her flank, Great Britain followed up the Anglo-Italian treaty with a far-reaching Franco-British alliance.

* * * *

SINCE the Chamberlain-Mussolini agreement was made, however, several things have happened which have given the French pause. In the first place the Spanish civil war has not ended. Franco's rapid march to the sea, severing Catalonia from the rest of republican Spain, has not been followed by a collapse of the government forces. On the contrary, they appear to have reformed their lines. Something like a new stalemate now exists. Despair regarding Barcelona's chances has thus given way to a new, if highly qualified, measure of hopefulness in French quarters friendly to the loyalists.

In the second place, Hitler's visit to Rome has made it clear that the Berlin-Rome axis has not been broken, that in the eyes of both dictators it continues to have its usefulness if for nothing else than as a club to swing over the heads of Great Britain and France. At Genoa Mussolini used that club. He made it clear that Franco-Italian negotiations would get nowhere unless France ceased favoring and helping Barcelona.

Thirdly, Czechoslovakia has been under constant pressure from the Sudeten Germans, prompted by Hitler, and from Great Britain. The Sudeten element, with Henlein as the spokesman, has laid down demands whose acceptance by the Prague government could lead only to the destruction of Czechoslovakia as an independent state. But the British have been urging Prague to meet these demands as fully as possible in order to ward off an attack by the Third Reich.

LET US EXAMINE the last first. Reports indicate that Japan is now in possession of most if not all of Suchow, the key city in the central China fighting zone. But the fall of Suchow does not necessarily mean the collapse of Chinese resistance. The indications still point the other way.

In any event it is apparent that the very great effort which Japan has been forced to make in China has reduced her capacity to wage war on any third power, notably Russia. The Soviet leaders are also well aware of the fact that the German-Italian-Japanese combination has proved far less formidable in practice than was at first feared it would be. For instance, Germany, though an ally of Japan, has not hesitated to supply arms and munitions to China and to permit German officers to train China's forces and help direct China's strategy.

For the time being, therefore, the specter of a war on two fronts which has haunted Soviet leaders, has been dispelled. Russia, while keeping a minimum force in her Far East, can now concentrate her fighting strength in the European part of the Soviet Union.

* * * *

THIS FACT Litvinov has undoubtedly pointed out to Messrs. Daladier and Bonnet. And the implication is that unless France is prepared to make some kind of a quid pro quo for Soviet support, the Soviet Union may withdraw within her own frontiers and abandon the commitments she has made to aid Czechoslovakia and France.

As the Russian leaders see it, the alliance with France is now a liability rather than an asset, since Russia remains tied to France while that country, at Britain's behest, shows a readiness to throw the collective security doctrine overboard, permit a Fascist victory in Spain and let Hitler have his way in central and eastern Europe.

Successive French governments, conservative and radical alike, have stuck by the Franco-Russian alliance. They have, at the same time, shown no eagerness to implement it by a military convention. But whereas, until recently, Russia saw very real advantages in keeping the link with Paris, even if the bond was a loose one, the Kremlin sees none now unless French and Russian policies on European affairs can be consolidated.

To keep Russia's friendship, France must refrain from making the kind of concessions which Mussolini insists as the price of his good will, and which London is urging Paris to make. On the other hand, to break with Russia makes France more than subject to British diplomacy, more than ever at the mercy of the Fascist powers. The dilemma is an unpleasant one.

Radio's Response

By Lenox R. Lohr,

President, National Broadcasting Co.

HOW IMMEDIATELY effective is the radio message is illustrated by an incident in one of Lowell Thomas' news broadcasts, which he related to me. On the invitation of the president of a telegraph company he was giving his regular news broadcast from a telegraph office with the clicking of the keys and the bustle of the operators to furnish background. The president suggested to Thomas: "It might be interesting tonight if you would invite your friends to telegraph a message to you and they may do so at the expense of the company." Mr. Thomas assumed that a few of his personal friends might be listening in and would take advantage of such an offer. Remember that it was unpremeditated, there was no advance publicity build-up, merely a spur-of-the-moment addition to the program. Thomas had hardly finished speaking before the telegrams began pouring in, and when the night was over, 280,000 messages had been received.

An occurrence on a commercial program well illustrates another of these attributes. A serial was running five times a week for 15 minutes each day, depicting the home life of a simple American family. As spring came on, the mother in the story set about the planting of a little flower garden. As the days passed she sowed the seed, weeded, raked and watered the young sprouts—the buds matured and bloomed. One day the announcer asked, "How would you like to have just such a little garden? If you would, send us 10 cents and she will send you some of her own petunia seeds."

That the petunia seeds and the garden were but the fiction of a script writer read by actors in a studio, did not occur to them. They did not stop to consider that, even had there been such a garden, their well-loved character could not have fulfilled their wants, but their seeds, acquired from a wholesaler, would be sent by a staff of people assembled for that purpose. But, so great was the emotional appeal, that the listeners were motivated to the rather complicated action of writing a letter, enclosing a dime and mailing the envelope. And yet, from this offer, there came in over a million dimes.

Phosphate Study

Roosevelt Asks Congress Investigation To Protect Dwindling Supply Of Necessary Chemical.

Declaring it is "high time for the Nation to adopt a national policy for the production and conservation of phosphate for the benefit of this and coming generations," President Roosevelt yesterday recommended to Congress a study of the supply, domestic consumption and exports of that commodity.

In a message stressing that phosphorus is necessary to all forms of life—human, animal and plant—Mr. Roosevelt advised Congress that:

The Nation's principal phosphate deposits are in the Rocky Mountain States centering around Idaho, and in Florida and Tennessee, with small deposits in a few other Southern States. So far the principal phosphate production has come from the relatively limited Florida and Tennessee supplies.

The recommendations for a study by a joint Senate-House committee indicated the possibility that emphasis may be placed in future on development of the Western deposits and that there may be undertaken some revision of the Nation's phosphate export policies.

Such a study has long been urged by Senator James P. Pope (Democrat), of Idaho, who is facing serious opposition in his primary fight for re-election.

Out of the 17,200,000,000 tons world supply and 7,200,000,000 tons United States reserve of phosphate rock, Idaho is said to have 5,700,000,000 tons of the deposits.

Pope has a 100 per cent Administration record and the proposed study would provide him with an issue in his primary fight for renomination against Representative D. Worth Clark, anti-Administration Democrat, who is seeking Pope's Senatorial toga and has strong State-wide support. Clark opposed the President's court plan, voted to recommit the wage-hour and Government reorganization bills, and opposed compulsory control features of the farm bill. He has conservative Democratic backing and some Republican support in Idaho.

U. S. Soil Facing Loss of Fertility.

The text of the message follows:

The soil of the United States faces a continuing loss of its productive capacity.

That is a challenging statement. It would seem, therefore, to be the part of wisdom for the Government and the people of the United States to adopt every possible method to stop this loss and begin to rebuild soil fertility.

We give the name of "soil conservation" to the problem as a whole; and we are already active in our efforts to retard and prevent soil erosion, and by the more intelligent use of land to build up its crop, its pasturage and its tree producing capacity.

As a result of the studies and tests of modern science it has come to be recognized that phosphorus is a necessary element in human, in animal and in plant nutrition. The phosphorus content of our land, following generations of cultivation, has greatly diminished. It needs replenishing. The necessity for wider use of phosphates and the conservation of our supplies of phosphates for future generations is, therefore, a matter of great public concern. We cannot place our agriculture upon a permanent basis unless we give it heed.

I cannot overemphasize the importance of phosphorus not only to agriculture and soil conservation, but also to the physical help and economic security of the people of the Nation. Many of our soil types are deficient in phosphorus, thus causing low yields and poor quality of crops and pastures.

Indeed, much of the present accelerated soil erosion in the United States has taken place, and is still taking place, on land that has either been abandoned or is ready to be abandoned because of a low productivity brought about by failure to maintain the fertilizing elements in the soil. In many cases the reclaiming of eroded land is largely a matter of stimulating plant growth such as legumes and grasses; but hand in hand with this we must also replenish the actual phosphorus content of the soil.

Drain on Phosphorus Exceeds Restoration.

Recent estimates indicate that the removal of phosphorus from the soils of the United States by harvested crops, grazing, erosion, and leaching, greatly exceeds the addition of phosphorus to the soil through the means of fertilizers, animal manures and bedding, rainfall, irrigation and seeds.

It appears that even with a complete control of erosion, which obviously is impossible, a high level of productivity will not be maintained unless phosphorus is returned to the soil at a greater rate than is being done at present. Increases by the addition of phosphorus to the soil must be made largely, if not entirely, in the form of fertilizers which are derived principally from phosphate rock.

Therefore, the question of continuous and adequate supplies of phosphate rock directly concerns the national welfare.

The total known world supply of phosphate rock is estimated at 17.2 billion tons, of which 7.2 billion tons is located in the United States. Nearly all the remainder is controlled by Great Britain, France and Russia. The supply in the United States is distributed as follows: Florida, 7.4 per cent; Tennessee, 1.4 per cent; Western States (Idaho, Montana, Utah and Wyoming), 90.8 per cent, and other States (Arkansas, Kentucky, South Carolina and Virginia), 0.4 per cent. The domestic production of phosphate rock amounted to 3,351,857 tons in 1936, drawn from Florida (78.3 per cent), Tennessee (19.2 per cent) and Idaho and Montana (2.5 per cent). Exports of phosphate rock amounted to 1,208,951 tons, almost entirely from Florida, and consumption of phosphate rock for nonagricultural purposes totaled 352,275 tons.

Thus, it appears that on the total domestic production of phosphate rock only 53 per cent was used for domestic agricultural purposes.

Owing to their location in relation to the principal fertilizer-consumption districts, the Florida and Tennessee deposits, which contain less than 10 per cent of the Nation's supply, are furnishing more than 97 per cent of all the phosphate rock used for domestic agricultural purposes. Under present conditions, by far the greater portion of our phosphate requirements will continue to be drawn from the Florida and Tennessee deposits so long as these deposits last. When it is realized that the consumption of phosphate fertilizer must be increased considerably if our soils are to be maintained reasonably near their present levels of fertility, which in many cases are far below the levels necessary for an efficient agriculture, it becomes apparent that the deposits of Florida and Tennessee will last but a comparatively short period.

It is hardly necessary to emphasize the desirability of conserving these deposits to the fullest extent for the benefit of agriculture in the East, the South and a considerable portion of the Middle West.

At the same time, serious attention should be given to the development of the Western phosphate deposits in order that they may be made to serve economically the widest possible territory. It is evident that our main reliance for an adequate supply of phosphate must eventually be placed on our Western deposits.

As of December 1, 1936, the Government owned 2,124,904 acres of proven and potential phosphate lands in Idaho, Montana, Utah and Wyoming, and 86,916 acres in Florida. The Government owns no extensive areas of phosphate land in other States. Although an exact estimate of the tonnage of phosphate rock on Government land is not available, the quantity in the Western reserve no doubt exceeds 5,000,000,000 tons. It appears that only a small portion of the Florida supply is on Government land.

Government Owns Western Deposits.

I call your special attention to the interesting and valuable work of the Tennessee Valley Authority and the Department of Agriculture in devising new processes for treating phosphate rock and for using the new types of phosphate products. This work promises to make the great Western deposits available to a large area of America.

These developments by themselves however, will not lessen the drain on the comparatively small deposits in Tennessee and Florida because the methods of treatment can be used as well on these deposits as on those in the West. Inasmuch as the deposits in Tennessee and Florida are, and will continue to be, of vital importance to American agriculture, it is to the national interest that they be conserved to the fullest extent.

The disposition of our phosphate deposits should be regarded as a national concern. The situation appears to offer an opportunity for this Nation to exercise foresight in the use of a great national resource heretofore almost unknown in our plans for the development of the Nation.

I invite the especial attention of the Congress to the very large percentage of known phosphate rock which is on Government-owned land — probably three-quarters of the whole supply; and to the fact that the Eastern supply, while in private ownership, is today being exported in such quantities that when and if it is wholly depleted, Eastern farms will have to depend for their phosphate supply on the Far Western lands.

It is therefore high time for the Nation to adopt a national policy for the production and conservation of phosphates for the benefit of this and coming generations.

To the end that continuous and adequate supplies be insured and that efficient forms of this key element, phosphorus, be available at the lowest cost throughout the country, I recommend that a joint committee of the Senate and of the House of Representatives be named to give study to the entire subject of phosphate resources, their use and service to American agriculture, and to make report to the next Congress.

250 Power Models Will Fly Today

More than 250 model airplanes, powered by one-quarter horsepower engines capable of 55-mile-an-hour speeds, will fly in a model airplane contest today and tomorrow at Skyhaven airport, near Suitland, Md. The contest is the largest ever held in the South Atlantic states. Prizes totaling $300 have been donated for winners. One hundred Washington boys are among the entrants. The contest is sponsored jointly by a dozen aviation groups.

C. U. Scientific Exhibit Is Today, Tomorrow

The annual scientific exhibit of Catholic University will be held today and tomorrow from 2 p. m. to 10 p. m. This exposition is sponsored by the departments of aeronautical engineering, biology, electrical engineering, civil engineering and mechanical engineering.

The laboratories of all these departments will be open to the public for these two days. Many new additions are to be found in the mechanical engineering laboratories in McMahon Hall. The aeronautical engineering department also will display many working models of planes of recent design.

The Federal Diary

Reg. U. S. Patent Office.

Notes.

At the White House is a measure authorizing the President to detail Federal civilian employes for service in any of the American republics and the Philippine Islands. For example, if one of the "Good Neighbor" countries wants an expert accountant to assist in setting up an accounting system, the President may draft one or many from the GAO or elsewhere in the service for the job. This courtesy has been extended for some time, but previously the employe assigned to the outside duty had to go through a lot of leave red tape and get reinstatement upon his return to this country. Both the House and Senate have approved the measure.

That was a nice party the South Carolina State Society gave the other night at the Wardman Park in tribute to King Cotton, and but one minor criticism occurs: Why didn't they use South Carolina cotton? They had many bales of cotton on the floor, but all of it had Mississippi labels.

Brokerage Aid.

The United Office and Professional Workers of America, in convention assembled here, are pressing for a SEC-sponsored WPA project in Wall Street to implement the commission's work and to give employment to brokerage workers, some 10,000 of whom have lost their jobs in the last six months because of curtailed market activity and mergers. They are not urging any new activity for the commission; the new project, if it is authorized, would be simply in connection with the commission's routine work. They had a conference about it at the SEC headquarters here on Thursday and the idea wasn't officially frowned on, by any means. The SEC has on a number of occasions complained of a lack of personnel.

Practically unsung, to date, is that flourishing new organization in the Treasury Department. So we sing: The Treasury Department Recreation Association was organized on April 21, last, and boasts 1,500 members. Purely social and recreational in nature, it is managed by representatives from each of the offices and bureaus of the department. And of timely interest, the association will sponsor an informal dance at the Wardman Park Hotel on the evening of Saturday, June 4.

Youth Prevails In Screen Play At the Capitol

'Hold That Kiss' Proves Neat Comedy-Romance; Kaye Band Hits.

One of the best of these half dozen basic story plots in existence is that of Cinderella en masque. And "Hold That Kiss" not only brings Cinderella to circa 1938 but makes Prince Charming a Cinderella lad. The result is funny and endearing and should be a clean-up at all boxoffices.

Though Maureen O'Sullivan just works at a smart Fifth avenue shop and Dennis O'Keefe sells tickets in a travel bureau, the have a pretty aura of class and when as nonguests they encounter at a fashionable wedding—they just cannot resist gold-bricking each other. Dennis describes himself as a foreign correspondent and Maureen, inspirationally fancies herself as a society girl with a flair for social welfare work.

So the merry game of kidder kidding kidder goes on, with Maureen's relatives and Dennis' roommate putting in their two-bits worth. Most devilish of the complications are caused by Maureen's three brothers. That terrible tyke, Mickey Rooney, is the most terrific of the trio, but running him close are Frank Albertson, who works in a bookmaking shop and always owes his boss money, and Phillip Terry, usher at the movies.

"Younger and Sweeter."

Maureen O'Sullivan, looking ynnger and sweeter than ever, is perfect as Cinderella. Just as good in the opposite part is Dennis O'Keefe, a rather grand young guy who can really act and who looks like a man—no small recommendation in these days of leading men with equivocal smiles. But how could the combination of O'Sullivan and O'Keefe fail to ring the bell?

A chief point of "Hold That Kiss" is that this Mickey Rooney child is rapidly ripening for a full lead—if the right story can be found for him. This indestructible kid swipes every scene in which he has the slightest opening. Cocky, tough and comical, little Master Rooney is of a species all his own.

That movie veteran, Edward Brophy, is responsible for about as many laughs as Mickey. In fact it's a great picture for the Irish, all around. Jessie Ralph and Fay Holden, as Maureen's aunt and mother, also work like the troupers they are.

Good lines and swift situations abound, but we liked best Dennis O'Keefe's description of a current old-fashioned: "It's just a fruit salad with a slug of whisky." And we must not forget Bosco, a St. Bernard who proves that the breed is as smart as it is big.

Kaye Is Okaye.

Sammy Kaye made good on that "swing 'n' sway" slogan of his. Because, when those O-Kaye lads turned loose the swingaroo, the Capitol audience not only swung and swayed, but moaned and paddy-whacked like anything. These hot rhythms started out with a steamed-up version of "Martha" that whetted the listeners' appetite for more and more—and more. The audience turned into a convention of Oliver Twists, not to be assuaged except by more swing.

But the sweet numbers were ingratiating, too, especially "Blue Heaven" and the South Seas number, with soloists Tommy Ryan, Charlie Wilson and Jimmy Brown contributing delightful vocal quality.

That snooty Chow number, "Red Dust," and his master, Robert Williams, were not only the hit of the specialty entertainers' group, but proved the best animal act you or I have ever seen. "Red" is a dog who has a good time doing his stuff, and his boss, Robert, is such a good actor that he doesn't even need a dog—except a dog like "Red."

Funny as Kitzes.

If The Nonchalants don't watch out, they'll wind up by being as funny as the Ritz Brothers. They are acrobatic physically, but even more acrobatic mentally.

The Crane Twins deserve to be described by that hard-ridden word, "lovelies." They look so pretty, dance so prettily and act so prettily, Sammy Kaye had better put an antimatrimonial clause in their contract.

'Robin Hood,' at the Earle, Is Superb Achievement; Palace Boasts a Mammoth Picture in 'Marco Polo'

Errol Flynn and Ace Cast Score in Action-Film; Stage Acts Click.

"THE ADVENTURES OF ROBIN HOOD." Warner Brothers Technicolor picturization of an original screen play by Norman Reilly Raine and Seton I. Miller, featuring Errol Flynn, Olivia de Havilland, Claude Rains and Basil Rathbone, with Ian Hunter, Patric Knowles, Alan Hale, Eugene Pallette, Herbert Mundin, Melville Cooper, Una O'Connor, Montagu Love, Robert Warwick, Leonard Mudie, Colin Kenny, Charles McNaughton, Ivan Simpson and hundreds more. Musical background by Erich Wolfgang Korngold. Directed by Michael Curtiz and William Keighley. Previewed Wednesday, May 11. At the Earle Theater.

If one could detch himself from the fascination of a swiftly-moving picture that represents a perfect coordination of action, romance, color, music and pageantry long enough to analyze its primary elements of appeal, he would find that "The Adventures of Robin Hood" is a composite of those qualities of excitement and dramatic interest which, singly, were originally responsible for the universal popularity of the "movies."

BELL.

Combined with consummate skill in this subject are such incitements to the risibilities as violent physical combat, daredevil riding, intrigue, capture, escape, thundering chases through Sherwood Forest on horses as daring as their riders, romance and heroics. The story of "Robin Hood." is such that all of this may be applied to its visualization with complete logic and conviction. That has been accomplished here.

The tale, as adapted from the Robin Hood legends by Norman Reilly Raine and Seton I. Miller, has its inception with the reading in the market place of a proclamation to the effect that King Richard the Lionhearted, returning from his crusades, has been made prisoner and held for ransom in a distant land. This is the signal for his craven brother, Prince John, to assume the regency of Richard's Norman kingdom from Longchamps, as black a conspirator as himself. On the pretext of raising the ransom money, they impose prohibitive taxes on all Saxons in the kingdom, with the sole aim, of course, of putting the plunder to their own wily uses. Exquisite tortures are inflicted upon those who cannot, or will not, meet the exorbitant levies and those who rebel are put to death.

Sir Robin Rebels.

This does not sit well upon the honest and kindly nature of Sir Robin of Locksley, the nobleman turned humanitarian bandit, who roams Sherwood Forest and applies justice where it seems to be most needed.

Such is the skeleton of the tale that has been given such magnified interest and importance in this picture. Sir Robin first invades the banquet hall of Prince John during a conclave of the nobles, carrying on his shoulders the stag his body servant has shot in the forest that afternoon. It is here that he announces the manner in which he is going to right the wrongs they have done and here that he first gazes into the limpid eyes of Lady Marian, who abhors all Saxons. The manner in which he fights his way out from an attempted arrest against the full force of Prince John's castle furnishes the first of the long succession of thrilling scenes that punctuate the progress of the spectacle.

There are, for example, the rendezvous of the persecuted Saxons in the safety of the deep woods; the ambuscade of Sir Guy of Gisbourne and the treasure he is returning to his renegade ruler; the archery tournament, and the duel up and down the castle stairs and parapets between Sir Guy and Sir Robin, to mention only a few of the most impressive intervals of a film play that is never anything else but impressive.

All of this is revealed upon the screen in the most magnificent demonstration of Technicolor photography that has come to the public to date. The color combinations at times are vivid, but never inharmonious or garish and many of the woodland scenes, with the soft rays of the sun filtering through the trees, possess all of the subdued beauty of a series of Corot paintings.

A Perfect Cast.

The cast selected for the interpretation of this farflung and tempestuous work is one that defies adequate consideration of its individual merits by reason of its very length. Every player in an important role seems to be an ideal choice for his part.

The four pivotal characters of the story are Errol Flynn, in the title role; Olivia de Havilland, as Lady Marian; Claude Rains, as Prince John, and Basil Rathbone, as Sir Guy of Gisbourne. They are at their best and lend the picture the distinction of superlative acting. There are many others who add to the luster of this exceptional ensemble—Alan Hale, as Little John, the role he played years ago with the elder Fairbanks; Eugene Pallette, as Friar Tuck; Patric Knowles, as Will Scarlett; Herbert Mundin, as Much; Melville Cooper, as the thoroughly frightened Sheriff of Nottingham; Robert Warwick, as Sir Geoffrey; Montagu Love, as the Bishop of Black Canon—the list could go on indefinitely.

The musical setting provided for the movement of the drama is as effective as the other divergent factors that add to its greatness. It was composed by Erich Wolfgang Korngold and continuously enhances the effectiveness of the play's development. None of the familiar airs from the operetta are employed, the screen rights to the Reginald de Koven work being owned by other producing interests and, therefore, not available for this production. They are not missed. In fact, so fresh is this treatment of "Robin Hood" that they would detract from rather than add to, the impression of newness which it unfailingly conveys.

Stage Bill Is Brief.

The stage bill at the Earle this week is brief but spirited. It adheres to "gypsy" motifs and is costumed and staged in harmony with the screen feature. The Albertina Rasch Ballet appears in several contrasted routines, the Brown Twins are heard in one two-piano number, Carole Manners displays a glorious coloratura soprano, Bob Dupont juggles—and misses too often—and the Bartell and Hurst Foursome execute all manner of dances, including an adagio.

Lady Marian in New 'Robin Hood'

as she appears in the leading feminine role in a preponderantly masculine cast in "The Adventures of Robin Hood," the Technicolor masterpiece now on view at the Earle Theater. Miss De Havilland does splendidly amidst the fast-action, turbulence and romantic glamour of an engrossing and heroic picture.

Gary Cooper in Title Role of Goldwyn's Latest Super-Special.

"THE ADVENTURES OF MARCO POLO." Samuel Goldwyn's picturization for United Artists of the story by N. A. Pogson, adapted to the screen by Robert E. Sherwood, starring Gary Cooper, with Sigrid Gurie, Basil Rathbone, George Barbier, Binnie Barnes, Ernest Truex, Alan Hale, H. B. Warner, Robert Grieg, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Henry Kolker, Hale Hamilton, Lotus Liu, Stanley Fields, Harold Hubner and Lana Turner. Directed by Archie Mayo. Previewed Tuesday, May 10. At the Palace.

In approaching the task of translating to the screen the adventurous experiences of the young Venetian, Marco Polo, in quest of trade agreements with the Chinese kingdom of Kublai Khan, one suspects that Samuel Goldwyn was in search of magnitude, beauty and romance rather than any very realistic apprehension of the real nature of ancient Cathay.

"The Adventures of Marco Polo" is another of Mr. Goldwyn's tremendously expensive and expansive screen panoramas that is produced and photographed with an artistic skill seldom surpassed. It relates a long and variegated story of the "first traveling salesman," who was less intrigued by his appointed labor than he was by love.

To be sure, having been commissioned by the merchants of Venice to arrange to bring some of the fabulous products of which they had heard to their own markets from China, Marco Polo did make a few important commercial discoveries. For instance, he ran across yards and yards of spaghetti and took a sample to introduce into Italy, where it is popularly supposed to have originated. And he came upon coal and gunpowder, too, and perceived in the latter an instrument of war. In a small way he discharged his duties. In a large way he became involved in "local politics," numerous love affairs and, at divers and sundry times, stood an exceedingly fine chance of losing his head—not to another beautiful woman, but to the chopper's block.

Encounters Court Intrigue.

Upon arriving in Peking, to get to the gist of the matter, Marco found Kublai Khan plotting a crusade against Japan and his prime minister, Ahmed, charting a similar assault upon the supremacy of Kublai Khan. This is where he met Kublai Khan's handsome daughter, Kukachin, and imitated Ahmed by falling in love with her—after he had taught the daughter the delicate art of osculation as practiced in the Western world. Marco Polo seemed a likely fellow to be gotten rid of, so he was sent on a mission to the camp of Kaidu, a bad boy of the hills, who made raids now and again and otherwise cut up. Kaidu's wife was a little too rigid a disciplinarian to suit her lord but not master, so Waidu turned her over to Marco, for the time being, as a distraction to them both. Quite a fellow, this Marco Polo!

But when it was learned that Kukachin was being forced to marry Ahmed against her will, during her father's absence on that ill-fated expedition to Japan, he and Kaidu devised a ruse whereby the villain was to be undone. The resultant scenes of embattled conflict bring the picture to a close almost as tempestuous as the storm scene in Mr. Goldwyn's "Hurricane." It is here that Mr. Cooper really demonstrated what a large quantity of gunpowder in tight containers could do if a match were touched to it.

All of this, of course, is hedged about by lesser scenes and humorous byplay and builded into a spectacular drama of cumulative effect. The picture moves slowly in the early sequences, but lack of movement is atoned for by a surplusage of visual beauty, all executed in delicate sepia tints. Once the battle scenes are reached, all thought is lost of any earlier lethargy.

Cooper Is Picturesque.

Gary Cooper is a picturesque Marco Polo, although I think he didn't see the twelfth century China of Kublai Khan. His leading women are Sigrid Gurie, making her debut in this film, and Binnie Barnes. He makes ardent love to them both without being shot in the back, and in other ways is adept in his role.

George Barbier, Basil Rathbone and Alan Hale constitute the principal male support as Kublai Khan, Ahmed and Kaidu, respectively. Mr. Barbier, I thought, was slightly overshadowed by his chief of state and his arch-enemy of the hills in the matter of convincing portrayal, although the most convincing work in the picture is done by H. B. Warner in the comparatively minor part of Chen Tsu, an elderly merchant and philosopher. Ernest Truex is cast in a comedy part that is well cut to his measure, even if not wholly compatible with ancient China, and Ferdinand Gottschalk is occasionally seen as a furtive and persecuted little man. There are hundreds more in the cast and ensemble who lend the picture magnitude and perspective.

Also on the bill at the Palace this week is one of Pete Smith's inimitable monologues set to pictures, under the title of "Modeling for Money." This seems to be an intricate and tricky business as Mr. Smith exposes it. There is more to being a successful mannequin than merely walking into a shop and asking for a job. There is entailed a long course of training that embraces all manner of peculiar things. Mr. Smith makes it all very amusing.

Then there is that Our Gang comedy, called "Three Men in a Tub," in which the kids cavort with their usual spontaneity and humor—in the picture, I mean, not the tub.

The "News of the Day" further augments a feature that is quite in its producer's grandest manner.

In Hollywood

With HEDDA HOPPER

Hollywood, Calif., May 20.—Sweet charity does it. For years our local four hundred and motion picture stars haven't been seeing quite eye to eye. But the Edward G. Robinsons' tea party for Ann Lehr's Relief Guild brought them together with a bang. A good time was had by all. Why not? With beauty to behold in all directions, superb paintings, a Degas dancing girl in bronze. What a man, Degas.

HEDDA HOPPER

Tiffany food—music—and the garden abloom with priceless rhododendrons, finest I've seen since Mrs. Russell Sage planted a bank half-a-mile long in Central Park.

Eddie's mother, who recently arrived here—and for whom he's built the sweetest house in his garden—couldn't keep a smile of pride off her face. None blamed her. He's gone far ahead of even a mother's dream.

Constance Collier, Lily McCormack and Ouida Rathbone poured. Connie and Ouida in black. The former, with gold sunflower clip encircling a star sapphire. Lily, in flowered challis with a careless bunch of flowers, wheat and carrots peeping from the girdle. Heavy dangling gold bracelets on Ouida. Looked as though she'd ripped them right off the arms of an Aida while she was concentrating on a high note.

Rudolph Liebig wore a nasturtium togue. Susan Weed was in ashes of roses. Mary McCrea Allen in dark blue, with a novelty veil tied carelessly at the back of her hat. Mrs. Ricardo Cortez looked like a debbie. Small hat with soft pink roses on top, sable coat. Quite a dish. Mrs. Jules Stein, one of our best-dressed women, had mercury wings—on her hat, not her feet.

Our hostess swung into lilac time, on dress and hat. That's the flower all Easterners miss most in California.

Met Kurt Swinburne there, descendant of the poet, who told me a quaint tale of Mexican justice. A Mexican rode his bicycle directly in the path of Kurt's automobile. Both were taken before Johnny Law—the Mexican fined 24 pesos for causing an accident. My friend, 8 pesos to repair the bicycle, and 25 pesos for running into him. He finally whittled the fine down to five. Mexican justice, eh?

Ann Franklin and Nelson Eddy teamed again. I may be wrong, but methinks I heard the faint tingle of wedding bells in the distance—which would be a blow to American maidenhood. Nelson's greatest joy, while touring was antiquing. Picked up old pewter which he polished within an inch of its life. He also acquired priceless jade in a swap shop. And told Ouida Rathbone where she could find Basil's grandmother on Sunset Strip in miniature. Ouida left early to investigate.

The Ice Ballet at the Polar Palace was thrilling. One of the best shows ever put on here. Consider yourself distinctly unlucky if you miss it. However, it disclosed no personality, or performance, equalling Sonja Henie.

There were pink taffeta, anklelength skirts on the girls in a swing-time number—quite a departure from the usual skating costume—and unbelievably graceful. Saw Myrna Loy clapping like a kid for more encores. No wonder she's such a favorite of yours, too. She's without guile or affectation.

Mrs. Jack Morgan, wife of Cock 'n Bull Morgan, to'd and fro'd from Washington, D. C., to Kentucky Derby in Postmaster General Jim Farley's private plane, with police escort the entire time she was on terra firma. Has gentle Phyllis thrown her hat in the ring?

Brian Aherne postcards from the Grand Canyon: "Golly, what a gully!"

Rather pointed, his and David Niven's departure from Hollywood on the entrance of Merle Oberon. Merle brought back fur coats by the dozen. Believe she now has every animal trapped. Two ermines, chinchilla, lynx, skunk, sable, two silver foxes, white, red, green and pink foxes. The two latter dyed after leaving the animal. She also has a priceless diamond necklace, which she wore in her latest English picture.

Motorboats.

Lewis Stone, having completed his role in "Yellow Jack," is vacationing at his cabin on Lake Arrowhead. He recently purchased a new motorboat which has been transported to the lake.

A WOMAN'S NEW YORK

By Alice Hughes

New York, May 20.

THE YOUNG LADIES are in a terrific dress-dither here at this time of year—and, of course, the same goes for the whole country. By this time the June brides have pretty well got Miss Nelly and the other needle-wizards to work on the festive frocks and veils. Now the younger crowd is fretting over what to wear when they march up prettily to grab their high school or finishing school diploma.

ALICE HUGHES

Pretty white dress, or cap and gown? Kay Thomas, a smart fashion-oracle here, makes a fine point on this. Not only are heavy woolly gowns hot and ugly for the children, but they properly belong to the college graduate, not the sprout just winding up prep school. The local schools vote almost unanimously for pretty white frocks of various types to suit the hour of the day. For morning exercises, calf-length spectator sports dresses are in good taste—and they'll come in mighty handy all summer, too. For afternoon or evening commencements instep-length white frocks of the garden type get the nod.

As for fabrics, the sheer materials are the most popular—organdy, mousseline de soie and chiffon are being run up madly at the moment. Pique also is being used by one fancy graduating class. Don't forget that these transparent materials are very revealing in bright lights, and that you don't want to look like a careless chorine as you twitter up to snatch the sheepskin from Mme. President. So get yourself an evening petticoat for your sheer dress!

Your pretty white outfit will come in handy later at those July dances. Save the cap and gown for college days, when you really "face the battle of life!"

Highest bar and eating place in town—the one atop the Empire State Building. Food and drink good, open day and night—so don't fail to have a quick one 86 stories straight up. But not enough to spoil the view. Now mind Aunt Alice!

I just learn that the popular morning greeting in Holland is not "Hail" or "Howdy," but "How did you sleep?" That, says my teacher, is because the Dutch are sleep-conscious, due to their pride in mattresses filled with kapok, which grows in their East Indies. If he slept well, he feels well, and if he slept well, he slept on kapok, figure the Dutch. That's my story, there it is!

New Cottons With Swedish Accent

By Ethel Ehlen.
The Post Fashion Editor.

A NEW TREND has crept into the fashion scene in a gala array of cotton prints, corseletted waists, short puffed sleeves, jumpers, kulla skirts, pockets and aprons. The style trend was inspired by the Swedish Tercentenary Celebration of the Settlement in America (this summer), and the fashions are gay naturalized versions of Swedish peasant costumes. They include everything from beach and country clothes, to daytime and formal evening versions. Prints and stripes in sun-drenched Swedish colorings appear in clothes which are really wearable—not just "fancy dress" affairs which are merely picturesque. Cross-stitch embroidery, rick-rack braid, novelty buttons and crisp organdy are the outstanding trimming mediums.

Spanish Sashes, Scarfs Used on Daring Models

Paris (U.P.).—Spanish sashes and draped scarfs are effectively used on many of the spring models. One wide printed sash ties at the waist of a slim-fitting full-length coat with a slightly flaring skirt. When the coat is removed, the sash ties Spanish style about the waist and hips of a bolero dress.

The GENTLER SEX

By Malvina Lindsay.

Mesdames Jekyll and Hyde.

I.

Oh yes, of course, Mrs. Marcus P. Battle
Is a very difficult person
On a committee.
She says what she thinks in tones loud and clear,
And has her own way in things little and big;
In rows she delights.
But then who should mind, for in her own home
She makes guests feel at ease, serves most marvelous food,
Yes, search through the world you never would find
A lovelier hostess.

II.

No, there's no denying that Miss Bessie Snipp
Is a very hard-boiled secretary
When at her desk.
The public she cowes, face to face, and at phone,
Her office associates, especially those who are lesser,
Are treated as worms.
But outside of her work and among her close friends,
They say she is always most charming and gracious,
A different person, oh really quite nice,
And so kind to her mother.

III.

Even her best friends admit Mrs. Geraldine Smalley
Can never be trusted for what she will say
Either to or about you.
In bridge games she's squelching to partners dumb,
In gossip most devastating to all absentees;
A superlative feline.
But if you could see her at home with her children,
She'd seem vastly different, so sweet and so kind,
Oh yes, and they say she's a most marvelous wife,
And her house is so charming.

IV.

It must be admitted that Mrs. Emory Sniffin
Has the general reputation
Of being snooty.
You never can tell whether she sees you or not,
To speak seems an effort and prolonged conversation
Very much of a bore.
But just the same she can be terribly nice,
If you're really her friend and have proved yourself right
Why everyone says she will give you her shirt,
If she likes you.

V.

It's unfortunately true that Miss Sadie Blunt
Sends to cover a great many persons
Especially strangers.
She has no patience with tactful maneuvers
Her tongue is her own and why should she bother
If people don't like it?
But when you get deep enough she's the salt of the earth
(All you need is a pick-ax—perhaps dynamite)
If you once get to know her.

Your Figure Madame!

Skipping Rope or Playing Badminton in Back Yard May Serve as Beauty Exercise.

By Ida Jean Kain.

SO YOU WON'T exercise . . . you want to play! Fine! get out-of-doors and go to it. Room to move around, sun and air will make you want to stretch your muscles for sheer joy of living.

Now that the warm days have arrived there is no better playground than your own back yard. You can skip rope, chin yourself on the clothes bar or roll a hoop . . . and let the neighbors talk! Soon they will be talking about your fine figure.

Most of us do not play enough. If we did there would be no need for special exercises. Badminton is fun and it is the finest exercise in the world for slimming your waistline. Probably you do not have a badminton court in your back yard, but you can rig one up at very little expense. All you need is a little space for the equipment, which consists of a net and two rackets—and you can get along without the net. A rope strung between two trees will serve the purpose.

If you do not know how to play this game, learn! It is easy to learn, and is as good exercise but less strenuous than tennis. The turning and twisting movements involved in batting the shuttle-cock across the net call into play all the muscles most important to your figure—those of waistline, arms and hips. Honestly, this game takes pounds off the hipline!

The same net will serve for volleyball. If you use a rope, have it seven feet from the ground. It is fun to toss a ball back and forth across the net, and just 15 minutes of this game, every day, would provide enough exercise to keep your figure trim.

You can pitch quoits or play deck tennis in your back yard. Pitching the quoits affords vigorous exercise of the arm muscles, as you will agree the morning after! For deck tennis all you need is that badminton or volleyball net, a couple of rings and a partner.

A skip rope is a good investment. With it you get exercise for the arm, leg and hip muscles. Bring the knees up high to slim hips and swing the rope backward as an extra workout for the arm muscles. When you have finished skipping, double the rope and, grasping the ends in either hand, raise it high overhead. Still holding the arms in this position with the rope stretched taut, bend sidewards at the waist, to the extreme right, then to left, ten times. Stretching and bending with the rope supplies waistline exercises.

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

Secretary Who 'Has No Designs on Her Boss' Gives Wives Pointers on Holding Husbands.

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Your column always interests me. You seem to see both sides of all questions and to be guided by common sense instead of personal feelings in your replies. However, I would like to give the secretary's side of the case in the matter of wife vs. secretary, which was brought up for discussion by a wife, in your column of May 18. I realize this is a topic that has been done to death by long and bitter debate, which usually supports the wife in her supposed right to complain, but I submit that the average wife is usually too lazy, or too busy with her own interests, to succeed at her job of being a good wife. The wife who gives her husband the right kind of home to go to at 5 o'clock usually has no cause for worry so far as her husband's secretary is concerned.

• • • •

I happen to be a secretary and I have no designs on my boss, for whom I have worked for five years. He is my bread and butter and I am considered a quite efficient and trustworthy secretary, possessing most of the attributes required for such a job. I must necessarily keep on my toes to meet the standard set. If I am better groomed than my employer's wife (and your correspondent of May 18 says that "secretaries are both better groomed and better dressed than wives") it is because I buy only good, sensible, plain, well-cut clothes, manicure my own nails regularly and have my hair done every ten days. It is my deliberate intention to be attractive looking and well groomed, in spite of the fact that nature was not unusually kind to my figure. I subscribe, too, to the belief that a secretary must be well groomed, calm, efficient and clear headed, if she is to hold her job.

• • • •

Now, for the "little Mrs.," in my case. Her personal allowance is more than my whole salary, and on more than one occasion I have had to wait for my salary so that she could have her allowance on the dot (which, of course, she does not know). All her household expenses, including rent and food, are paid from the office. It is one of my duties to see that these bills are met.

• • • •

I have been taken to the races once by my employer and his wife; I have gone with them to the movies a few times recently, after working late at the office, and have been to dinner at their home when I was required to work overtime. But I have never been invited to a party they have given, and furthermore, I hope they never do invite me. In fact, I wish they would exclude me entirely from their social life, since it places me in an awkward position to be included at all.

• • • •

However, my boss seems to think I am just about perfect and, naturally, his wife resents it. But I believe if she worked as hard at being a good wife as I work at being a good secretary, she would have less time and no need for worrying about the secretary, and more time and thought to give to her husband, who must have loved her more than any other woman or he wouldn't have married her.

• • • •

As I see it, a wife should continue to grow and keep step with her husband; not just lie down on the job because she "got her man." No man will tolerate a lazy, self-satisfied, antiquated secretary, and neither is he satisfied with that kind of wife—a fact which the wife should accept. Since there are some unscrupulous secretaries at large in the business world, naturally it follows that the secretary is inevitably blamed when the boss loses interest in his wife, in favor of his secretary. But I hope you will print my views on behalf of secretaries and for the benefit of wives. It would be nice to hear from some of the "bosses" as to why they want their secretaries invited to their parties. Wishing you continued success and all good things in life, I am, sincerely,

SECRETARY.

Prevalent Attitude.

DEAR SECRETARY: As a long-time habitue of the business world, I should say your attitude reflects the attitude of the average secretary toward her "boss" and his wife. With few exceptions, her ambition to be included in their actual social life is absolutely nil, and her interest in pleasing her employer professional only. And because she finds him not too difficult to please when competently handled and fairly dealt with, she reacts with disdainful impatience to any evidence of suspicion or self-pity on the part of his wife.

• • • •

However, it isn't always just to suppose the wife is entirely at fault if her husband fails to show her the same impeccable brand of courtesy and appreciation that he shows his secretary. In his business and public life, the average man is careful always to be more or less on his best behavior, whereas in his private life and intimate relationships he assumes it to be his inalienable privilege to "take his hair down," as we say, and be his unvarnished and sometimes tryingly grumpy self.

M. H.

Danger of 'Pouting.'

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I have just read the lament of the business-man's wife and, being a secretary, I wish to call attention to a very important point you overlooked in replying to her. The point is—the average wife usually labors under the impression that her husband is, in every other woman's eyes, the handsome, irresistible man she married. She fails to realize that, to his secretary, he is just an old codger whose wife complicates existence by thinking every young, gay and beautiful girl is trying to get him away from her.

• • • •

The middle-aged wife sits at home and thinks of her husband out in the big, wide world; lunching at smart places with lovely girls at adjoing tables, and reads significance into the time his secretary appeared at such and such a place and spoke more than two words to him . . . When evening brings her husband home, rather late from a busy day, she pouts and glowers into her coffee until he vows that life isn't worth it. Sooner or later he makes a date. But with Miss Secretary? Ah, no. He usually finds someone who knows nothing about his life, his personal debts or his business. He wants a chance to relax—and he won't find that with a distraught wife or a personal secretary.

ARDENT READER.

The Wife's Advantage.

DEAR A. R.: You've scored a real point in calling attention to the fact that secretaries seldom see their employers in the same light as their dependent and devoted wives see them—namely, as the world's most irresistible and indispensable man.

What sulky, suspicious wives seldom realize is that it is next to impossible for a business woman to create and sustain an aura of lovability about herself in her workaday environment, and that it is rather easy for the home-staying woman to do, if she will so arrange her program as to be blooming and immaculate and gay and responsive—in the morning when she bids her Wonder Man good-by for the day, and in the evening when she welcomes him home again.

Keep Close Watch On Children 2 to 5, Parents Are Urged

The health of the preschool child should be closely watched by parents. Children of this age, 2 to 5, frequently do not receive the physical care they should as parents feel that they have passed babyhood and the critical stage is over. Here is a regime for the preschool child as outlined by the Children's Bureau:

Take the preschool child for a regular health examination twice a year to a doctor experienced in the care of children.

If your child has not already been given special protection against smallpox and diphtheria, ask the doctor to give it to him

Take him to a dentist regularly twice a year for examination and care of his teeth, beginning at the end of the second year.

Give him a well-planned diet, including milk, green vegetables, fruit, cereals, meat and eggs.

Be sure that he has 11 to 13 hours of sleep every night and a daytime nap of 1 to 2 hours.

Send him outdoors for play and exercise in the sunshine.

See that he has good habits of eating, sleeping, exercise, cleanliness and elimination.

By Hope Ridings Miller,
The Post Society Editor.

While two orchestras made melody and several hundred guests made merry, the thirty-sixth aniversary of Cuba's independence wound up to a successful and colorful climax at the Cuban Embassy last evening.

At a similar celebration a year ago, the newly arrived Ambassador, Dr. Pedro Martinez Fraga, had his first fling at entertaining at a large reception in Washington. For days afterward Capital society hummed with reports of the party . . . its personable and polished host . . . its glamorous, lantern-lighted garden . . . its lavish buffet . . . and its long list of distinguished guests, who came early and stayed until the be-ruffled Cuban orchestra on the outside pavilion and the all-American one in the second floor ballroom stopped playing for the evening.

HOPE R. MILLER.

With that one party, Ambassador Fraga set a new high in hosting in Washington . . . where big diplomatic receptions are an established item on the social fare, and the celebration of one country's independence had generally been very much like the next. Last evening's entertainment lived up to what has been termed "the Fraga standard of hospitality" in every way, and in a few respects even surpassed last year's festival. Guests this year, as last, had their choice of dancing in the ballroom to the music of Sidney's orchestra, or listening to the Granet Cuban Band from New York that played for a time in the first-floor reception hall and then moved outside to the pavilion set up in one of Washington's most beautiful gardens.

An unusual lighting effect had been arranged for the improvised stage, where the program of songs and dances took place. Senorita Margot Blanco and Senorita Lily Bartet, who are visiting here from Havana, proved their prowess as singers, and Senorita Margarita Altuzara also turned out in a handsome Cuban costume, danced again and again before the party was over.

Ambassador's Niece Assists in Receiving

For almost two hours the Ambassador received in the second-floor drawing room. By his side was Senora de Montalvo, wife of the former secretary of defense of Cuba, who was gowned in a handsome pink frock, set off with an orchid corsage. On her hair was a sheaf of flowers arranged in coronet effect. Also in the receiving line was the Ambassador's niece, Senorita Ana Maria Carabia, who is making an extended visit at the embassy and who had chosen a white chiffon frock cut on simple lines and a white Juliet headdress. Senora de Baron, in a stunning black gown, fashioned with a fitted bodice and a full skirt also assisted in receiving. She is the wife of the Minister Counselor of the embassy.

Last evening's throng of guests was the second the Ambassador received in celebration of his country's independence. At noon yesterday he was host to members of the Cuban colony, the informal gathering concluding with the presentation of diplomas of the Order of Carlos J. Finlay to three professors of the staff of Cornell University—Dr. Henricus J. Stander, Dr. Wilson G. Smillie and Dr. Foster Kennedy. The award was established to perpetuate the memory of the physician who discovered the yellow fever germ.

Scores of Notables Among the Guests

A number of those who were on hand to witness the presentation also were among the guests at last evening's reception, where it seemed as if the entire Diplomatic Corps, the majority of high ranking Government officials and shoals of residentials had turned out to sample Cuban hospitality.

Out front was "William," Washington society's doughty doorman, whose very presence bespeaks an important event. Inside, from 10 o'clock until the early, and not so early, morning hours was as gay an assembly as has been seen here this season. Shoals of guests arriving at the hour set for the reception lined the balustrade on the second floor to watch those who came later.

The spacious dining room and drawing room where long tables were arranged and loaded with choicest viands were surrounded during the entire party. Champagne and other drinks flowed freely all evening and many a guest drank many a toast to Cuba's freedom.

The British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, and Lady Lindsay were among the earlier arrivals. She was gowned in rose-beige lace, trimmed with crimson roses at the base of the square neckline. Mrs. Sumner Welles was also glimpsed among guests climbing the crimson-carpeted stairway shortly after 10 o'clock. She wore a black chiffon frock with a garland of pale pink roses across one shoulder.

The Secretary of War and Mrs. Harry H. Woodring were among the guests, she wearing a handsome dress of crimson taffeta, trimmed in bands of velvet and fashioned with a full skirt and puffed sleeves. Mrs. Henry A. Wallace, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture, was there, gowned in pink chiffon and a burgundy lace jacket.

Anywhere you looked you saw diplomatic and official notables in droves. The new Brazilian Ambassador, Mario Brandao, who is readily identified by his monocle, was the center of much attention. With him most of the evening was Paulo Hasslocher of his staff. The Chinese Ambassador, Dr. C. T. Wang, came alone and left shortly before midnight. The Soviet Ambassador, Alexander Troyanovsky was among the guests; also, the Ambassador of Ecuador, Capital Colon Eloy Alfaro; the German Ambassador and Frau Diekchoff, the latter in a print frock, cut on straight lines; the Minister of Switzerland and Mme. Marc Peter; the Minister of the Union of South Africa, Ralph William Close—I did not see his wife; the Greek Minister, Demetrios Sicilianos; the Latvian Minister and Mme. Alfred Bilmanis; the Minister of Panama and Senora de Boyd; the Minister of Czechoslovakia and Mme. Vladimir Hurban, who was gowned in red.

The Counselor of the Polish Embassy, Vitold Wancowicz, was there with Mme. Wancowicz, whose smart coral crepe evening gown was worn beneath a brief jacket. Herr and Frau Prochnik of the German Embassy were glimpsed on the dance floor; as were the Counselor of the Argentine Embassy, Hector Ghiraldo, and his pretty wife, who had on one of the handsomest gowns at the party, a Chinese blue satin, with full embroidered sleeves. With the Ghiraldos were Senora Ghiraldo's mother and sister, Senora La Saigne and Senorita Suzy La Saigne, who will leave next week for a trip to California.

Senator and Mrs. Arthur Vandenberg were glimpsed dancing in the ballroom and again in the garden. Her white crepe frock, cut on Grecian lines, was worn with a white fox neckpiece. Senator Arthur Capper was among the guests; also, Senator William King, Senator and Mrs. Dennis Chavez, Representative and Mrs. Ralph Brewster, Representative Sol Bloom who arrived with his daughter, Miss Vera Bloom, and scores of other celebrities from Capitol Hill.

Many "Residentials" Glimpsed at Party

Diplomatic and officials notables were not the only ones glimpsed at the party. There were a sizable number of residential Washingtonians among the 1,000 guests. Mrs. Emory Sands, gowned in grey chiffon, was a particularly popular dancer in the garden. Mrs. George T. Summerlin, jr., who was accompanied by her father-in-law, George T. Summerlin of the State Department, was glimpsed in the throng; also, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Owsley; Mr. and Mrs. Jouett Shouse, Mr. and Mrs. Carlos del Mar, Mrs. Harold Hinton, gowned in black; Mrs. Harry Baxter and Mrs. Bissett Norment.

Several Dinners Precede Celebration

Among later arrivals were several notables who had attended dinners arranged to precede the fete. The Chief of Naval Operations and Mrs. W. D. Leahy entertained at dinner and then brought their guests on to the Cuban celebration. Among them were the Secretary of War and Mrs. Harry H. Woodring.

Mr. and Mrs. John McClure had 14 dinner guests at their home in Kenwood, their ranking guests being the Solicitor General and Mrs. Robert H. Jackson. Mrs. George T. Summerlin, jr., also wined and dined friends preceding the embassy celebration and then came on to the latter bringing the nine members of her party along with her.

Sons Visiting The Roosevelts

The President and Mrs. Roosevelt have with them over the wek-end their son, John, and his fiancee, Miss Anne Lindsay Clark, of Boston, and their son, Elliott, who arrived from Fort Worth by plane.

Mr. and Mrs. Churchill Carmalt, of Columbia, S. C., and Mrs. George Huntington, of Charleston, who have been visiting at the White House, will leave today for their homes.

Yesterday Mrs. Roosevelt and the Cabinet hostesses entertained at tea at the White House for wives and daughters of members of the House of Representatives.

Luncheon Given By Mrs. Towey

Mrs. Frank W. Towey, jr., wife of Representative Towey, of New Jersey, entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Army-Navy Country Club preceding Mrs. Roosevelt's reception at the White House for wives and daughters of Representatives.

Mrs. Towey's guests included Mrs. William H. Smathers, wife of Senator Smathers, of New Jersey, and her sister, Mrs. Virginia Dellaplaine, of Florida; Mrs. William H. Sutphen, wife of Representative Sutphen, of New Jersey; Mrs. Edward J. Hart, wife of Representative Hart, of New Jersey; Mrs. Donald H. McLean, wife of Representative McLean, of New Jersey; Mrs. Alfred N. Phillips, jr., wife of Representative Phillips, of Connecticut; Mrs. Dave E. Satterfield, wife of Representative Satterfield, of Virginia, and Mrs. John R. Murdock, wife of Representative Murdock, of Arizona.

Also Mrs. Lewis M. Long, wife of Representative Long, of Illinois; Mrs. William T. Byrnes, wife of Representative Byrnes, of New York; Mrs. Charles F. McLaughlin, wife of Representative McLaughlin, of Nebraska; Mrs. John M. Coffee, wife of Representative Coffee, of Washington; Mrs. Charles H. Leavy, wife of Representative Leavy, of Washington; Mrs. D. Worth Clark, wife of Representative Clark, of Idaho; Mrs. Walter Wyatt, Mrs. Walter Karrig, Mrs. Harlan Miller, Mrs. Dorothy Scudder Doeg, Miss Minnie Mae Fleming, of Texas; Mrs. Vincent Harrigton, and Mrs. Margaret Towey.

Comdr. and Mrs. Gantz Will Be Guests at Dinner

Commander Benjamin Soule Gantz, U. S. N., and Mrs. Gantz will be the guests of honor at a dinner to be given this evening by Mrs. Frank Shortall. The Gantzes will leave for Santiago, Calif., early in July and are being feted at one party right after the other prior to their departure.

On Friday, May 27, a luncheon and bridge will be given for them by Mrs. Edward Banks Gibson. Yesterday Mrs. James C. Vanstory entertained at a luncheon and bridge at the Army-Navy Country Club for Mrs. Gantz. Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Harry Packard was hostess at a similar party at the Columbia Country Club.

About The Town

With Dudley Harmon

ALTHOUGH there have only been two of them to date, Charlotte McNary's birthdays are fast becoming a Washington social institution. This afternoon the daughter of Senator and Mrs. Charles McNary will celebrate the attainment of her third year with a party at the Sulgrave Club.

DUDLEY HARMON.

As at the past two parties, there will be ice cream served in the shape of animals, and a huge birthday cake. An animated cartoon will be shown, and Mrs. McNary is going to take some movies of the youthful guests.

There always are as many nurses and mothers at this party as there are children, as these latter are very young, indeed. They will include Marcus and Melissa Woodring (Copper Coolidge was ruled out as being just a bit too young; he is not yet a year old), Didi Rajamaitri, daughter of the Siamese Minister and Mme. Rajamaitri, and Otto Wadsted, much-traveled son of the Danish Minister and Mme. Wadsted.

All the way from Rocky Mount, Va., will come Jean Davis, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lemon Davis, to attend the party.

• • • • •

PARTY NOTES: Mr. and Mrs. James Roosevelt will entertain at a tea Monday afternoon at their home in Georgetown. If the weather is fine, the party will no doubt take place in the attractive garden . . . Mrs. Francis Bowes Sayre, wife of the Assistant Secretary of State, will entertain at a small luncheon today at her home in Spring Valley.

• • • • •

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN of the press are having a hectic social season as a number of distinguished persons plan to entertain in their honor. There's the dance at the White House Monday evening, and Senator and Mrs. Peter Goelet Gerry will give a buffet supper for the fourth estate and several of their close friends Friday evening, June 3, at their home on R street. Invitations will be issued shortly. Attractive Mrs. Gerry is very popular among newspaperwomen in the Capital.

It is reported that Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, jr., wife of the Secretary of the Treasury, also is planning a party for the newsgatherers.

• • • • •

THE ALFALFA Club, so named because the alfalfa's roots will go further into the ground than any other plants' for a drink, is planning a spring festival. Early in June Joseph H. Himes, second vice president, will entertain the hundred-odd members at an all-day get-together at Prospect Hill, his farm near Frederick, Md.

Appropriately enough, the farm has a huge field of alfalfa, which last year was harvested by some of the more ambitious members at the spring rally. Swimming races, golf matches and other rural sports will feature the party in June.

• • • • •

SENATOR ALBEN BARKLEY is president of the club and Senator Pat Harrison is a past president. Members include such distinguished people as Representative Robert Low Bacon, Corcoran Thom, Frank Hogan and Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The late Cary Grayson was also a member for many years. The club was founded a quarter of a century ago and holds a banquet each January.

Mr. and Mrs. Himes set an all round record for hospitality last June when they entertained 250 guests at lunch and later 700 more at dinner, all in the same day.

Miss Baker Picks May 28 to Be Wed

Miss Constance Mary Baker has selected Saturday, May 28, as the date of her wedding to Lieut. (j. g.) Harold Gardiner Bowen, jr., U. S. N., son of Rear Admiral and Mrs. H. G. Bowen, of this city. Miss Helen Greene Becomes Bride of Mason Peters, Jr.

Hessler Studio.
MRS. MASON PETERS, JR.

Miss Helen Elizabeth Greene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Greene, of this city, yesterday became the bride of Mason Peters, jr., son of Mrs. John A. Hughes, of Cleveland.

The ceremony was performed in the Metropolitan Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church by the Rev. William A. Keese. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was in chartreuse mousseline de soie. She wore a cluster of white gardenias in her hair and carried a bouquet of gardenias. Patrick Frank and Leo Hofstetter were ushers.

At a reception at the Kennedy-Warren, where the bride's parents have their apartment, the bride's mother wore turquoise chiffon and a corsage of orchids. Mrs. Hughes was in blue and also had orchids.

The couple left by plane for Miami, and on their return will live in Washington. The former Miss Greene is a graduate of Iowa State College. Mr. Peters is an alumnus of Peekskill Academy and Devitt Preparatory School.

Jean H. Schmidt Picks June 11 for Her Wedding Day

Miss Jean Harriet Schmidt, of this city, has selected June 11 as the date of her wedding to Francis J Cook, also of Washington. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Schmidt, of Frederick, Md., while Mr. Cook is the son of Mrs. John J. Cook and the late Mr. Cook, of Burlington, Wis. The ceremony will take place at 4 p. m. at St. Joseph's Church, Calvert Manor, Md.

Miss Marian Schmidt will be her sister's maid of honor. Miss Helen Smith and Miss Roberta Lescalleet will be the bridesmaids. Ralph Dabe, of Chicago, is to be the best man, and Martin Itzin, cousin of the prospective bridegroom, and Eugene Haller will be ushers.

After a wedding trip, the couple will make their home in Washington.

Garden Party Benefit Set for This Afternoon

Mrs. Roberts Is Chairman of Function for Home for Incurables.

Just a reminder that although a rainy week has somewhat dampened the spirits of garden party hostesses, Mrs. Eugene Roberts, chairman of the tour of the gardens of Dumbarton Oaks this afternoon from 2 to 6, and other members of the board of managers of the Home for Incurables for whose benefit Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss are opening their estate, went right ahead with their plans, feeling perfectly certain they would have a perfect day.

James Bryce, the Scottish gardener, says roses and irises will be at the height of their beauty. Lovely tearoses, hybrids and climbing roses are abundant in the formal gardens near the house. Stocky English box, the taller American boxwood, the herb garden with its fragrant rosemary, rue, lavender and basil, the reflecting pool and the sylvan theater are in themselves worth seeing again and again.

And there's nothing more pleasant, after tramping over the acres of gardens, than to rest on the terrace and be served with delicious tea and home-made cakes. Mrs. Theodore S. Wilkinson, chairman of this feature of the tour, is having a group of women assisting her, also members of the junior committee, under the direction of Miss Alice Brady, serving as waitresses.

Proceeds of this annual fete, the only benefit which the board sponsors during the year, will go toward the care and comfort of the 165 patients at the home.

Miss Kaufman Becomes Bride

Miss Elizabeth Ann Kaufman yesterday became the bride of Frederick J. Bashwitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Bashwitz, of New York. The recemony took place in the apartment of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Kaufman, at Woodley Park Towers. The drawing room mantel, before which the marriage was performed, was banked with calla lilies, smilax and ferns, and on either side were seven-branched candelabra. Dr. Abram Simon and the Rev. Norman Gerstenfeld officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore an ensemble of navy blue sheer crepe, trimmed with white pique. Her small white hat had a navy blue veil, and she carried a bouquet of white orchids and lilies of the valley.

The couple will sail today from New York for Bermuda. After June 3 they will be at home at the Warwick Apartments.

Mrs. Wiley Honored at Reception

New Officers Guests of Party Board at Alva Belmont House.

By Jessie Ash Arndt,
The Post Club Editor.

Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, who has just returned from a six-month trip abroad, was a special guest last night at a reception given at Alva Belmont House by the outgoing executive board of the D. C. branch of the National Woman's Party, in honor of the new officers. Mrs. Wiley, long an ardent feminist, is a national officer of the party.

Mrs. Marie Moore Forrest, newly elected chairman of the branch, who was to have headed the receiving line, was called out of the city in the afternoon by the grave illness of her sister, and was unable to be present. In her place stood Dr. Miriam Oatman, first vice chairman, with Mrs. Horace Pote, second vice chairman; Mrs. Lucy Cooper Shaw and Miss Elsie Hill.

The rooms of the historic house, which serves as headquarters for the Woman's Party, had been decorated with roses, iris and other flowers from the garden. On the piano in the drawing room was a bouquet of pink roses, and in the reception hall were purple and yellow iris, with a garland of white roses circling the vase in which they stood, carrying out the colors of the organization. There was a single spray of red climbing roses on a table below a large gold-framed mirror on the center wall which won comment from many of the guests for its artistic effect.

Mrs. Karl W. Greene, hospitality chairman, who had arranged the flowers, had brought this spray from her own garden. There were also roses in a delicate shade of pink on the table in the dining room, where refreshments were served. This was lighted with six tall ivory tapers placed singly in low holders, three at either side of the rose vase.

Guests were received in the drawing room and went from there into the garden where there were lights overhead and chairs both on the grass and on the flagged court outside the old coachhouse.

Other new officers present in addition to the chairman and vice chairman were: Miss Myrl Rhine, corresponding secretary and organization chairman; Mrs. Virginia Bolte, recording secretary; Miss Ruth Morrell, treasurer; Mrs. Shaw, of the advisory committee; Miss Mathilde Bahar, legislative chairman, and Mrs. Ruth Zeisler, of the research division.

Among other guests were Miss Martha Souder, Mrs. Nina Allender, Miss Laura Berrien and Miss Anita Pollitzer, all national officers; Edwina Avery, head of the Government Workers' Committee; Mrs. E. B. Schwele, Mrs. Jamie Hearin Simon, who is here visiting her mother; Dr. Edith Allen, Bernita Shelton Matthews, Miss Dorothy Jackman, of New York; Miss Blanche Wise, Miss Mabel Van Dyke, Helena Hill Weed, Miss Dorothy Ashby Moncure, the Misses Helen and Grace McGerr.

The party was the first evening affair to be given this season in the garden at Alva Belmont House which, throughout the summers is the scene of many interesting affairs after the active club season is closed at most organizations' headquarters in the city.

Miss Alice Paul, of the national council of the Woman's Party, who recently returned from Geneva, was here on business this week but left for New York yesterday afternoon. She expects to be at headquarters again next week.

New D. C. Officers of Woman's Party Honored

To Have Annual Mass.

The Catholic Fraternity will have its annual communion mass at St. Patrick's Church on Sunday morning at 9 o'clock. The Rev. Thomas Dade will say the mass and members of the group will have breakfast at Rudy's Cafe following. John Fitzpatrick and Mrs. Margaret Lane are in charge of arrangements.

"Madame Chairman" . . .

By Suzanne.

MRS. ALBERT N. BAGGS, chairman of the Gray Ladies of the District of Columbia, will be on hand to greet the guests tomorrow at the annual birthday party of the organization at Walter Reed Hospital.

She has returned home just in time for the party, as has Mrs. Guy Despard Goff, one of the original Gray Ladies who will assist at the tea table. Both Mrs. Baggs and Mrs. Goff, with Mrs. William Lewis and Mrs. Wallace W. Chiswell, were Gray Lady delegates from here to the Red Cross convention in San Francisco. Mrs. Baggs, immediately after her return from the West, left for Pennsylvania, where she spoke at two commencement exercises for Gray Lady classes, and Wednesday she will go to Bridgeport, Conn., to make a similar address. Mrs. Goff visited in Southern California before returning.

She spoke Monday at the graduation of volunteer units from courses preparing them for service at Germantown and Bryn Mawr hospitals. On Tuesday she was among the guests of honor at a luncheon, at which Norman H. Davis, head of the American Red Cross, also was present, celebrating the twenty-second anniversary of the founding of the southeastern Pennsylvania section. A tea followed at the home of Miss Elizabeth Newhall.

Mrs. Baggs was a guest while in Pennsylvania of Mrs. George B. Evans, of Rosemont, chairman of the Gray Ladies for the Southeastern Chapter, and in Bridgeport will be the guest of Mrs. Clifford B. Wilson.

AN INTERESTING visitor in Washington this week-end will be Sir Granville Bantock, of London who will be honored tomorrow afternoon at a reception given by Miss Ida Hoyt Chamberlain at the Grafton Hotel studio of the League of American Pen Women. Sir Granville, who is world famous as a composer, is here as representative of Trinity College of Music in London, giving the examinations to students of its extension course.

He was here two years ago but last season was unable to come as he wrote and directed the Coronation Ode. He has done much writing in the Chinese style and in this connection first met Miss Chamberlain, who is also a composer of Chinese music. She has recently been appointed secretary of the extension work for Trinity College in this area.

MRS. LLOYD W. BIDDLE, president of the District of Columbia Federation of Women's Clubs, who has just returned from the triennial convention in Kansas City, Mo., was toastmistress last night at a mother-daughter banquet held at Takoma Park Presbyterian Church.

The affair was arranged by Mrs. Fred S. Wilson, president of the Woman's Society, and Mrs. Edward Widdifield, and attended by nearly 300 guests.

Members of the committee brought in roses by the bushel basketful to decorate the room, and there were flowers everywhere—even red ramblers climbing over a white trellis at the back of the stage.

Mrs. Margaret Blish presented dramatic readings as a feature of the program.

A conference to organize the first Consumer Federation in the District of Columbia, will open at 10 o'clock this morning at Wesley Hall Mrs. Emily Newell Blair will preside.

Call for the meeting sets forth that statistics show Washingtonians pay more for rent, milk, transportation and other commodities and services than do residents of other cities. "It has the highest living cost of 59 large cities. Let's do something about it," says the announcement.

Representatives of civic, labor, church and women's organizations have been invited to attend the meeting which will be an all-day session with luncheon at noon. Donald E. Montgomery, consumers' counsel for the A. A. A. will give the background of the consumers' movement which has been organized in New York, Buffalo, Chicago, Philadelphia and many other cities, and Dr. Ruth Ayres, of the New York Consumers Federation, will tell what has been done there.

Among organizations sending delegates are the League of Women Voters, the League of Women Shoppers, the Y. W. C. A., Y. M. C. A., American Association of University Women; Washington Chapter, American Institute of Architects, Washington Consumers Counsel, Negro Alliance.

Staff of General Federation Ready for New President Today

Mrs. Saidie Orr Dunbar Will Arrive at Headquarters of Clubs From Triennial Kansas City Meeting; To Make Home in Capital.

Headquarters of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, 1734 N street, is ready for the arrival this morning of Mrs. Saidie Orr Dunbar, new president. She is coming from the triennial convention in Kansas City to take up her home in Washington.

Miss Vella A. Winner, editor of the General Federation Magazine, and other members of the headquarters staff who attended the convention, have returned, as have the local club delegates.

New appointments announced include that of Mrs. R. H. Latham, of Asheville, N. C., as chairman of the budget; Mrs. A. L. Blackstone, of Waukashaw, Wis., as dean of directors, representing the 50 directors on the executive committee, and Mrs. Ernest M. Galloway, of Sanford, Fla., as chairman of the board of trustees.

Mrs. Latham was chairman of the program for the federation meeting in Tulsa last spring and was chairman of credentials and elections for the convention just closed. She also is chairman of the new calendar reform committee.

Mrs. Blackstone is retiring president of the Wisconsin State Federation and incoming general federation director. She also was chairman of program for the triennial convention just closed.

Mrs. Galloway automatically becomes a member of the executive committee, which is complete except for the dean of department chairmen, who will not be chosen until after all department heads have been appointed.

The federation accepted the invitation of San Francisco to hold the council meeting there May 8 to 14, 1939. Both Milwaukee and the District of Columbia extended invitations for 1940, and Atlantic City for the next triennial meeting in 1941.

Ambassador's Wife Aids in Art Benefit

Countess van der Straten-Ponthoz Sponsors Table.

Countess van der Straten-Ponthoz, wife of the Belgian Ambassador, is sponsoring the tea table which will be a feature of the Country Fair being given by the Guild of St. Gertrude's School of Arts and Crafts at the school grounds today. She will be assisted by a group of diplomatic women—Mme. Grenade, wife of the Commercial Counselor of the Belgian Embassy; the Marchioness of Sant 'Orsola, wife the Naval Attache of the Italian Embassy; Mme. Champsaur, wife of the Air Attache of the French Embassy, and Mme. Lucet, wife of the Third Secretary of the French Embassy.

Mrs. John Franklin Carter, Mrs. Robert Cummin, Mrs. Mae Louise Hamilton, Miss Mary Louise Johnson and Miss Virginia Burke will also pour during the afternoon.

Booths will be set up on the grounds. There will be tables for bridge on the covered porches, and gay tents for the fortune tellers. Mrs. J. Hamilton Lewis, wife of the Senator from Illinois, whose ability to read palms has won for her the name of "Gypsy;" Mrs. Eames MacVeagh, Baroness A. Ungern Sternberg and Mrs. Phil Ferguson entertained the guests with fortune telling by means of palmistry, tea leaves, cards and the stars.

Mrs. Augustus Giegengack will take tickets for the benefit, assisted by Mrs. Daniel Mahoney, Miss Mary Kolb, Miss Mary Agnes Young, Miss Jane Sakeld and Masters David Slingluff and Frederick Stohlman.

Miss Sturtevant Sets Holton Arms Record

When Miss Brereton Sturtevant, daughter of Mrs. Charles Lyon Sturtevant, is graduated from Holton Arms School this June, the "magna cum laude" on her diploma will represent the highest grades obtained in any subjects at the school in the last 35 years.

Miss Sturtevant, who has attended Holton Arms for 12 years, is a sister-in-law of Mrs. William North Sturtevant, president of the Washington Junior League.

Tea to Celebrate Opening of Exhibit

Mrs. Stratton and Mr. Muth to Be Arts Club Hosts.

Mrs. Charles H. Stratton and George Edward Muth will be hosts at a tea at the Arts Club of Washington tomorrow afternoon to celebrate the opening of an exhibition of photographs by Washingtonians.

The first national Capital Salon of Photography has already attracted much interest, and a large number of club members and invited guests are expected at the opening. The work of 61 photographic artists will be shown in the gallery, while the reception room will be given over to the work of three Arts Club members, Peggy Duffy, Roy Lyman Saxton and Felian Garzia.

This is the first opportunity Washington photographers have had to present a purely local show. It is being held under the auspices of the Washington Camera Council, and the members of the salon committee who are: Lloyd Macurdy, chairman; Wesley C. Mock, treasurer; W. Townsend Jamison, Dr. David R. Craig, Julian Brown and Mary Eleanor Browning. The exhibition is open to the public from May 23 to June 3.

SPIES IN WHITE TIES.

Washington, May 21.

Some of the best guessers say there are 150 to 200 foreign spies around the Capital—men and women whose daily bread and champagne is earned chiefly by espionage, spies in white ties and other disarming costumes for snooping.

* * * *

This guess is distinctly unofficial. Gen. Malin Craig's army officers in charge of military intelligence remind the nervous patriot that this Republic does not spy on its friends in times of peace, and it is the gallant assumption that other nations are equally noble and incurious.

Gen. Craig . . . no spies.

* * * *

Even counter-espionage, in these piping times of peace, is left by the Army to the civilian Secret Service, which explains that it treats such a romantic task merely as a sideline or by-product of its duties of lassoing counterfeiters or gold-hoarders . . .

But I'd gamble my vacation money that the phone numbers of many a foreign spy are listed in some American's little red book.

"—some spying is comical."

You are welcome to three guesses as to which of the friendly powers have the most spies here . . . Some of them have three kinds of spies on the job: (1) To ferret out secret and confidential information of military importance; (2) To spread propaganda and report on how it is getting across; and (3) To keep an eye on their own countrymen here.

* * * *

"Military information" may include everything from the latest airplane catapult to the number of cadets named Schmidt at West Point and whether southern troops have safety razors or straight-edges in their kits . . . Some of it is antiquated or comically trivial, and the governments which pay for it are stuck with it.

* * * *

Foreign propaganda is extensively intrusted to "spies in white ties," because they have social access to our more important (and more vulnerable) sectors . . . Sometimes, of course, they work in business suits, pajamas or golf clothes . . .

They keep tab on who is inclined to listen to logic and who is skittish about that Certain Nation . . . They get in more licks than all the short wave propaganda broadcasts combined.

* * * *

Certain governments are nervous and suspicious of their own countrymen in this Capital, and gossip has it that one eminent Washingtonian reports directly to Berlin on the loyalty, ideology, morale, social engagements and unguarded chatter of some of Herr Hitler's explorers . . .

Incidentally, it is accepted as more than a mere joke, among the diplomats, that some of the Nazis now holding high office in Germany were on the French spy payrolls before Hitler became chancellor.

"—the Hollywood influence."

Some aviators now assume as a matter of course that American ports and industrial "hot spots" will be bombed promptly at the beginning of the next world war which embroils us . . .

Professional eyes (so they say) have gazed down on the Atlantic seaboard from passenger planes and other aircraft, over and over, until the landscape is as familiar as their native airlanes; and the data is studied where it will do most harm.

* * * *

A few glamour gals are supposed to be at work at the ancient profession of pilfering military and diplomatic secrets from gullible subalterns and doting colonels, but this is perhaps the Hollywood influence in the technique of espionage—an insistence on love interest . . .

Most of the work is done by hombres who are both suave and hard-boiled . . . In the next war the sabotage will win more battles than the artillery, so I'm told.

* * * *

Most espionage is fantastic bushwah—much of the stuff spies find out could be more easily obtained by writing a letter to the War Department, or listening to official speeches . . .

Spies pull the leg of their superiors, and manage to live a fairly pleasant existence . . . But knowledge is power, and a methodical nation wants to know everything about its international buddies . . .

If Frank Merriwell is disengaged for the moment, he might paint some slant eyebrows on himself and find out whether Japan is building any super-colossal warships . . . Our observers haven't been able to find out.

36% Slash Is Ordered In D.C. Relief

Reduction Blamed on Failure to Get Money From Congress.

900 Families Will Lose Assistance Before July 1.

Reduction of the present cases on the District relief role by 36 per cent was ordered yesterday by the Board of Public Welfare.

The action by the board, it was explained, was due to the refusal by Congress to increase the relief appropriation of $900,000. At the time this amount was allotted, civic as well as District officials feared the relief rolls would have to be seriously decreased.

It is estimated that it will be necessary to reduce the present roll of 2,500 cases to not more than 1,600—or a slash of 900—as an average per month for the next fiscal year.

Method Is Explained.

Welfare officials said such reduction must be made by July 1 since the Public Assistance Division must not exceed an expenditure of approximately one-twelfth of the total each month and must save funds in order to give fuel and to increase the case load slightly in winter when there is more sickness.

In reducing the present cases the following policies were approved:

Some reduction will be normal because of the approach of the summer season.

Single persons and couples over the age of 65 years, who have been found ineligible for old age assistance or blind assistance, will be referred to the Home for aged and Infirm at Blue Plains.

Other "infirm" single persons who are unable to care for themselves will be referred to the Home for Aged and Infirm, and relief stopped.

Will Get No Cash.

Surplus commodities may be given to these classifications if they are unwilling to go to the Home for aged and Infirm, but no cash relief.

Close cases, in which there is as much as $15 a month income per person in the family group, up to maximum of $60. There will be few, if any, such cases, and it is evident some cases will have to be closed who have less income than this.

Cases of those who have secured physician's statement of unemployability, but without a diagnosis, will be closed.

Cases in which the natural wage earner refuses medical treatment, hospital care or vocational training which would probably restore employability, will be closed.

Cases of women with one child will be closed if the children are of school age or if some arrangement can be made for care if under school age. This does not apply to aid to dependent children cases.

Further reductions will be made on the judgment of staff members.

Hazen to Seek Settlement of Milk Dispute

Is Alarmed by Threatened Walkout of 1,100 Wagon Drivers.

Intervention by District officials to prevent the threatened strike June 6 of 1,1000 milk-wagon drivers was indicated yesterday by District Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen.

The Commissioner, alarmed at the possibility of curtailment of the city's milk supply, said he would bring the matter before the next board meeting Tuesday.

He emphasized that the board would take no sides in the controversy, acting only to bring the distributors and employes together for arbitration.

Increase Is Disputed.

Chief point of dispute is the union's demand for a flat $3 increase in the weekly minimums, ranging from $21 to $35.50. In negotiations for a new contract to replace the present agreement, expiring June 6, distributors already have offered the following concessions:

Two weeks' vacation with pay, instead of one; reduction of maximum hours for drivers from 60 a week to 58; a 48-hour week for plant workers, with time-and-a-half for overtime; payment of 3 per cent interest on bonds required of drivers; installation of time clocks.

A spokesman for the distributors said the proposed pay increase was "out of the question." Notified of Hazen's mediation suggestion, however, he said:

"We are always willing to negotiate further."

With approximately 85 per cent of the union's membership participating, Milk Wagon Drivers Local, No. 246, has voted 761 to 176 to walk out unless their proposals are accepted.

Union Asks Bottle Deposit.

James A. Holden, business agent for the local, last night said employers so far had refused to discuss a suggestion for requiring stores and other wholesale purchasers of milk to pay a deposit on bottles. A reasnable deposit, he said, would save distributing concerns "at least $500,000 a year" and make possible the requested salary increase.

Weekly wage increases from $2 to $5 were embodied in the contract which went into effect last June 6. Membership in the drivers' union, an A. F. of L. affiliate, has risen sharply the past year.

H. A. Schultheis, of the Chestnut Farms Dairy, pointing out that distributors had not yet received official notification of the strike vote, said no plans had been considered for the delivery of milk if the walkout materialized.

Mohammedans Aid Leper Work In Africa Now, Missionary Says

Sections of Continent Hitherto Barred to Christians Being Opened, D. C. Group Which Finances Hospitals Is Told.

Christians are being permitted to enter Mohammedan sections of Liberia to aid in control of leprosy, the Rev. G. W. Playfair, field director of the Sudan Interior Missions, yesterday told the semiannual meeting of the Washington Auxiliary of the American Mission to the Leper, at Mount Vernon M. E. Church South.

The Rev. Mr. Playfair said that not only have physicians been permitted to enter hitherto proscribed sections of the country, but Mohammedan rulers have lent their support to the projects. The Emir of Gwandu, he said, offered any site in his province for a leper colony.

The speaker said another Mohammedan ruler, the Sultan of Sokoto, religious head of all Moslems in North Africa, gave 600 acres for a leper settlement.

The Rev. Walter G. Borchers, missionary to Brazil, described work of a leper colony at Sao Paulo, where, he said, 2,000 lepers are being cared for in a hospital established by the Washington auxiliary.

At a business session of the organization yesterday morning, Mrs. G. C. D. Townshand was re-elected president. Other officers named were Mrs. J. E. Angel, vice president; Mrs. William Seligman, recording secretary; Mrs. Alfred Gould, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Emma Sands, assistant treasurer, and Mrs. O. B. Atwood, chairman of Key Women.

Ray P. Currier, of the New York office of the American Mission to the Leper, spoke briefly. The treasurer reported that $7,569 had been contributed for the organization's work until January 1.

General Foods President Asks Business Peace

Francis Urges Marketing Association to Study Distribution.

Government, business and labor were urged to "bury the hatchet" and co-operate for a better economic world by Clarence Francis, president of the General Foods Corporation of New York, in an address before the American Marketing Association at the Mayflower Hotel last night.

"In burying the hatchet, I do not mean in each other's backs," said Francis, who talked before the dinner-meeting of the Nation's marketing experts.

It is high time, he added, that business men stopped running to Washington "for every economic stomach-ache, especially when we might do something to cure it ourselves."

Would Study Distribution.

"While much can be done cooperatively by the Government and business, it does not mean that business should show any less self-reliance," he declared.

Although business spends $200,000,000 each year on research to develop new and improved products and the Government spends large sums for agricultural research, the public would benefit further if both the Government and business would increase their studies of complex distribution problems, said Francis.

"Keeping," he continued, "the idea in mind of finding ways and means to lower costs, thereby allowing the people to buy more with their money."

The Administration's statement that a third of the Nation's population is ill-fed, ill-clothed and ill-housed was interpreted by Francis as a challenge for marketing men to help develop a great new market in this country.

200 Delegates Attend.

In outlining a program to the association, Francis urged businessmen to make a "clear-headed distinction between legislation designed to write rules so that competition will be fair to industry and consumers alike, and legislation designed to put someone out of business."

Other points on the program were a greater spirit of co-operation, more fact finding by both business and the Government, more education in schools and for consumers concerning industry and distribution and more thinking in terms of "homespun English" from the consumers' point of view.

Others who addressed the more than 200 delegates yesterday included Carl Dipman, editor of the "Progressive Grocer;" Malcolm L. Merriam, chief of the Installment Credit Unit, Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce; John Benson, president of the American Association of Advertising Agencies; Leverett S. Lyon, vice president of the Brookings Institution; Jean Carroll, of the Kroger Grocery & Baking Co; Eldridge Haynes, vice president of the McGraw-Hill Publishing Co.; D. E. Montgomery, of the Consumers' Council of the AAA, and D. H. Kaplan, director of Urban Study of Consumer Purchases, Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Fred E. Clark, president of the association, composed of scientific experts in predicting market trends, most effective advertising and presentation of goods, presided. Albert Haring is secretary; John J. Karol, treasurer, and Howard T. Hovde and L. Edward Scriven, vice presidents.

White-Collar Workers Worth More on WPA Jobs, Says Union

But Aubrey Williams Defends $1,000 Maximum Before Convention on Economy Grounds; Wage-Hour Bill Victory Seen.

White-collar workers are worth more than $1,000 a year on WPA jobs, the United Office and Professional Workers insisted yesterday in a resolution adopted in a convention here. The $1,000 maximum was set by Lieut. Col. Brehon Summerville, Corps of Engineers, New York City WPA administrator.

Aubrey Williams, assistant WPA administrator, informed the convention the maximum must go into effect and based his decision on grounds of economy. He would not, he said, "entertain any proposals for new white-collar projects to alleviate unemployment among these workers.

Representative Scott (Democrat), of California, predicted to the convention that the wage-hour bill would be passed either Monday or Tuesday. He based this on the belief that many Congressmen who voted to recommit the reorganization bill wanted to make their peace with the Administration "and the voters."

Representative Bernard (Farmer-Labor), of Minnesota, concentrated on Mayor Hague, of Jersey City, saying:

"I have recently had an experience with a town still closed to union organization. Maybe you read something in the papers about how Jerry O'Connell and I tried to speak in Jersey City. You know how we were forced to beat a strategic retreat. The price of our exercise of the right to speak in Jersey City was bloodshed and murder, violence directed not against us but against the very people we sought to aid. That price we refused to pay.

"But the victory is not Mayor Hague's. All of democracy-loving America has seen the open sore of fascism running in Jersey City. Now the Department of Justice and the La Follette committee begin to investigate what has so long been known—the abrogation of civil liberty in Jersey City.

"As a candidate for re-election I must urge upon you the necessity for trade union unity on the political front as a problem apart from solution of the strictly organizational problems which now separate you from your brothers in the A. F. of L. I think you have read well the lessons of history and have seen how a divided labor movement is powerless to resist the fascist advance."

The convention adopted resolutions calling for enactment of the anti-lynching bill and for the organization of colored persons into the UOPWA "in an effort to end discriminatory practices."

Larceny Is Solved Three Days Before Lookout Is Posted

Washington police yesterday learned they had cleared up a grand larceny case three days before a lookout was broadcast.

The suspect, William A. Field, colored, 28, was located by Lieut. J. A. Connors in the District jail, working off a sentence of 60 days and $100 fine handed down in Police Court Thursday for reckless driving.

Police learned the car Field was driving when he collided with a second automobile Wednesday was stolen in Richmond.

Inspectors Weigh Steamer Crashes

A marine inspection board composed of Capt. W. W. Storey and Capt. Alfred Kabernagle late yesterday took under advisement two collision cases in which the Wilson Line excursion craft, City of Washington, was involved.

The first was the case in which last Sunday the big pleasure craft ran down the sailboat Fancy Pants, and the second was the accident Tuesday night when the steamer tore away part of a dock in Alexandria.

Everything possible was done by officers of the steamer to prevent hitting the sail boat, the board was told. Testimony was given by Capt. John Emering, master of the City of Washington, and Harbor Patrolmen Carl R. Spring and Charles A. Parker, who saw the accident from a patrol boat off Hains Point.

For the pier crash the captain and members of his crew blamed a mixup in signals.

'Alice in Naziland' Features Party of Communist Group

"Alice in Naziland," a parody on the tea-table scene in the Lewis Carroll book, featured the "Sweet Sixteen Party" of the Young Communist League at 509 G street northwest last night. Leaders of the league refused to identify the four players—Alice, the mad-hatter, March hare and dormouse—because, they said, the principals might get in trouble with their employers.

According to one of the players, the March hare represented a Nazi, the mad hatter a "mad Nazi," and the dormouse a middle-class German. The players frequently announced that "No one is hungry in Germany" while eating imaginary food and drinking imaginary tea.

Henry Winston, colored national administration secretary of the league, was the chief speaker. He reviewed recent legislation passed by Congress, and said the "temporary defeat' of the anti-lynching bill involved the whole question of American democracy. Florence Plotrick, representative of the Communist Party, greeted the league and called for a militant youth movement in America. Sara Rosner, president, presided at the meeting which was attended by about 50 persons.

Kidnap Suspect Returned to D. C.

Frank B. Waters, 34, of the 500 block of Sixth street northwest, arrested on a warrant at Martinsburg, W. Va., in connection with the kidnaping and robbery of James O. Stevens, Suitland, Md., liquor dealer, was returned to Washington yesterday by members of the robbery squad.

Stevens was robbed of $200 the night of March 6 and started a gun battle between police and his kidnaper when he leaped from his automobile on Queens Chapel road northeast before a motorcycle patrolman.

Spanish Red Cross Film On View Here Tonight

First showing in Washington of the official Spanish Red Cross films has been scheduled for tonight at 8:30 p. m. at Pierce Hall, Fifteenth and Harvard streets northwest. The film will be part of a meeting sponsored by the Spanish Committee in Defense of Democracy. Senor Fernando Bunful, general delegate of the Spanish Red Cross in north Central and South America, will speak, as will Senor Adolfo Garcia Fernandez, Dr. Sanchez Marquez, Senor Jesus Rubio Villanueva and Santiago Iglesias, resident commssioner of Puerto Rico.

Director Reports On Wide Changes In Jewish Home

Widespread changes in the Jewish Foster Home, developing "a program based upon the most forward-looking thinking in child welfare," were reported yesterday by Herbert J. Rich, a director of the home, located at 3212 Q street northwest. Rich spoke for the child welfare committee of the Council of Social Agencies at the Y. W. C. A.

All suggestion of charity has been removed from the home, he said, to prevent the children from developing dependent attitudes. They are encouraged to take part in community activities, but are not allowed at events given exclusively for institutional children.

Dormitories have been walled off into small rooms, he added, to make the home resemble normal family life. The children themselves help to make furniture and decorate their rooms.

Woman Who Saw Civil War as Girl Of 21 Dies in D. C.

Funeral services for Mrs. Clarence Bruce Malvan, 97, who recalled having seen Lincoln and talked often of the events which took place in Washington before and during the Civil War, will be held Monday at 1 p. m. in Lincoln Memorial Congregational Church. Burial will be in Harmony Cemetery.

The widow of Richard Malvan, Mrs. Malvan died Thursday of heart disease at her home, 935 S street northwest. She was a native of Alexandria and the mother of 13 children, all deceased. She had lived in Washington for the past 85 years.

Surviving are two brothers, John Carl Bruce, in his eighties, and Elsworth M. Bruce, in his seventies; seven grandchildren, four great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Greater National Capital Unit Continues Drive for $60,000

The drive of the Greater National Capital Committee to raise $60,000 to finance its 1938-39 activities continued yesterday under chairmanship of John A. Reilly, president of the Second National Bank.

Two weeks ago the campaign was launched at a luncheon at the Potomac Electric Power Co.

Since its founding seven years ago the Greater National Capital Committee has devoted all its time to attracting conventions and visitors to Washington.

"We have two important sources of money for circulating in trade here," said Reilly at the time the drive was launched. "The most important is the Federal pay roll, and the second most important is the money spent here by tourists at conventions or on individual business."

Kansas Delegation Will Arrive Today

Eighty Kansas business and professional men and women will arrive in Washington this afternoon for a one-day visit as part of an industrial tour of Eastern States, sponsored by the Kansas State Chamber of Commerce.

The group will arrive in the late afternoon, spend tomorow sightseeing and leave for South Carolina Sunday night. An all-Kansas dinner will be given for them tonight at the Willard Hotel.

Man Sentenced In Speeding Case

Judge Edward Curran yesterday sentenced Fred Bloom, who lives in the 4200 block Ninth street northwest, to pay $100 or serve 30 days on a second-offense speeding charge.

Bloom was arrested at his home after Park Policeman E. S. Mast chased him, at 80 miles an hour, through Georgetown and out Wisconsin avenue. Both were on motorcycles.

Playground Situation In Glover Park Is Topic

Forty members of the Glover Park Citizens' Association last night discussed the playground situation in the Glover Park area at a meeting at the Industrial Home School, but adjourned until October without adopting a resolution on the subject. Some members favored completing the Benjamin Starrett Playground; others advocated a new playground at B. P., midway between Burleith and Villa Park. A special joint committee on playgrounds was appointed to meet with the parent-teachers association. Its members are Sheldon Fairchild and Mrs. William C. Dowden.

Dr. Schmitt Urges Fast Trains To Lighten Suburban Traffic

A program to utilize existing railroad tracks to provide rapid train service into Washington from suburbs, relieving congested highway traffic, was described by Dr. Waldo L. Schmitt, curator of the National Museum, before the Takoma Park Citizens Association last night. Meeting at the Takoma Park Library, the association voted to ask Congress to investigate the proposal.

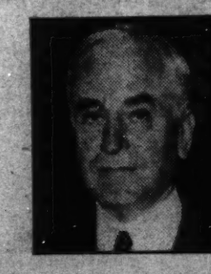

Dr. Schmitt said that already Washington is encircled by railroad track except between the Georgetown freight station, Thirtieth and M streets northwest, and the Pennsylvania tracks at Twelfth street and Maryland avenue southwest. He said a subway from Twelfth street and Maryland avenue southwest to Twelfth street and Constitution avenue could be built for an estimated $800,000; the latter site would probably be the terminal most convenient to the Federal triangle, he said.

In outlining this plan, designed to relieve traffic and speed up service for suburban residents, Dr. Schmitt called attention to tracks running from Bethesda, Silver Spring and Takoma, from College Park and Hyattsville, and from Chevy Chase to Georgetown.

Dr. Guy Clinton was re-elected president of the association, which does not meet again until fall. Other officers are Reed F. Martin, first vice president; Mrs. Mary Lamond White, second vice president; Walter Irey, secretary, and Arthur F. Gordon, treasurer. Mr. Irey and Mr. Martin were re-elected delegates to the Federation of Citizens Associations.

14 WASHINGTON: SATURDAY, MAY 21, 1938 X ****

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

Cleveland, May 20.—Oscar Vitt, who has his Cleveland Indians up there leading the league and thinking about winning the pennant, today shed new light on an 18-year-old high light of pitching history—Walter Johnson's memorable no-hit game at Boston.

POVICH

That, you remember, was the only no-hit performance of Johnson's 21-year pitching career. A half dozen times he had pitched one hit games; on dozens of occasions he had been reached for only two hits. But the ambition of every pitcher—a no-hitter—had always escaped him. And so, when on an August afternoon in 1920, he stood at the threshold of a no-hit performance, even Boston fans lifted a prayer that he would make it.

He had two Red Sox out in the ninth, you remember, and the dangerous Harry Hooper was at bat. As yet the Boston Red Sox had made no hits. Johnson had to dispose only of Hooper. And now Vitt enters our story.

* * * *

"I was coaching at first base for the Red Sox. My last season as a big league ball player was 1918, when Detroit let me out, and I had caught on as a coach for the Boston club. Nobody ever had any more respect for Walter Johnson than I did. I had played against him for six years and wanted to see him turn in that no-hit game.

"As Johnson started to wind up and pitch to Hooper, I called time and rushed up to the batters' box. 'Harry,' I said, 'you're a low-down guy if you try to make a hit against Walter. Make it look good, but strikeout,' I said.

"I wouldn't have told anybody to do that against any other pitcher, but Johnson was different. Everybody loved that guy. I thought Hooper would feel that way about it too. But he didn't.

"'Nothing doin,' Hooper told me. 'I don't care if it is Johnson. He's gotta pitch to me. I can tie this ball game up with a home run.'

"Well, they never can say that Johnson didn't earn that no-hitter that day. Because Hooper was really in there swinging. He hit that ball as hard as he could and was a hot smash to Joe Judge. Judge made a helluva play to knock that ball down, and Johnson made a helluva play in getting over to first base to take that throw from Judge for the last out."

* * * *

"You're right about that, Oscar," chimed in Bucky Harris. "Nobody remembers that ball game better than I do. If it wasn't for me, Johnson would have had better than a no-hit game. He'd have had a no-man-reach-first-game. The only guy who got on base against him was Eddie Ayers. And I know, because I fumbled the ball that put Ayers on. It was an easy chance, too, but I muffed it."

"Yeah, I remember that," said Vitt, "but I remember that next play, too. Johnson would never have had his no hit game if it hadn't been for you, Bucky, because the next guy up murdered the ball and you turned in a swell play on it to get him out. Remember that one?"

"Well," smiled Harris, "I sorta remember that one, too. It took some of the sting out of that error I made."

* * * *

The current sensation of the league leading Indians—and of the American League—is this fellow Ken Keltner, Cleveland's third baseman. Daily Keltner is growing in stature as one of the rich "finds" in recent years.

To date he has hit six home runs and a generous sprinkling of two-baggers and triples. He is maintaining an average of .326 and when he hit one of Jimmy DeShong's pitches into the left field seats in the Cleveland park yesterday he made what probably will be one of the meager half-dozen home runs that will be hit in that sector all season.

* * * *

When he came up to the Indians from Milwaukee this spring Keltner fell into the proper hands. There was evidence that he could hit—he batted .310 with Milwaukee last season—but he was not very acceptable as a third baseman. In fact, he was supposed to be something of a bum in the field.

But when he joined Cleveland he came under the management of a fellow who knows all the answers concerning third-base play. Oscar Vitt, from 1912 to 1918, had been an outstanding third-sacker for the Detroit Tigers. If anyone could teach Keltner the intricacies of third-basing, Vitt could. And he did. He took young Keltner in hand in the South, spotted his weaknesses. He made the rookie get on his toes, cured him of the habit of backing away from ground balls. He made him rock with the pitch and thus get the jump on the ball. He showed him how to dash in for bunts and how to make that snap throw to first base.

* * * *

And the young fellow has caught on something scrumptiously. If any third baseman in the league can, at this writing, challenge the supremacy of Washington's Buddy Lewis, it is this chap Keltner. Seemingly he can field and hit.

His hitting power he owes to the steel-like springs in his wrists. Those are a powerful pair of wrists on the tall, bony Cleveland rookie. They have to be to give him such distance on his wallops. Because, unlike Joe DiMaggio, Lou Gehrig and other powerful hitters, Keltner does not stand flat-footed in the batters' box. He swings while on his toes, and anybody'll tell you that isn't the proper way to get distance on your wallops. But that powerful wrist action offsets that fault.

Drive Knuckleballer Out of Box in 2d; Almada, Stone Hit Homers.

By Shirley Povich.
A Staff Correspondent.

Cleveland, May 20.—In a nine inning skit entitled "The Redskins' Revenge" or "The Nats Take It on the Chin Again," Cleveland's league-leading Indians stampeded to a 6-3 victory over the Washington club today.

It was revenge, complete and entirely satisfactory to the Indians. For today they were meeting up with Emil Leonard and his knuckle ball for the first time since that fellow shut 'em out in 13 innings two weeks ago, and they slapped him down with great violence.

Leonard and his knuckler were driven from the premises before three Injuns bit the dust in the second inning. In one wild scoring spree, the Redskins hammered Leonard for six hits and crammed five of their runs into the inning.

Lose Six Out of Seven.

The Nats, who were absorbing their sixth licking in seven games on the road, were a helpless and hopeless crew against Cleveland's Johnny Allen. Like the Indians, they made 10 hits, but they left eight potential runs stranded on base and otherwise performed like—well, like bums.

The Nats, who have been playing a lot of shoddy baseball on this trip, hit a new low in the second inning. At least Rick Ferrell hit a new low. With Buddy Myer on first base, Ferrell sent a tame fly to right fielder Bruce Campbell and then in his disgust failed to run it out. Campbell, noting the laxity of the Nats' catcher, deliberately dropped the ball, picked it up and shot it to Hale at second base for a force play on Myer, and Hale heaved it to first for a double play before Ferrell realized his error and started to run.

But perhaps we shouldn't be too harsh on Ferrell. After all he's only been in the league 10 years.

It was no fault of Elon Hogsett's that the Nats lost today. The old fellow went in there in the second inning after Leonard was unable to get the Indians out, and over the rest of the distance Hogsett gave the Nats plenty of encouragement to go out and win the ball game.

He held the Indians to four hits in those last 8 1-3 innings and their only score against him was Averill's fourth home run of the season—over the rightfield wall in the eighth. But the Nats were held in subjection by Allen.

Washington flashed in front at the start of the game. Melo Almada swatted Allen's third pitch for a line drive home run over Centerfielder Averill's head, but that 1-0 lead lasted no longer than the second inning.

Then the Indians went hog-wild against Leonard, their former nemesis. Averill rapped a double against the rightfield fence, Trosky singled into center and Keltner singled into left. Pytlak made the fourth successive hit, a single to left and then Keltner and Pytlak put on a double steal. Allen scored a run with a squeeze bunt and Lary singled to right. The panicky Leonard hit Campbell on the arm and then pitched a single to Hale that drove in the fifth run of the inning.

Then Hogsett took over and got the side out.

The Nats picked up a second run in the fifth after Myer and Rick Farrell had led off with singles and Johnny Stone cut the Indians' lead to 5-3 when he socked his homer in the eighth. But Averill's four-base clout in the same inning clinched the battle for Cleveland.

The story of the ball game is the story of the Nats' failure at bat. In the first inning Travis fanned for the third out with two on base and in the fifth Al Simmons grounded out meekly with a pair of colleagues on the sacks. In the seventh, with two on, Almada popped up and Lewis flied out and in the eighth, Pinch Hitter Goose Goslin flied out to leave two more stranded and the Nats a beaten ball club.

Reds Blank Giants, 4-0

By the Associated Press.

New York, May 20.—Sparked by Johnny Vander Meer's five-hit job of whitewash pitching and Ernie Lombardi's big bat, the Cincinnati Reds handed the Giants their second straight shutout today, winning by 4 to 0.

The setback shaved the Giants' National League lead to 3½ games over the Chicago Cubs, and stretched their losing streak to three in a row. It was the Reds' third win over the pennant holders in four meetings between the two clubs this year.

Showing the vast improvement he has derived from Wily Will McKechnie's teachings, Vander Meer pitched air-tight ball all the way. Only one Giant got as far as third base, and only five reached second, as the young southpaw fanned eight and chalked up his second win of the season.

Meantime, the Reds got to Hal Schumacher and Clyde Castleman for nine hits, one of them Lombardi's third homer of the year, which came with Ivan Goodman on base in the seventh inning. Lombardi also drove in another run, again scoring Goodman, with a single in the first, to set the pace in handing Schumacher his third defeat.

But Features of Both Look as Though Each Had Been in a Fight; Gevinson Wants Return Bout.

By Jack Munhall.

Away from the roar of the crowd and the glaring lights which beat down through ten, tense, bloody rounds a jubilant, gnarled old veteran and a sad, bitterly disappointed youngster told conflicting stories in their dressing rooms under the stands of Griffith Stadium last night.

Just a few hundred feet removed from the scene of their fight and in dressing rooms separated only by a thin partition, Petey Sarron, the 30-year-old former featherweight ruler, and 23-year-old Lou Gevinson, Washington's favorite lightweight, presented different pictures of their scrap which returned Sarron a majority decision victor.

Gevinson, his features distorted by the swinging right-handed shots thrown by the little, bowlegged Syrian, fought back welling tears as he accepted the nice little speeches made by his handlers and a few well-wishers. His right eye, sporting a "mouse" below and a nasty gash above, was almost closed and his nose was rapidly assuming swelling proportions, Gevinson steadfastly insisted that at no time had the threshmill attack of Sarron hurt him.

"I'd have had him in another round or two," said Lou, and continued as Manager Matt Twomey nodded confirmation. "I'd like to fight him again and at 15 rounds. Why in the ninth and tenth out there tonight

Dodgers Top Pirates, 7-5

Mungo Chased; Phelps' Home Run Helps.

By the Associated Press.

Brooklyn, May 20.—The Dodgers took a liking to some mediocre Pittsburgh pitching today and whipped the Pirates, 7 to 5 with a 12-hit attack.

Although Van Mungo was knocked out of the box during a three-run Pittsburgh rally in the sixth, he took credit for the victory, his second of the season. The defeat, charged to Red Lucas, was the Pirates' fourth straight.

Babe Phelps clouted a homer with a mate aboard to feature a three-run Brooklyn rally in the second, and Ernie Koy, who collected three hits, walloped a four-bagger in the fourth. Lee Handley hit for the circuit for the Bucs.

Lee Winner Over Krieger

5,463 Fans Witness Ring Upset.

By the Associated Press.

New York, May 20.—Glen Lee, the Nebraska clouter whose middleweight title aspirations were jolted in two recent New York engagements, brought them back to near-normal again tonight by upsetting the highly-rated Brooklyn belter, Solly Krieger, in 10 rounds at Madison Square Garden. Lee weighed 156½, and Krieger 160.

Beaten twice since the first of the year by Fred Apostoli, No. 1 contender for Freddie Steele's 160-pound crown, the free swinging Midwesterner came back after a layoff of some weeks and outpunched the Brooklyn kayo ace all the way, except for one round, to take the verdict.

A crowd of 5,463 paid $13,706.63 to see the Garden's finale to the indoor season, and was satisfied with the verdict in the bruising struggle.

Lee scored with a sweeping left hook from start to finish, and was in trouble only in the second, when Krieger jarred him with four right-hand smashes to the face and left him staggering at the bell.

New York, May 20 (U.P.).—Fritzi Zivic, 148, Pittsburgh, knocked out Petie Mack, 150, New York, in 2:40 of the first round of a scheduled 10-rounder tonight at the Fort Hamilton reservation. A sharp right to the jaw ended the fight.

By Lewis F. Atchison.

Adjusting himself to the big league atmosphere of Griffith Stadium with remarkable ease, Petey Sarron last night pitched himself to a ten-round victory over Lou Gevinson in the opening outdoor boxing show of the season.

It was not a unanimous decision, for Col. Joseph Fegan, a usually reliable umpire, cast his ballot for the loser. Referee Eddie LaFond and Judge O. U. Singer overruled him, however.

A paying audience of 4,500 fans that shoved $5,970 into the boxoffice saw the slick Syrian out-maneuver the green Washington youngster to win by a comfortable margin. On the Post scoresheet Sarron took six rounds, Gevinson two, and two were even. Low blows cost Sarron one round, when four points were deducted from his score for two consecutive drives into four territory.

Gevinson Is Cut.

Gevinson was bleeding from a gashed eye as he left the ring, the result of a collision with Sarron's thinning pate in the last round. He also carried an epee-like nick on the cheekbone suffered earlier in the scrap. Otherwise he was unmarked. An old training wound in Sarron's ear was opened during the melee, but he escaped unscathed with that one exception.

Pitching is the only word that adequately describes Sarron's amazingly bold attack. He actually stood just beyond reach of Gevinson's menacing gloves, wound up, and pegged punishing rights to the body. He made the District lad miss time and again by his weaving, whirligig defensive tactics, then wound up and pegged him with another right—or left—as he moved in.

On Verge of Kayo.

Gevinson was on the verge of being knocked out early in the first round when Sarron plugged him with two authoritative rights to the side of his head. Lou blinked in amazement, but gamely went after his opponent. Sarron made him miss with a right, then stood off in a clownish pose—arms and legs spread wide, a spider inviting the fly into his destructive web.

Gevinson carelessly walked into the trap, and Sarron almost floored him with a roundhouse left to the head. He followed with a hard right to the jaw that brought the Jewish lightweight up sharply, stunned and in a precarious state of mind, then clubbed him with two more hard rights to the head. Gevinson's knees buckled, and into his eyes stole a fearful look. He hadn't expected a murderous attack like this.

Condition Helps Low

Gevinson's excellent condition and his fighting heart carried him safely through the crisis, however, and he was trying to fight back at the bell. With that one brief flurry of fisticuffing went Sarron's hopes of scoring a knockout, quick or otherwise, and apparently realizing this he was content to box the remaining nine rounds while accumulating his winning margin.

There were no knockdowns, although Sarron was on the deck twice. He slipped the first time and tripped over his own foot the second. Each fall, however, evoked bursts of wild cheering from the dim recesses of the grandstand. Gevinson was in no immediate danger of a knockout after the initial round, although he absorbed considerable punishment.

Lou Grows Stronger.

Gevinson appeared to grow stronger with each successive round and reached his peak in the tenth, although Sarron won it. Both missed their opening shots and fell into a clinch, but Gevinson came out of it nicely and ripped two punitive lefts to Sarron's body that pulled him up short. Sarron maneuvered his person out of the danger zone and rammed two hard rights to the body, but Gevinson was back on top of him with both hands before being back into the ropes and butted.

As the claret gushed from the wound it clouded his vision, and Sarron, sensing this handicap, rushed in for the kill. He stormed all over the District lad, powdering him with rights to the head in a futile effort to find a vital spot. Gevinson fought back gamely, half-blinded by gore, himself trying desperately for a killing punch.

Pete Sarron Coasts.

Sarron coasted in the latter stages of the bout, confident of a comfortable lead, and, after the fourth or fifth round, relied but little on his left hand. His portside flipper is the one that has bothered him during the last two years, and he damaged it slightly early in the fight.

Gevinson tried all the way, and showed vast improvement over his last time out, but simply couldn't cope with the clownish and baffling tactics of his seasoned opponent. His lefts bounced harmlessly off Sarron's back, or swished futilely through the murky night air as Petey buried his head between his ankles. Sarron definitely proved that his 15 years in the ring have not been in vain, when it comes to green youngsters.

Mamakos Wins Fight.

Steve Mamakos, a living example of perpetual motion in action, blasted his way to a unanimous 8-round decision over "Battling" Burroughs in the semifinal. To the fans it was a stunning upset, for Gevinson's stablemate entered the ring on the long end of the odds.

Burroungs carried the reputation of a "tough distance" man into the arena with him, but the lad who helped get Sarron in condition found himself outmatched as early as the second round. He bled profusely from the nose from the fifth round on, and at no time seriously threatened the "Golden Greek."

Burroughs tried hard but found himself battering a veritable brick wall, for Mamakos not only refused to give ground, but stood right up with him and exchanged blow for blow. Buroughs tired perceptibly after the fourth round, while Mamakos appeared to gain strength with each succeeding blow.

Mamakos had things his own way from the third round on, and when Burroughs attempted a rally in the seventh, he found himself smothered by the Greek's counter-attack. Mamakos was simply too busy and too strong.

Scalzo Is Victor.

Petey Scalzo, considered a prospective opponent for Joey Archibald later in the season, floored Georgie Carlo, of Boston, twice in the first round and finally scored a technical knockout after 2:50 of the fifth round.

In between the start and finish Carlo, a game youngster, staged a beautiful comeback and had his highly touted opponent reeling in the second. He tried doggedly throughout the remainder of the fight, but was the victim of Scalzo's unerring jab. The blow that opened a cut under the right eye was a wicked left hook, and it was a bad gash. Both men weighed 126¾ pounds.

Pete Long Wins.

Sailor Pete Long, one of the Navy's lighter guns, amassed an early lead over Vic Finazzo, of Baltimore, to stave off a threatening last-round rally and win a unanimous decision. Sporting an 11-pound weight advantage, 166¼ to 155¼, Long was in distress in the final stanza, bleeding from the Duke Qualifies 18, Tarheels 15, Terps 9 in Track Events

By the Associated Press.

Durham, N. C., May 20.—Duke University pushed 18 qualifiers through to the finals in today's preliminaries of the sixteenth Southern Conference track and field championships to strengthen its position as defending champion.

A thunderstorm which broke just before the first event turned the track into a soggy, puddled strip and resulted in slowing down races so that no records were set. Coaches of the 14 participating teams, however, forecast several new marks tomorrow.

North Carolina and Maryland, rated as closest threats to Duke's supremacy, qualified 15 and nine men, respectively. Duke's men, however, scored nine first places while North Carolina's marked up only two and Maryland got but one.

Running in a heavy rain, Bill Corpening of North Carolina hopped the barriers in the 120-yard high hurdles in 15 seconds, only two-tenths behind the meet record.

Don Kinzle of Duke, who has done the high hurdles in 14.4 seconds this season, led his heat home in 15.4 seconds. Qualifying to oppose Corpening and Kinzle were Jim Rogers of Washington and Lee and Halbert Evans of Maryland, both of whom have also done the event in better than record time this season.

Charlie Fischer of Duke turned in the second best performance of the day when he heaved the shot 47 feet 8⅛ inches to lead by more than two inches Dick Strickler of V. M. I., who set the conference record here last year at 47 feet 9¾ inches.

Corpening, Kinzle and three Duke men, Hubert Reavis, George McAfee and Herb Hudgins, led in qualifying, each going to the finals in three events. Corpening and Kinzle will

Round-by-Round Details of Stadium Fight

ROUND ONE.

ROUND TWO.

Gevinson went after Sarron and missed with both hands as Petey put his chin right down on the canvas. Sarron stood just beyond range of Gevinson's guns and taunted him. Gevinson looked foolish trying to get to him. Gevinson tagged Sarron with a right, but Petey retaliated with two hard rights to the body and a roundhouse left that knocked his opponent off balance. Round even.

ROUND THREE.

Gevinson looped two rights to the body as Sarron danced away, but the Syrian bounced in with a long right to the body. Sarron backed Gevinson into the ropes, but Lou got off first with a hard left hook to the body. The crowd roared as Sarron slipped and fell to one knee trying to come back in. Gevinson swung a low left hook to Sarron's thigh, and drove him back with another to the pit of the stomach. He was low with another far under the belt. Fouls cost him the round.

ROUND FOUR.

Sarron met Gevinson at midring and drove a long right to the body. Gevinson was bleeding from a cut on the right cheekbone. Sarron dodged and weaved away from Gevinson before taking a light right to the head. He maneuvered Lou into a corner and stopped him in his tracks with a right to the face. Gevinson missed by a yard with his left, and missed again by the fraction of an inch over by the ropes. He caught Sarron on the ropes over the press box, but after catching both hands to the body Sarron weaved out of danger. Sarron's round.

ROUND FIVE.

ROUND SIX.

Gevinson came after Sarron before he was out of his corner, but missed with a right. Sarron kept back-pedaling, and finally stepped in with a right to the side of the head. Sarron fell to both knees trying to outmaneuver the District boy, but caught a punishing left to the ribs immediately after. Gevinson hurt Sarron with two more lefts to the body, but Sarron danced away and came back with more rights to the body. Gevinson's round.

ROUND SEVEN.

Gevinson looked strong coming out, but Sarron got off first with another right to the body. Sarron rocked him with a right to the body, another to the head, and two more to the body. Gevinson missed with a short right, and Sarron drove him around the ring, belting him with rights to the head. Gevinson stuck a long left to the head, but Sarron ripped another long right to the body. Sarron landed two low blows and the crowd booed. He stayed on top of Gevinson, and won the round despite the low blows.

ROUND EIGHT.

Sarron looked tired and was trying to conserve his strength, but still was too cagey for Lou. He planted a straight right on Gevinson's nose and followed with another looper to the stomach before missing with a right uppercut. Gevinson rammed two rights to the body, but was finding it increasingly difficult to locate the former champion. Sarron grinned as Gevinson missed with a left, and stepped in with two more long rights to the body. The crowd went wild as Sarron tripped over his own foot and went down. It was no knockdown. Sarron's round.

ROUND NINE.

They slugged furiously at midring after pausing to measure one another, and it was even. Two Gevinson lefts bounced off Sarron's back. Sarron stepped back, wound up, and stepped in with a right uppercut to the body. Gevinson drove Sarron along the ropes with both hands, but Sarron was in no immediate danger. Gevinson missed three consecutive blows before Sarron stepped in with a punishing right. Sarron landed another low blow and another. He was penalized 4 points on the official score sheet. Gevinson's round.

ROUND TEN.

They missed with their best shots and fell into a clinch. Gevinson staggered Sarron with two hard lefts to the head, but Sarron covered nicely and rammed home two good rights to the body. Sarron butted Gevinson up against the ropes, opening a gash in the corner of his right eye. It bled profusely. Sarron looked tired, but so did Gevinson a moment later when Petey stepped in with a furious two-fisted assault to the head. Gevinson was in retreat, trying desperately to land a nockout punch as he went at the bell. Sarron's round.

Miss Miley Beaten By Mrs. Chandler

By the Associated Press.

Memphis, Tenn., May 20.—Mrs. Dan Chandler, veteran from Dallas, Texas, scored a 3 and 2 upset victory today over Marion Miley, of Lexington, Ky., in the semifinals of the Memphis Country Club invitation golf tournament for the Marguerite Gaut trophy.

Miss Miley was the medalist and the defending champion and recently won the Southern championship but she was no match today for the sharpshooting Texan.

Betty Jameson, a former Southern champion from San Antonio, made tomorrow's 18-hole finals an all-Texas affair by eliminating Mrs. Charles Newbold, of Wichita, Kans., 5 and 3.

Carnegie Regatta To Be Run Today

Ithaca, N. Y., May 20 (U.P.).—Heavy winds and rough water tonight forced a postponement until tomorrow of the varsity race in the Carnegie Cup regatta on Lake Cayuga between Cornell, Yale and Princeton.

The freshmen and junior varsity events already had been run, however, with Yale winning both, Cornell second and Princeton third.

Navy Risks Eastern Sprint Title in Adams Cup Crew Races Today

By the Associated Press

Annapolis, Md., May 20.—Nine well-drilled crews dotted the Severn River today as the Navy, Harvard and Pennsylvania varsity, junior varsity and freshmen boats worked out for the Adams Cup race that will decide the Eastern sprint championship tomorrow.

President Roosevelt will break a week-end cruise on the yacht Potomac to see the regatta. Harvard alumnus, it will be his first visit to the Navy course since 1935 when he attended the Adams Cup races to see Franklin, jr., row in the Harvard Jayvee shell.

The tall Harvard oarsmen drew the attention of the other crews. Victor over Cornell, Columbia, Princeton and Syracuse, they are considered a threat to the Eastern championship held by Navy. Navy has defeated the same crews but Harvard beat Cornell more decisively than the midshipmen.

The Navy sweep-swingers took examinations in the morning and turned out with the other crews for the afternoon workout. Walsh had Tommy Walker shifted from bow early in the week to stroke to step up the beat.

Navy has the greatest stake in the race. The midshipmen in four years have defeated 59 crews and lost to four. They have won their varsity races since 1936, when they lost to Columbia. Besides the Eastern sprint championship, the Navy varsity will be fighting to be the East's hope against the challenge of Washington and California crews at Poughkeepsie this summer.

The Adams Cup race was instituted in 1933 in honor of Chars. Francis Adams, former Secretary of the Navy. The winning crew each year obtains temporary possession of the Adams Trophy.

Julian W. Curtaiss, veteran Poughkeepsie official, will send the freshmen boats away at 4 p. m. (E. S. T.), and the varsities at 4:30 and 5. A fleet af subchasers, patrol boats, motor launches and speed boats will line the course.

The boating of the varsity crews will be:

HARVARD — Bow, Clark; 2, Richardson; 3, Bates; 4, Kirwan; 5, Gardner; 6, Erickson; 7, Stevens; stroke, Chase; coxswain, White.

PENNSYLVANIA—Bow, Hornsleth; 2, Ballard; 3, Wheadon; 4, Wilcox; 5, Krumboldt; 6, Eddy; 7, Lee; stroke, Bosco; coxswain, Spencer.

NAVY—Bow, Peters; 2, Bullard; 3, Kittler; 4, Brown; 5, Yeates; 6, Whiteside; 7, Almgren; stroke, Walker; coxswain, Knapp.

mouth from a stinging right, and perceptibly tired, but finished willingly to remain in front.

Tony Pasiaro, 127 pounds, of New York, won a close verdict over Frankie De Angelo, 129½, of this city, in a six-rounder. The visitor's margin was closer than your next breath, but sufficient to gain the decision. He drew the claret in the fourth round with a straight right to the nose and landed infrequently with a roundhouse right, but took a couple of good ones in return.

De Angelo seemed a trifle dazed after the second round, but was in there winging 'em until the finish.

Helen Wills Moody Goes Into Finals

By the Associated Press

Surbiton, England, May 20.—Although she lost a set for the first time since she began her current British tennis invasion, Helen Wills Moody today moved into the final round of the Surrey championships by eliminating Peggy Scriven, of England, 6—2, 5—7, 6—3.

Her opponent in the finals tomorrow will be Margot Lumb, British squash racquets star. Miss Lumb eliminated Nancy Wynne, Australia's No. 1, 9—7, 7—5.

After losing the first set to Mrs. Moody and trailing a 4—5 in the second, Miss Scriven won three games in a row to square the match. Her determined retrieving seemed to worry Queen Helen in the second set.

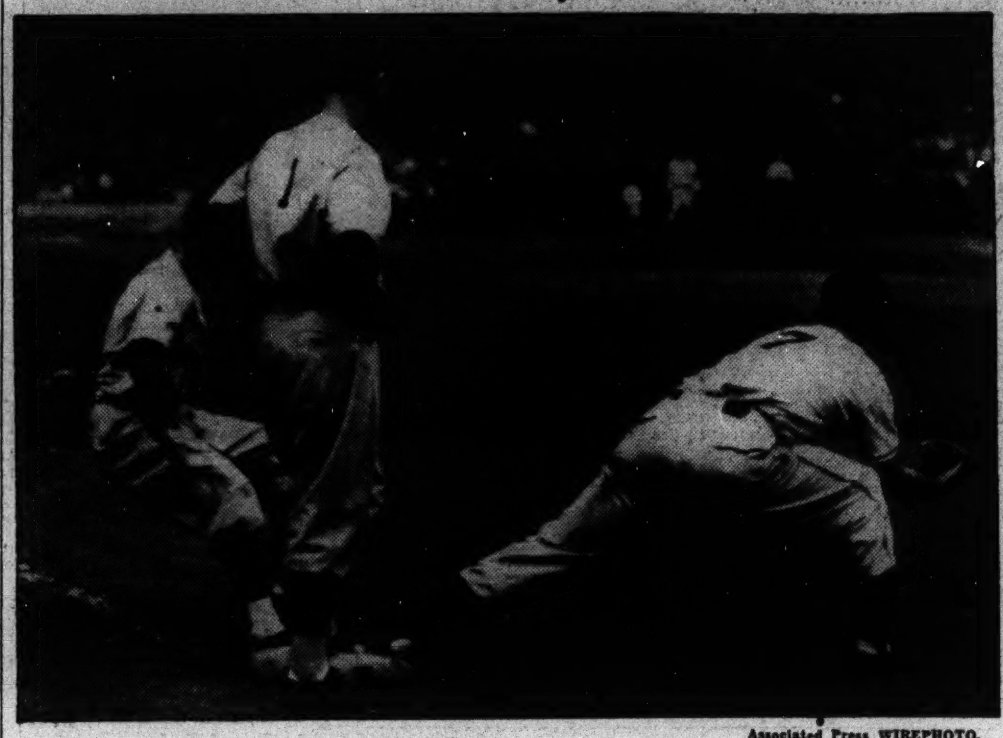

The English girl won the first game of the third set and led at 2—1, but Mrs. Moody's superb driving carried her to 5—2 and, after losing the eighth game, she won the ninth and the match with a perfect lob.

The surprise of the men's singles semifinals was the victory of E. J. Filby over Henry Wilfred (Bunny) Austin, 8—6, 6—4. In the final Filby will meet J. S. Oliff, who turned back Kho Sin Kie, of China, 3—6, 6—4, 6—3.

Wine's Pitching, Curtis' Hitting Help Tech Nine Defeat Anacostia

Four-Hit Performance by Hurler and Four Hits by Curtis Turn Back Invaders, 6-1.

The combined efforts of Leroy Curtis and Dick Wine proved enough to give Tech's baseball team a 6-1 victory over Anacostia yesterday at Eastern Stadium. It was Wine who turned in a four-hit performance in his debut as a pitcher in the inter-high series, while Curtis contributed four hits to Anacostia's downfall.

Wine, a converted third baseman, held the Indians in check throughout the contest, pitching excellent ball, while his mates pounded out 14 hits for their second inter-high victory. It was Anacostia's fourth loss in as many games. The Central-Eastern game, originally scheduled for yesterday, was postponed because of wet grounds, and will be played Monday.

Bill Clark, a product of Tennessee and recently declared ineligible by school authorities, started on the mound and turned in a commendable performance while his teammates gave him excellent support in the field. Tech opened the scoring in the fourth inning when Curtis singled to right, stole second, and, after Wiles struck out, scored on Jack Fields' single to center.

Tech continued its assault in the fifth inning when Newby singled, advanced to second on Art Faircloth's error, and scored a moment later on Mostow's single. Mostow scored on Charley Kendall's triple and Kendall scored on Curtis' third single of the afternoon.

Anacostia scored its lone marker in its half of the fifth when Scott led off with a double, stole third, and scored when the catcher's throw struck Third baseman Curtis' foot and bounced into the stands.

By virtue of their victory, the Techites moved into undisputed possession of fourth place while the defeat shoved Anacostia deeper into the cellar.

Eastern Defeats Episcopal, 8 to 0

Alexandria, Va., May 20.—Eastern High School's baseball team blanked Episcopal High, 8-0, here today in a game that was ruled a practice contest because of the 12-game limit affecting public high school nines in the District of Columbia. The contest was limited to seven innings by mutual agreement.

Wolverines Lead Trials

Titlists Place 13 Men for Conference Meet.

By the Associated Press.

Columbus, Ohio, May 20.—William Watson, University of Michigan's dusky, husky star from Saginaw, cracked one conference record and led the qualifiers in two other events today as the Wolverines dominated the trials for the thirty-eighth annual Western Conference track and field championships.

The defending titlists placed 13 men among the qualifiers in 10 events to take a stranglehold on the laurel wreaths to be passed out tomorrow.

Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa and Indiana placed eight each in the finals of the 10 events in which qualifiers were held. Ohio State qualified seven, Chicago and Purdue five each, Minnesota three and Northwestern one.

Watson tossed the shot 52 feeet 11½ inches to beat his own conference record of 50 feet 10¾ inches and then paced the discus throwers with a heave of 152 feet 4¾ inches, and outleaped the broad jumpers with 24 feet 11¾ inches.

Robert Lewis, Ohio State's junior dash star, won his heat in the 220-yard dash in 21.7, the same mark with which Fred Teufel, of Iowa, won the second heat.

Black Senators Play.

The New York Yankees will open a two-day stand here today against the fast-traveling Washington Black Senators at Griffith Stadium in the National Professional Colored Baseball League. Today's game will start at 3 o'clock.

O'Donnell's Play.

O'Donnell's Sea Grill baseballers, which have won nine consecutive victories, will attempt to make it 10 in a row as it engages the Lorton Blues' squad today on the latter's field.

Nat Notes

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Cleveland, May 20.—Pitcher Ray Phebus and the Washington club parted company today when it was announced that Chattanooga had bought the righthander for an unannounced sum.

The deal, which reduced the Nats' roster to 22 players, one under the limit, heightens the belief that the Washington club sold Phebus to make room for a new addition. The Nats are known to be negotiating for both a righthanded hitting outfielder and a pitcher.

Manager Bucky Harris today ridiculed reports that he had offered Johnny Stone to the Cleveland Indians in exchange for righthanded hitting Julius Solters.

"Why trade Stone?" he asked inquisitively.

In shipping Phebus to Chattanooga Harris hardly weakened his pitching staff. The stocky righthander had appeared only in widely spaced relief roles for the Nats this season and gave no indication that he was an asset to the team.

Phebus had been the property of the Nats for three years, coming to the club via Albany and Chattanooga.

The skidding Nats bow out of Cleveland tomorrow in the last of the three-game series.

Manager Bucky Harris tonight was debating the wisdom of starting young Ken Chase against the Cleveland club in the finale. Chase, knocked from the box by the Tigers three days ago when he suffered from wildness, scored one of his five triumphs of last year over the Indians.

Earl Whiethill, unbeaten thus far this season and with three victories to his credit, will take the mound for the Indians against his former colleagues.

Navy, Hoyas Clash Today

Baseball, 3 Other Sports on Day's Program.

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 20.—The Adams Cup race is taking the main place in the interest of Navy sport lovers here tomorrow, but the fact that each of the four teams that will meet the Army in another week will be in action, is not being overlooked.

The nine will meet an old and able antagonist in Georgetown, the track team, will be opposed by the University of Virginia, the lacrosse ten should not have much trouble with the University of Pennsylvania, and the University of West Virginia will be the Navy's rivals on the tennis courts.

The baseball series between the Navy and Georgetown is one of the oldest among the colleges, the latter having been sending its teams to Annapolis to meet the Middies for well over 50 years.

Golf with Washington and Lee and a lacrosse game between the Plebes and Severn School will complete the local sports card.

Contests are scheduled to start as follows:

1:15 p. m.—Lacrosse, plebes vs. Severn School.

1:45 p. m.—Baseball, varsity vs. Georgetown.

Track—Varsity vs. University of Virginia.

2 p. m.—Golf, varsity vs. Washington and Lee.

2:30 p. m.—Tennis, varsity vs. University of West Virginia.

3 p. m.—Lacrosse, varsity vs. University of Pennsylvania.

Baileys Are Busy.

Bailey's Cross Roads will play the Winchester Virginians tomorrow at 3 p. m. on the latter's diamond. Dick Laughlin, who has won three straight games, will pitch for the locals. The Maryland A. C. game, originally scheduled for tomorrow, has been postponed until a later date.

'He Didn't Hurt Me!' Says Lou; 'He Didn't Hurt Me!' Says Pete

Color

Petey was grabbing me all the time to hold himself up."

Twomey, apparently unworried by the failure of his fighter to capitalize on the biggest chance of his short career, accepted the defeat philosophically.

"Lou has nothing to be ashamed of," he praised, "the best of them have failed to solve Sarron's unorthodox style. Why he was running ahead of Armstrong until Henry tagged him for the count." Anyway, Sarron knew he'd been in a fight. Lou hurt him more times than Armstrong and I saw both fights."

But Sarron, talking glibly across the hall, was telling a vastly different story. Marked a little, the hairy veteran was saying it was one of the easiest fights he'd ever had.

"I was coasting from the seventh on when I knew I couldn't lose," said Petey, "and I was bothered by this old elbow again." With this, Sarron held up his left arm, on which a knotty lump was still rising. "It's bursitis, the same thing Dizzy Dean has," he explained. "It's caused by calcium deposits which form around the elbow joint and throw it out of joint."

Just then Manager Jimmy Erwin came up, wrapped a towel about his fighter and bundled him into a shower. Returning, Erwin said that Sarron would, on the advice of Dr. Custers Hall, undergo an operation at Johns Hopkins, probably early next month.

Asked when Sarron would fight again, Edwin shrugged and replied it depended on how the elbow responded to treatment, and on what offers were made him. He is considering a proposition from J. Thomas, the Richmond promoter, for a fight in Richmond late next month.

Around the ringside were Charles Ford, prominent local criminal lawer; Joe Judge, Georgetown baseball coach; Phil Lampkin, the orchestra leader, and several well-known doctors.

* * * *

Fightdom was well represented by Natie Brown, Phil Furr, Nick Camarata, Chris Dundee; J. Thomas, the Richmond promoter, and many lesser lights.

* * * *

A surprise visitor to the dressing room of Petey Sarron was Jimmy Brady, manager of Harry Adamick, the sensational heavyweight, who has scored 47 knockouts in less than two years.

* * * *

Both Sarron and his youthful main-event foe, Lou Gevinson, were calm and confident as the time approached for their crucial 10-rounder.

Awakened from a peaceful nap in his dressing room, Gevinson rubbed his eyes and reiterated his promise of a knockout.

* * * *

Surrounded only by his manager, Matt Twomey and Makos, Gevinson was strangely quiet just before the most important bout of his short career.

Sarron, too, was the same phlegmatic little Syrian who has been campaigning for over 13 years.

* * * *

Unlike Gevinson, Sarron was the center of a crowd of well-wishers and friends. Phil Furr and other fighters ribbed him, while Manager Jimmy Erwin rubbed him down and doctored old cuts.

* * * *

Alexandria was represented by a large contingent including Mr. and Mrs. Beverly May (he's Bob Tow's manager), Dr. S. B. Moore, Dr. Alex Schafer, Judge James R. Duncan, Judge William Wolls and Bob Armstrong.

* * * *

Man of the Month

(Each day, Arch McDonald distributes 10 points among the Nats whose play was most helpful to the Washington Club. At the end of each month The Washington Post will award to the leading player a gift in token of the honor of being The Post-Wheaties' "Man of the Month.")

By Arch McDonald.
(WJSV-Wheaties Baseball Commentator.)

Few were the Nats who distinguished themselves at Cleveland yesterday, but a striking exception was Elon Hogsett, who turned in a brilliant stretch of relief pitching in a lost cause.

To Hogsett, four points in the Man of the Month Club, because, after relieving Dutch Leonard in the second inning, he outpitched Johnny Allen and held the Indians to four hits and a lone run—Averill's homer.

To Mel Almada, two points, because his home run in the first inning put Washington in the lead, and because he attempted to start a rally in the third with a clean single through the box.

To Johnny Stone, two points, because he too made two of the Nats' ten hits and because his home run in the eighth inning was a brilliant if futile wallop.

To Buddy Myer, two points, because he had a perfect day at bat with two singles and two walks and because he played a spectacular game in the field.

400 Athletes Vie Today in Central Meet

30 Schools to Compete for C Club Track and Field Honors.

Upward of 400 athletes from 30 different schools of the Middle Atlantic States will invade Central stadium today at 1 p. m. in an effort to glorify themselves individually, and to aid their respective schools in capturing first place honors in the twentieth annual "C" club track meet, the largest interscholastic meet in the country to be sponsored by a letter club.

Unless all expert predictions fail, Episcopal High, of Alexandria, Va., which has won the championship for the last two years and at present holds the Virginia prep school title, will march to its third consecutive victory without much trouble. The Alexandrians have in Tom Todd, one of the classiest hurdlers ever seen in this section.

Todd, who is leading a contingent of 28 Episcopal trackmen into action today, seems certain to break the existing high and low hurdle records. In the Virginia prep school meet, he established a mark of 24.8 in the 220-yard low hurdles, and went on to hang up another record of 15.3 in the 120-yard high hurdles. This betters the mark of Bob Slye of Eastern in 1932 and Monroe Emmerich, of Tech, in 1935, which were 15.6 and 25.4 respectively.

Eight local schools will be competing, including Central, Roosevelt, Eastern, Tech, Western, Gonzaga, Woodrow Wilson and Anacostia. Maryland will be represented by Bethesda-Chevy Chase, Tome, Hyattsville, Mount St. Josephs, Baltimore Poly, Bullis, Forrest Park, Sparrows Point, Bel Air, Frederick, Baltimore City, Kenwood and Gilman of Baltimore.

From Virginia comes Washington-Lee High, Maury High, Fork Union, Virginia Episcopal, Massanutten, Augusta, Staunton, Woodberry Forest, George Washington, Stuyvesant, Fredericksburg, Newport News and John Marshall. The lone entrant from West Virginia will be Greenbrier Military Academy.

Galan Is Hurt In Phillies Game

Philadelphia, May 20 (AP).—Augie Galan, Chicago Cubs' outfielder, injured his ankle in the fifth inning of today's game with the Phillies and had to retire from the contest.

He suffered the injury in running out his single and pulled up at first base limping. Time was called as he hobbled to the clubhouse. The ankle appeared to be sprained.

McFarland Is Host To Nine Track Teams

Macfarland Junior High, which has won the annual Junior High track meet for the last seven years, will play host tomorrow to the other nine Washington junior high schools when activities get underway at 9 a. m. at Roosevelwt stadium.

With several hundred participants entered in an attempt to stop the winning streak of the Macfarland lads, this year's meet, according to officials, will be the biggest event of its kind ever held in Washington.

7-Up Team Will Play Celtics in Alexandria

The 7-Up Athletic Club will cross bats with the Alexandria St. Mary's Celtics, at the new stadium, tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock. Manager Beach will use his old time pitcher, Schrivner, with Russ Kidwell catching, while Manager Connie Wyche will use either Frank Baroni or Frank DiNeena, with Johnnie Sullivan catching.

Seven Up has a strengthened team with the addition of Burton Webb, Granthan, Sullivan and the Adair brothers, both pitchers.

This will be a game for the fans as neither team has any love for the other on the ball field and both teams will be trying their best to win.

Olympic Plans Start.

New York, May 20 (AP).—American preparations for the 1940 Olympic games at Tokyo will get under way tomorrow when games committees for 13 sports will map out preliminary plans in meetings at the New York Athletic Club.

Palumbo Gives Miss Epe Masterful Ride to Take Buchannon Purse

Filly Wins Feature at $4.40 Mutuel

Runs the 7 Furlongs in 1:29 3-5; Daily Double Pays $136.80.

By Walter Haight.

A Staff Correspondent.

Charles Town, W. Va., May 20.—Sammy Palumbo, a jockey champion of Charles Town and half mile tracks, showed a return to his old form today when he rode a masterful race to win the Buchannon Purse with Mrs. G. Hutchins' Miss Epe. The daughter of Sea Rock lasted to win by a head from Spotless, with Trostar third, 12 lengths behind the thrilling stretch battle.

Miss Epe, a $4.40 favorite, set the early pace, drawing out to a four-length lead at one stage. However, entering the stretch she began to show signs of quitting as Apprentice Hacker came along with Spotless. Palumbo had some ideas of his own regarding the finish and started swinging his whip on her. Miss Epe then caught the spirit of the thing and answered each of his lashes with some additional speed. Hacker drove Spotless along but he could not match the brilliant riding of Palumbo.

The race was run over a heavy, holding track. However, excellent weather prevailed overhead and the Blue Ridge Mountains stood out in bold relief on the backstretch for the first time in three days. Miss Epe was clocked for the 7 furlongs in 1:29 3-5.

The daily double brought a nice return of $136.80 to the chosen few who teamed Highdear with Red Nose.

Grumpy came up as a "good thing" in the first race and made good with a bang. The Westwick gelding, backed down to a $5.20 mutuel, led virtually throughout the six and a half furlongs, much to the delight of the favorite players. Perfect Host and Meridian Time followed him to the wire. Bobby Root rode the winner.

Jockey W. Snyder piloted his first winner of the day aboard Highdear, a $33 shot. He brought the Aucilla filly around the leaders and kept her in front despite a threatening drive of Mr. Melvin. Needmore, the favorite, was a disappointing third.

Red Nose, in the colors of Mrs. Claude Feltner and trained by her husband, took the third race under the guidance of Apprentice Douglas West. Take Off was second and Barney Allis third in the field of eight. West did a good job and plied a wicked whip in the important closing sixteenth. Red Nose paid $7.60.

Walter Haight's Charts of Racing at Charles Town

At Charles Town, W. Va.

FRIDAY, MAY 20, 1938.

(Compiled by Walter Haight.)

WEATHER, CLEAR. TRACK, HEAVY.

FIRST RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse, $400; claiming. For maiden 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place same. Went to post 2:37. Off 2:40½. Winner, E. Johnston's b. g. (3), by Westwick—Golden Maid. Trained by O. F. Kent. Value to winner, $300; second, $60; third, $30; fourth, $10. Time, 1:26 1-5.

Horses	Jockeys	Wgt.	Post	St.	¼	½	Str.	Fin.	Straight
GRUMPY	(Root)	•115	8	5	1½	$1^{1½}$	$1^{1½}$	1^2	$1.60
PERFECT HOST	(Terhune)	•117	5	8	6^2	$5^{1½}$	5^2	$2^{1½}$	21.30
MERIDIAN TIME	(Garrett)	•110	2	1	3^4	3^2	3½	3^1	16.20
HUSTLE HOME	(Pikor)	•115	7	4	4^2	4^4	4^1	4^{ns}	12.30

ANYWOMAN	(Machado)	•107	1	2	$2^{1½}$	2^1	$2^{1½}$	6^6	2.20
SEA BOY	(Gaither)	•113	3	6	7^{nk}	8	7^4	7^4	5.00
GERTRUDE BROWN	(Jones)	112	4	3	5^1	7^h	8	8	26.40

Two-dollar mutuels paid—GRUMPY, $5.20, $3.20, $2.80; PERFECT HOST, $12.80, $10.20; MERIDIAN TIME, $6.60.

GRUMPY had speed to get to front going to first turn, saved ground thereafter and was kept to drive to end. PERFECT HOST, away slowly, improved position steadily and closed with good energy. MERIDIAN TIME went forwardly and evenly throughout. HUSTLE HOME could not better position at any stage. ANYWOMAN quit from hustling tactics while pressing pace.

SECOND RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse, $400; claiming. For maiden 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place same. Went to post 3:10. Off 3:13½. Winner, A. H. Waters' b. f. (4), by Aucilla—High and Dry. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $300; second, $60; third, $30; fourth, $10. Time, 1:26 2-5.

BREAD CRUMB	(Howell)	•112	7	7	7	7	7	7	47.90

Two-dollar mutuels paid—HIGHDEAR, $33.00, $10.60, $3.40; MR. MELVIN, $4.60, $3.00; NEEDMORE, $2.60.

HIGHDEAR, closest to pace of NEEDMORE, responded to drive to dispose of latter and held on gamely at end. MR. MELVIN, shuffled back going to first turn, improved position on outside to stretch, came to inside in final drive and was wearing down winner. NEEDMORE had to be hustled to take command at first turn, set a good pace, but tired suddenly. WALMISS went evenly. LEAD PLEASE had early speed.

THIRD RACE—About 4½ furlongs. Purse, $400; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place same. Went to post 3:37½. Off 3:39½. Winner, Mrs. Claude Feltner's ch. g. (4), by Bud Lerner—Indian Queen. Trained by C. Feltner. Value to winner, $300; second, $60; third, $30; fourth, $10. Time, 0:52 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—RED NOSE, $7.60, $4.40, $3.40; TAKE OFF, $4.00, $3.80; BARNEY ALLIS, $7.00.

RED NOSE, rated close to pace, came to outside in stretch and, under punishment, was up in concluding strides. TAKE OFF went to front at once, shook off STAND BY and weakened in final sixteenth. BARNEY ALLIS came around horses to better position and closed with rush. STAND BY was hustled throughout and weakened. The others could not reach contention.

Daily Double, Highdear and Red Nose, Paid $136.80.

FOURTH RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $400; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Star good from stalls. Won driving; place same. Went to post 4:06½. Off 4:08½. Winner, Mrs. C. H. Fitzgerald's b. f. (3), by High Cloud—Ada Martin. Trained by C. H. Fitzgerald. Value to winner, $300; second, $60; third, $30; fourth, $10. Time, 1:04 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—HI-ADA, $7.80, $4.60, $3.40; SQUABBLE, $8.60, $5.40; LADY B., $6.00.

HI-ADA, saving ground when outrun in early stages, came through on inside to take command and under strong handling held SQUABBLE safe. The latter raced wide throughout and closed gamely. LADY B. went to front at once, shook off LITTLE MISTRESS, but weakened. LULA KHAYYAM lacked speed throughout.

FIFTH RACE—About 7 furlongs. Purse, $500; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place same. Went to post 4:33. Off 4:35. Winner, Mrs. G. Hutchins' ch. f. (4), by Sea Rock—London Charm. Trained by E. Brining. Value to winner, $350; second, $75; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 1:29 3-5.

Horses	Jockeys	Wgt.	Post	St.	¼	½	Str.	Fin.	Straight
MISS EPE	(Palumbo)	•108	1	2	$1^{1½}$	1^4	1^2	1^h	$1.20

PASSIVE	(Garrett)	•113	5	5	7	7	Pulled up		17.10

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MISS EPE, $4.40, $3.20, $2.40; SPOTLESS, $3.60, $2.40; TROSTAR, $2.60.

MISS EPE had speed to go to front at once, saved ground and, under excellent handling, lasted to stave off SPOTLESS. The latter improved position steadily, but hung in final drive. TROSTAR weakened badly, but was best of the others. MONOLOGUE had early speed and stopped. PASSIVE was pulled up when in distress.

SIXTH RACE—About 7 furlongs. Purse, $400; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place same. Went to post 5:01½. Off 5:05. Winner, C. N. Gordon's b. g. (6), by Ariel—Lakahmi. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $300; second, $60; third, $30; fourth, $10. Time, 1:33.

Horses	Jockeys	Wgt.	Post	St.	¼	½	Str.	Fin.	Straight
LAKAR	(Shanks)	•113	1	4	$2^{1½}$	2^1	$1^{1½}$	1^2	$27.10

TIANA	(Hacker)	•105	4	6	7½	Pulled up			5.40

Two-dollar mutuels paid—LAKAR, $56.20, $29.40, $14.60; MANTADOS, $4.80, $3.60; GAYLESS, $3.80.

LAKAR raced ROYAL FOLLY into defeat to get to front, saved ground and, under driving tactics, held sway to end. MANTADOS worked his way to leaders and closed full of run. GAYLESS went evenly. HIGH EXPLOSION was away poorly and closed some ground. PRECIOUS KING failed to show speed at any stage to run disgracefully.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $400; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won handily; place driving. Went to post 5:53. Off 5:54½. Winner, M. B. Goss' ch. g. (7), by Chatterton—Troutwick. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $300; second, $60; third, $30; fourth, $10. Time, 1:52 3-5.

At The Post....

Dear Al, Selections at Charles Town.

Jockey Lou Pikor came back from the first race today, so splattered by mud that he had to be led to the jockeys' room by his valet. There are more than 50 juveniles on the grounds. The steward on the dining car is Brother Bavis ("B" like in butter) and not Davis. There is a fence war being waged along the railroad track here. Jockey A. Coredo, 20-year-old Puerto Rican boy, has the first name of "Angel" Hogarty, at 13, is the oldest horse on the grounds. Stand By is a mere youth of 12. Extra tickets were sold on the favorite daily double today. It was numbers "6 and 3," but "2 and 8" was the winner. Apprentice Jockey Douglas West has won two races this year. He scored with Idyllic at Pimlico and brought Red Nose home in front today. Jimmy Feltner, who used to ride here and who now weighs 140 pounds, has West's book. Pork Chops is putting out a blanket tip for the remainder of the meeting, "I likes all No. 1 hosses." The height of something or another is an "also eligible" horse in a substitute race. The ice cream boy gave the raspberry to the coffee stand today when the weather turned warm. Allen Clark, who conducts a big horse farm at Clarksville, Md., was a visitor here today and renewed his many acquaintances. Louie Ghilardi says he isn't picking horses for anybody. BILL.

First race—Dornoch has some class and appears well placed in the day's opener. Needs only to flash a bit of his old time form to beat these. Freds Warning should like the off track and is dangerous. Poll Parrot would be a factor if taken off the also eligible list.

Second race—Mad Dash might be the right one in this rather open race. Has worked well. Lady Buck and Golden Duchess to take care of the others. Wise Revue would be close if in action, but is far down the list.

Third race—Disown, second on the reserve list, seems headed for a set of brackets in this field. Hard Chase turned in a good effort the other day and is due consideration. Brooke Herod is an outsider with a chance to upset the apple cart. Windsor's Hope, a doubtful starter, should be a factor if in action.

Fourth race—Sun Belle and Gee Sharp should battle it out for the chief award in this field and I prefer them in the order named. Lady Cirek had little chance in that last and may come back with a smart effort.

Fifth race—Shaggy Ann, a bullet away from the barrier, turned in a nice winning effort here the other day. She runs for Jockey Garrett and I expect the combination to make it two in a row. Madame Walter gets in with feather weight and should be close. Lady Favor won at a longer route.

Sixth race—James A. has too many speed guns for this gang, I do believe. The Gilpin entry of Teddy's Star, Tedmelia and Buck Langhorne should account for the place. Wise Sister may show.

Seventh race—Sweepemup may take the lead here and never be headed. I'm going to string along. Passing Sun and Counter Pass to take care of the others.

Eighth race—Plight, providing he still has four legs, should account for this purse. Luke Connell and Huppy for the other money places. Queen Elizabeth too disgracefully last out to be a factor.

Best bet—James A.

Favor Menow In Withers

$19,000 First Prize Goes to Victor.

By the Associated Press.

New York, May 20.—Headed by Hal Price Headley's Menow, early pace setter in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, nine 3-year-olds which possess more speed than stamina will run tomorrow in the sixty-third Withers Mile at Belmont Park.

Although listed only as a $5,000 added event, the speed test will gross close to $19,000 and tops a national program that also includes the $10,000 Puritan Handicap at Suffolk Downs and the $5,000 Kentucky Handicap at Churchill Downs.

The mile is made to order for Menow, and with Dah He as a running mate, he figures to go postward at odds of 3 to 5 or shorter. The son of Pharamond was out in front for a mile in both the Derby and Preakness. He weakened in the final drive, however, finishing fourth in the Derby and third in the Preakness.

It was at Belmont Park last year that the big Headley colt set a world record of 1:15 1-5 for 6½ furlongs in the Futurity and clinched the 2-year-old championship. He has failed to show distance-running ability this year, but has retained all of his speed.

Belmont Park, N. Y., May 20 (AP).—Following is the line-up for tomorrow's $5,000 added Withers Stakes, for 3-year-olds at 1 mile:

Horse	Jockey	Wt.	Odds
Magic Hour	(Stout)	118	15-1
Red Pepper	(Workman)	118	20-1
Cattistock	(No boy)	118	10-1
*Dah He	(Haas)	118	3-5
*Menow	(Kurtsinger)	118	3-5
Battle Jack	(Richards)	118	10-1
Sun Alexandria	(Wright)	118	25-1
Redbreast	(Arcaro)	118	15-1
Thanksgiving	(Westrope)	118	6-1

*H. P. Headley entry.
Horses listed according to post positions.

Whitehead Injured, Headed for Hospital

Chicago, May 20 (AP).—The Chicago White Sox, who have been plagued with one injury after another this season, had another player headed for the hospital today.

Johnny Whitehead, who pitched the Sox to a shutout win yesterday over Boston, was scheduled to have X-ray pictures taken of his knee. Whitehead twisted the knee while pitching in practice three weeks ago and reports it still is sore.

fight it out against each other in both hurdle contests and the broad jump.

Take Things Easy.

Hudgins qualified in both hurdles and the 100-yard dash. McAfee went to the finals in the 100 and 200-yard dashes and the broad jump and Reavis won his way in the 100, 220 and low hurdles.

In the most of the running events the leaders took things easy unless closely pressed, due to the heavy track. Frank Cronin of Maryland, favored to set a new 440-yard record tomorrow, did the distance in 51.9 seconds.

Maryland's showing led many observers to give the Old Liners a good chance to nose into second place if Duke wins.

Durham, N. C., May 20 (AP).—Summaries of preliminaries and trials of the sixteenth Southern Conference track and field games, run in rain this afternoon, follow:

120-YARD HIGH HURDLES (three in each heat to qualify)—First heat won by Kinzie (Duke); second, Gram (North Carolina); third, Evans (Maryland). Time, 15.4 seconds. Second heat won by Corpening (North Carolina); second, Rogers (Washington and Lee); third, Hudgins (Duke). Time, 15 seconds.

100-YARD DASH (three in each qualified)—First heat won by McAfee (Duke); second, Curl (Washington and Lee); third, Hudgins (Duke). Time, 10.3 seconds. Second heat won by Herring (V. M. I.); second, Reavis (Duke); third, Rodgers (North Carolina). Time, 10.2 seconds.

440-YARD SPRINT (first four qualified)—First heat won by Cronin (Maryland); second, Theis (Maryland); third, Ritter (Duke); fourth, Jennings (North Carolina). Time, 51.9 seconds. Second heat won by Naudain (Duke); second, Mast (V. P. I.); third, Miller (Maryland); fourth, Rason (Washington and Lee). Time, 50.8 seconds.

SHOT PUT (Six men qualified)—Won by Fischer, of Duke, 47 feet, 8½ inches; second, Strickler, of V. M. I., 47 feet, 5½ inches; third, Craig, of South Carolina, 45 feet, 6½ inches; fourth, Julber, of North Carolina, 42 feet, 4½ inches; fifth, Pate, of Wake Forest, 42 feet; sixth, Morrison, of Richmond, 40 feet, 11 inches.

220-YARD LOW HURDLES (Three qualified in each heat—First heat: Won by Reavis, of Duke; second, Evans, of Maryland; third, March, of North Carolina. Time 23.9 seconds. Second heat: Won by Kinzie, of Duke; second, Corpening, of North Carolina; third, Hudgins, of Duke. Time 24.9 seconds.

JAVELIN (Six qualified)—Won by Sullivan, of Duke, 184, feet, 9½ inches; second, Sinar, of Richmond, 170 feet, 3 inches; third, Clark, of Duke, 165 feet, 2 inches; fourth, Johnson, of Davidson, 163 feet, 6 inches; fifth, Welch of Duke, 162 feet, 7 inches; sixth, Hilton, of North Carolina, 161 feet, 11½ inches.

220-YARD DASH (Two qualified in each heat)—First heat: Won by Herring, of V. M. I.; second, Deaton, of North Carolina. Time 22 seconds. Second heat: Won by Reavis, of Duke; second, Cronin, of Maryland. Time 22.2 seconds. Third heat: Won by McAfee, of Duke; second, Curl, of Washington and Lee. Time 22.3 seconds.

880-YARD RUN (Four qualified in each heat)—First heat: Won by Hillier, of Washington and Lee; second, Davis, of North Carolina; third, Headley, of Maryland; fourth, Johnson, of Duke. Time 2:03.2. Second heat: Won by Davis, of North Carolina State; second, Harvey, of Washington and Lee; third, Hendrix, of North Carolina; fourth, Wakely, of North Carolina. Time 2:02.3.

DISCUS THROW (six qualified)—Won by Williams (Davidson), 139 ft. 9½ in.; second, Shockey (V. P. I.), 138 ft. 1¾ in.; third, Craig (South Carolina), 136 ft. 5 in.; fourth, Fielder (V. M. I.), 132 ft. 3½ in.; fifth, Morrison (Richmond), 127 ft.; sixth, Frazer (North Carolina), 126 ft. 10½ in.

BROAD JUMP (six qualified)—Won by Corpening (North Carolina), 22 ft. 10⅝ in.; second, Keeney (Maryland), 21 ft. 9 in.; third, March (North Carolina), 21 ft. 7⅜ in.; fourth, Kinzie (Duke), 21 ft. 7¼ in.; fifth, Morris (Maryland), 21 ft. 7 in.; sixth, McAfee (Duke), 21 ft. 6⅜ in.

Life Insurance Sales 2 Billion For 4 Months

Current Business Runs 21 Per Cent Under Last Year.

Hartford, Conn., May 20.—Although current sales are 21 per cent behind those of last year, the public has purchased more than $2,000,000,000 of new ordinary life insurance coverage during the first four months of this year, according to figures released today by the Life Insurance Sales Research Bureau. These data are based on the experience of 54 reporting companies representing total sales of ordinary insurance (exclusive of group) of all companies operating in the United States.

Sales of approximately $500,000,000 for the month of April represent a 27 per cent decrease over last year. A comparison of April sales with those of a year ago by sections indicates a more even geographical distribution of the decrease than has prevailed previously this year. The best experience was in the West South Central section, where a decrease of 16 per cent was indicated. The West North Central section ranked second with a decline of 19 per cent. In the other sections the loss was over 20 per cent.

Northwestern Gains in D. C.

Minneapolis, May 20.—New life insurance sold by the Washington, D. C., agency of Northwestern National Life Insurance Co. in the first four months of 1938 was 74 per cent greater than the volume for the correspoding period of 1937, R. M. Plake, general agent, reported at a home office conference of the company's general agent and managers from all over the country which closed here today.

597th Dividend.

Boston, May 20.—A dividend of 20 per cent, payable on all policies expiring during the period July 1 to July 31, 1938, has been declared by the American Mutual Liability Insurance Co. This is American Mutual's 597th consecutive dividend of 20 per cent or more.

Wheat Drops AsHugeKansas Crop Looms

North American Exports Are Restricted to Small Lots.

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, May 20.—Jolted by expected huge production in Kansas, Chicago wheat values fell a cent a bushel today, almost eclipsing again the market's four-year low record.

The Robinson Elevator Co., a recognized trade authority, issued a forecast that Kansas would harvest 207,508,000 bushels this season, as against the latest official estimate of 193,000,000 bushels. The Robinson forecast assumed normal weather would prevail and that black rust developments would not be of a serious nature.

Tending further to pull prices down was the fact that North American export business amounted to only scattered parcels and that cables were received telling of rains in Australian dry districts and of prospective large seeding of wheat in Argentina.

Partly accounting for the action of May wheat here in closing at prices virtually unchanged from yesterday's finish, 74¼@74⅜ cents, was notice that a couple of loads of red winter grades were sold out of Chicago today for export.

Total round-lot volume on the exchange for that period was 4,694,570 shares, or 8.5 per cent larger than volume reported on the ticker.

The Market

By Carlton A. Shiveiy, A Special Correspondent.

Stocks Close With Steady Tone After Irregular Session; U. S. Bonds Continue Rise.

New York, May 20.—Financial markets ended with a steady tone after five hours of vacillation. Stocks began with large fractional losses on rather large offerings and spent the remainder of the trading in trying to recover. The effort was partially successful. Closing prices were irregularly lower. United States Government bonds advanced. July wheat dropped half a cent to 75⅝ cents a bushel.

Metal shares were under pressure from the start. The cut of a cent a pound in copper, announced late yesterday afternoon had a depressing effect, especially since talk was heard of a further reduction. Oil shares were heavy along with the coppers, because the oil industry also has a surplus production and sniping around the edges suggests difficulty in maintaining the midcontinent crude oil price structure.

New Low Prices.

New low prices for this movement were set by Anaconda and some others, but Kennecott held firm. Oil stocks were able to make a stand after their early weakness. Airplane issues were the only strong group. Douglas rose more than a point. Glenn Martin was a good performer. Chemicals had a firm tone and so did most of the steels, after early declines had ended. Motors backed and filled and farm implements were mixed. Some of the rubbers softened. A stir was made by American Sumatra, which rose more than 2 points to a new high price on an extra dividend.

When prices were at their worst in the first few minutes of trading, the stock average stood at the lowest level in exactly two weeks. Sales during the first hour were the largest in a week. From 1 to 2 o'clock only 30,000 shares changed hands, the smallest number for an hourly period reported in a good many years. For the full session the turnover was approximately half a million shares.

Full day trading came to a close on a bearish note. The week was marked principally by numerous reductions and omissions of dividends, and of growing signs of weakness in the commodity price structure, which brought to the fore the question of wage cuts and consequently further industrial unrest as manifested in strikes that surely would follow.

Holding On.

There are two ways of looking at the fall in commodity prices, particularly in the prices for raw materials. One is that the present price cuts mean that the whole structure is giving way and that the price level is threatening to sink considerably lower. The other point of view is that prices for many raw materials have been maintained too long at levels which prevented buying, because prospective consumers have been waiting for the breaks to come.

Price Test Coming.

In the steel trade the view seems to be that lower prices would not create buying. If a pick-up in business comes this autumn, that policy will prove to have been justified; if not, the steel price structure may be expected to crack also. At what level copper will prove to be attractive is difficult to say. The price was cut a cent a pound yesterday to 9 cents, and many in the trade think it will go to 8 cents this summer. Production has been outrunning consumption and when stocks accumulate for a while sellers are certain to appear ready to take lower prices in order to move the goods.

Falling commodity prices at this stage may indeed mark the end of the recession in business, if they pave the way for resumption of buying, but they suggest also some downward adjustment of wages. Weakening prices are painfully apparent in farm products. How far that will go depends largely on how much money the Government is prepared to shrow away in maintaining a false position.

Business Loans Drop.

The banking position at the week end looks much the same. Commercial loans went down further this week among the New York banks and brokerage loans also declined. Demand deposits increased, with gold imports and Government financing, but that means little, in spite of the efforts the administration is making to promote inflation, for the velocity of turnover of bank deposits continues to fall.

The Federal Reserve Board reports an addition of $12,000,000 in gold to the monetary stock, which should allay for the moment the fears that our desterilization policy and the stabilization of the franc are going to mean the loss of much gold and contraction in credit. Most of the incoming gold was sent by Japan, which is finding it necessary to use up more and more of the modest supply of the metal held over there to support the invasion of China and to prepare for future coflicts with other nations.

Dividends.

Poor as they have been the profits of many corporations for last year and in the first quarter of this year have been sufficient to sustain the recent dividend rates. Reductions and omissions nevertheless have been made. The most striking case was that of Standard Oil, which reduced its usual extra payment, although last year's profits were the highest in the history of the company. It is true that the company is planning on a greatly increased expansion program, for which it will need a good deal of cash, but that probably is not the sole reason. Cash was depleted during the last two years by the undistributed profits penalty tax. On top of that the prospect that the President will sign the new tax bill, which eliminates most of the penalty tax, makes it desirable to go more slowly with dividends than would be the case if directors felt the money would have to be paid out anyhow, or a heavy tax met. Dividends for many companies this year are going to be shot by both barrels; depleted cash from the old penalty tax and relief over removal of most of the tax from now on.

Caustic Comment.

President Roosevelt, with his flair for keeping the country guessing, said he would not comment upon the sale of the Tennessee Public Service properties to the city of Knoxville, because the only comment he could make would be "caustic." It doesn't require the services of a very good guesser to uncover what the President's comment would be. He has made it often enough, so it is said, in private, and his whole public utility policy suggests it. No doubt the President wanted to say that the City of Knoxville was merely throwing away money (and that must be a terrible blow to any New Dealer) in paying anything at all for the properties. The city already had begun negotiations to build its own electric system, which would have amounted to ruin for the Tennessee company. The Administration's policy still is "definitely" one of lending and making outright gifts of money to municipalities for the purpose of freezing out privately owned utility companies. The Pennsylvania elections haven't changed that.

Big Gold Shipments To Canada a Mystery

Ottawa, Ont., May 20 (Canadian Press).—Gold coin and bullion is reported flowing into Ottawa from abroad to be stored in the vaults of the Bank of Canada. It is said more than $100,000,000 worth has been stored during the past few months. Bank officials will not comment on any aspect of the operations, which are carried out with utmost secrecy, with police guards and armored cars meeting trains that bring the shipments. One explanation is that the gold is being sent to Canada to be readily available for purchase of munitions in the United States should Britain be involved in war. The gold is not owned by the Bank of Canada and does not appear on the weekly bank statement.

Atlantic Rfg. to Spend $28,000,000 in Year

Philadelphia, May 20.—An expansion and development program requiring capital expenditures of $28,000,000, to be undertaken by the Atlantic Refining Co. during 1938, is announced by J. W. Van Dyke, chairman of the board.

The program will cover acquirement of additional properties in oil-producing areas to increase the company's production of crude oil, marketing activities, improvement of operations at the company's large refineries at Philadelphia and Atreco, Tex., and additions to the tanker fleet.

Williamson Heads Railroad Presidents

New York, May 20.—Frederick E. Williamson, president of the New York Central Railroad, today was elected chairman of the Eastern Presidents Conference, an organization composed of top executives of Eastern carriers. He succeeds Leonor F. Loree, recently resigned president of the Delaware & Hudson.

Loree was one of the prime movers in the organization of the conference 20 years ago, and had been its chairman from the start. Members constitute a policy-making body with particular reference to problems affecting roads in the Eastern terriory.

Douglas Urges NewDepository For Securities

Proposes Handling and Safeguarding by Central Institution.

By the Associated Press.

New York, May 20.—William O. Douglas, chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, launched tonight a program of "joint action" with the reorganized New York Stock Exchange by proposing the formation of a new Wall Street institution to centralize the handling and safe-keeping of securities for brokers and their customers.

His suggestions for a "united front on current problems" between Washington and Wall Street were outlined in an address at a dinner of the Association of Stock Exchange Firms, bringing together SEC members and the brokerage community in a "harmony" gathering at the outset of the new liberalized administrative regime at the exchange.

Asks Co-operation.

Making co-operative action between business and government his keynote, the youthful former Yale professor broached the idea of the novel trust institution as part of a program which was expected to get early attention from the new exchange leadership, headed by 31-year-old William McChesney Martin, Yale graduate and member of a St. Louis brokerage firm.

A central depository for clearing and handling securities, eliminating a great deal of inter-office transfers of securities and effecting substantial economies, has been under discussion in exchange circles for some years, Douglas pointed out. His suggestion, however, was considered by exchange authorities a broadening of the idea, calling for a trust agency to handle "banking, clearing of securities and the custodial duties of all members of the exchange.

Whitney Echo.

The Stock Exchange some years ago acquired a site in the financial district for possible use in the establishment of a central depository. A hint that revelations in the affairs of Richard Whitney, five-time president of the exchange, now in Sing Sing Prison serving a sentence for misuse of funds, hastened the proposal was seen in the SEC chairman's reference to "shades of a recent example" of disregard of customers' property haunting the financial world.

"This was originally suggested by some of you as an economy measure," Douglas continued. "Changing events indicate that today it has acquired additional merit by reason of the real assurance and protection it would appear to afford customers."

Presided over by E. A. Pierce, president of the Association of Stock Exchange Firms and a leader in the movement for administrative reform, the dinner brought together one of the largest representative financial gatherings in recent Wall Street history and was widely hailed in brokerage quarters as marking the start of a new era for the "Big Board," now one of the world's great security markets.

Failure Announced On Coffee Exchange

New York, May 20 (AP).—Members of the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange were notified today that J. H. Walter Lemkau, independent sugar broker, was unable to meet his mercantile obligations. He had no outside speculative or trade accounts, it was said.

Lemkau, 62 years old, who lives at Montclair, N. J., and has a Wall Street office, has been a member of the coffee and sugar exchange for over 23 years, joining it but a few months after trading started in 1914. Financial manuals list him as president and director of the Invert Sugar Co.

Cotton Spinning.

The Census Bureau reported yesterday that the cotton spinning industry operated during April at 85.7 per cent of capacity, on a single shift basis, compared with 10.1 per cent during March this year, and 146.7 per cent during April last year.

Mining Stocks Lower on Curb

New York, May 20 (AP).—The curb market was thrown off balance today by moderate selling. Most leaders finished around bottom with losses running from fractions to 2 points. Copper shares lost ground on the cut in the metal price from 10 cents to 9 cents a pound late Thursday. Newmont closed 2 points lower at 54.

American Gas & Electric up ½ at 27½ and Electric Bond & Share at 7⅞, up ⅛, did better than most other utilities. Niagara Hudson Power and Cities Service were lower.

Sherwin Williams closed at 85½, off 1; Northwest Engineering 11¼, off 1; Royal Typewriter 39¼, off 1¾; United Shoe Machinery 69¾, off 1⅝; International Petroleum 26⅛, off ⅝; Gulf Oil 35, off ¾; American Cyanamid "B" 17⅝, off ⅛.

McWilliams Dredging, Pittsburgh Plate Glass and Montgomery Ward "A" moved against the trend for gains ranging from fractions to 1½ points.

Idleness Hits Peak in March

New York, May 20.—Although the number of persons unemployed in the United States rose in March, for the sixth consecutive month, to a new peak for the current business recession, the increase was at a slower rate than in previous months, according to the Alexander Hamilton Institute.

There were 13,327,000 persons unemployed in March as compared with 13,222,000 in February and with 8,891,000 last September when the low prior to the current business recession was reached. There were 3,734,000 more persons unemployed in March than in the same month last year when the unemployment figure was 9,593,000.

Lumber Consumption 24% Under Last Year

The Department of Commerce has received a report from the lumber survey committee on consumption, stocks, and anticipated consumption of lumber during the second quarter of 1938. This is the twenty-eighth quarterly report of the committee.

The committee reports national lumber stocks at the mills on April 1, 1938, of approximately 8.6 billion feet or 4 per cent less than on January 1, 1938 and 21 per cent heavier than a year ago. National lumber consumption in the first half of 1938 is estimated at 9.8 billion feet, or nearly 24 per cent less than in the first six months of 1937 and 12 per cent below similar period of 1936.

April Life Insurance 26% Under Year Ago

New York, May 20 (AP).—New life insurance issued in April by 40 companies having 82 per cent of total life insurance outstanding in all United States legal reserve companies totaled $617,475,000, a drop of 26 per cent from $834,366,000 in April last year, the Association of Life Insurance Presidents reported today.

New business in the first four months of the year amounted to $2,468,189,000, or 21.2 per cent under the comparable 1937 figure.

Illinois Central Elects Seven New Directors

Westerners Replace New Yorkers Retiring From the Board.

Chicago, May 20.—Changes on the Illinois Central board of directors to permit of holding board meetings in Chicago instead of New York were made today at the annual meeting of stockholders of the Illinois Central Railroad Co. The stockholders voted to increase the board to 15 members and elected seven new directors, all residents of cities on the Illinois Central System. Two of the new directors are additional members of the board, and five succeed New Yorkers who retired in order to give the board a majority of directors from along the lines of the Illinois Central System.

The plan to move the Illinois Central board headquarters from New York to Chicago was announced February 28 by L. A. Downs, president of the Illinois Central System. The first board meeting to be held in Chicago was convened today following the annual meeting of stockholders.

Foreign Markets.

By the Associated Press.

London, May 20.—The stock market sold off in the late dealings with a sharp decline in copper securities attributed to the cut in the American domestic price for that metal. Mining shares continued active but lost some of their early advances. Transatlantic issues were heavy and registered losses of 1 to 4 points. Gilt-edged funds, domestic rails and foreign bonds remained steady while French favorites eased on selling from Paris.

Paris—Price movements were mixed in the bourse and trading was small. Royal Dutch moved up more than 100 francs and Bank of France was slightly higher. Rentes were given, closing 10 centimes down to 60 higher and industrial moved irregularly.

Liverpool—Wheat futures after opening higher on a better milling demand, reacted on reports of further rains in north Texas and was down ⅛d to ¼d net at the finish. Cotton futures lost 3 to 5 points, declining in sympathy with lower overseas markets and foreign hedge selling. There was some trade and professional buying on the decline.

U. S. Treasury Receipts.

Gunton-Temple Represents Union of 2 Historic Churches

Gunton Temple Presbyterian Church.

Merger in 1920 Joined Gurley Memorial, Founded in 1889, and Congregation Which Retained Its Name, Organized in 1882.

Gunton-Temple Memorial Presbyterian Church, Sixteenth and Newton streets northwest, represents a union of two of Washington's historic Presbyterian churches. The merger, effected in 1920, united Gunton-Temple Memorial, at Fourteenth and R streets, and Gurley Memorial, Fourteenth and Meridian streets northwest, under the name of the former.

The original Gunton-Temple Church was organized in 1882 as Unity Church. The name was changed 11 years later, when the building at Fourteenth and R streets was presented by Mrs. Mary Gunton Temple as a memorial to her father, Dr. William Gunton, and her husband, Edward Temple.

Ministers of the church until the year of the union were the Rev. George Bela Patch (1882-1896), the Rev Asa Severance Fiske (1897-1904), the Rev. John Lee Allison (1905-1910), the Rev. Charles Everest Granger (1910-1917) and the Rev. Douglas Putnam Birnie (1917-1920).

Gurley Church, organized in 1889, was named for the Rev. Dr. Phineas D. Gurley, pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church when Abraham Lincoln worshiped there as President. Ministers of the church were the Rev. William Sydney Miller (1889-1893), the Rev. John Russell Verbrycke (1894-1912) and the Rev. Bernard Braskamp (1913-1920).

During Dr. Braskamp's pastorate the church moved from the original site at Seventh street and Florida avenue northeast to a new building at Fourteenth and Meridian streets northwest.

Dr. Braskamp, who formerly served as assistant pastor of the Church of the Covenant here, was called as pastor of the united congregations during the meeting at which the merger was effected. His leadership and the co-operation of the more than 1,000 members of the new group brought about a successful merger and the erection of the present $200,000 building.

At 8 p. m. a portrait of John Wesley will be presented to the church and the Holy Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered.

Pan-Protestant Service Is Set Here Tuesday

D. C. Evangelical Churches to Unite in Program at Calvary Baptist.

On Tuesday night at 8 o'clock the evangelical churches of Washington will unite in a Pan-Protestant program, in commemoration of the 200th anniversary of the heart-warming of John Wesley in Calvary Baptist Church.

The service will be marked by singing of the hymns of the Wesleys, led by the Rev. A. P. Wilson, pastor of Columbia Heights Christian Church. Special music will be rendered by the choir of Francis Asbury M. E. Church. The scripture lesson, which will be read by Dr. J. H. Straughn, will be the scripture read in the hearing of Wesley when he felt his heart strangely warmed.

Dr. Horace E. Cromer, president of the Washington Federation of Churches, will preside, and Dr. William S. Abernethy, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, will pronounce the invocation. Dr. W. L. Darby, executive secretary of the Washington Federation of Churches, will speak briefly.

Principal speaker will be Dr. Christopher Jeffaries McCombe, now pastor of St. Paul's and St. Andrew's Methodist Episcopal Church, New York City, formerly pastor of the Church of Our Saviour in Cleveland.

Dr. James T. Straughn, president of the general conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, will also give a 10-minute address on the Aldersgate experience of Wesley.

This Pan-Protestant program is being sponsored by the Washington Federation of Churches, of which Dr. Horace E. Cromer is president, the Ministerial Union of Washington and vicinity, of which Dr. John W. Rustin is president, and the United Preachers' Meeting of which the Rev. Albert P. Shirkey is president.

'Soul and Body' Christian Science Topic Tomorrow

"Soul and Body" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist tomorrow. The golden text is from Psalms 42:11: "Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquieted within me? hope thou in God: for I shall yet praise him, who is the health of my countenance, and my God."

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness: I shall be satisfied, when I awake, with thy likeness." Psalms 17:15.

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Soul, or spirit, is God, unchangeable and eternal; any man coexists with and reflects soul, God, for man is God's image." (page 120).

'Scorner Who Sits' Universalist Topic

"The Scroner Who Sits" will be the subject of Dr. Frederic W. Perkins' sermon at the service in the Universalist National Memorial Church tomorrow at 11 o'clock. The Sunday Evening Fellowship will meet for supper at 6 p. m. The theme will be "When Vacation Beckons," discussed by Peaslee DuMont and Frances Duff.

"The Situation in Spain and Its Relation to World Peace" will be discussed by Harry C. Lamberton at the adult class in current problems meeting in connection with All Souls' Church School (Unitarian) tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. At the same hour, Miss Genevieve Marsh will speak before the Comparative Religion Class on "The New Hymnal for Liberal Churches." The minister, the Rev. Ulysses G. B. Pierce, D. D., will preach at the eleven o'clock service on "Safeguarding the Heart."

On Fire for God To Be Topic at Francis Asbury

Church School to Present 'The Warm Heart' at 8 P. M. Service.

The Rev. Albert P. Shirkey, at Francis Asbury M. E. Church South, will preach at the 11 o'clock service tomorrow on the subject, "On Fire for God"—a sermon in keeping with the 200th anniversary of the heart warming experience of John Wesley.

At 8 p. m. the church school will celebrate Wesley's conversion with a pageant, "The Warm Heart." This will take the place of the evening service.

Mount Vernon Place. Dr. John W. Rustin, minister, will preach at the 11 o'clock service on "Man's Emergency—God's Opportunity." A candle-light communion service will be held at 8 o'clock. "The Twenty-third Psalm," composed by Deane Shure, director of music, will be sung as a morning anthem. Church school will be held at 9:30. Mrs. Paige E. Gollihar will address the adult division on "The Church and the Home in Christian Education"; Mrs. Roberta Sweeney will play a 'cello solo.

Emory. The Rev. Horace E. Cromer will preach at the morning hour on "Heart Warming Experience"; at the evening hour on "The United Methodists."

Calvary. The Rev. W. D. Keene will talk at the 11 o'clock service on "Saved from the Law of Sin and Death—John Wesley's Experience." At 8 o'clock the theme will be "The Wesleyan Doctrine of Divine Love."

Bob Burns Says—

Ambition sure does feed on strange things. I know at least three big men in this country who went out into the world and made a success just simply because the people in their home town thought they would never amount to anything.

I know one woman out here who has spent her entire married life pushing her husband forward and encouraging him to do big things. When I asked her why she made so many personal sacrifices in her husband's behalf, she said, "I want to make my husband famous so I can go back to my home town and snub Mrs. Van Hoois—I hate that woman."

Harold Lawrie Dies; Authority On Gold, Silver

Geologist and Economist Author of Numerous Articles on Subject.

Harold Newbold Lawrie, 55, geologist and economist, died yesterday at the Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, where he had been a patient for several weeks. Funeral services will be conducted today at 3 p. m. at the home, 3102 Thirty-third place northwest, by the Rev. H. H. D. Sterrett, rector of All Souls' Memorial Episcopal Church. Burial will be at Cornwall, N. Y.

Mr. Lawrie was born in New York City, the son of the late George Francis Lawrie and Mrs. Annie Gertrude Baker Lawrie. He received his early education at the Montclair (N. J.) Military Academy. He also attended the School of Mines at Columbia University, where he received a degree in mining engineering in 1905. He was given a master of arts degree in public service by the University of Oregon in 1905.

An Authority on Gold.

Mr. Lawrie, who was an authority on gold and silver, had written numerous articles on phases of economy pertaining to those metals. Among his many writings were "Foreign Exchange Quotations and Curves," and "Gold and Silver Statistics," compiled for the use of the United States Senate Commission of Gold and Silver Inquiry, on which he served as economist.

Others of his articles appeared in the Engineering and Mining Journal and The Mineral Industry, and since 1928 he had contributed annual reviews on gold and sliver for the Mining Journal of London.

Mr. Lawrie was a member of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, the National Association for Constitutional Government, the Academy of Political Science, the American Economic Society, the American Academy of Political and Social Science, the Alumni Association of Schools of Mines, Engineering and Chemistry of Columbia University and the National Geographic Society. He also belonged to the Theta Chi fraternity and was an honorary member of the Phi Gamma Mu fraternity.

Produced War Essentials.

He was chairman of the Bureau of Mines and Geology of Oregon, which bureau he helped create. During the World War he devoted his time to the production of war essentials. He served from 1919 to 1921 as economist of the American Mining Congress, and in 1921-22 was managing director of the American Gold and Silver Institute, with headquarters in Washington. At one time he was secretary to former Senator Tasker L. Oddie, of Nevada.

In August, 1908, Mr. Lawrie was married to Cora Columbia Cameron in White Salmon, Wash. He is survived by his widow and a daughter, Miss Clementena Lawrie.

Scientists Enlist Insect Blue Bloods In War on Syphilis

Memphis, Tenn., May 20 (AP).—Pedigreed strains of mosquitoes, thoroughbreds of a once deadly family of insects, will be sent into battle against syphilis by University of Tennessee medical school officials.

Dr. Frank L. Roberts, head of the department of preventive medicine, said that "there are about 300 persons at Bolivar State Hospital suffering from paresis (softening of the brain), the result of syphilis.

"We plan to bring 14 of the Bolivar inmates to Shelby County Hospital for treatment every three months," he said. "We will permit them to be infected with malaria by being bitten by our mosquitoes. Upon their recovery from the fever they will be returned to the State institution for observation and study."

Bishop Hughes Speaks at Festival

Agnosticism couldn't write a hymn because it lacks the material, which must be heaven-inspired, said Bishop Edwin H. Hughes last night at Calvary M. E. Church, where the annual spring festival for the benefit of the Swartzell Methodist Home for Children was held.

A group of children from the Home presented a choral program under the direction of Miss Elisabeth Gray and Louis A. Potter. Other music was contributed by Mrs. Ruth Potter, Mrs. Ruth Logan and Miss Sally West. Mrs. B. T. Hynson, president of the board of managers of the Home, presided.

Convicted of Murder.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 20 (AP).—A Federal Court jury tonight convicted George W. Tatum, 31-year-old mountaineer, of second degree murder in the death March 18 of William Berry, Federal alcohol tax unit investigator. District Judge George C. Taylor said he would not pass sentence pending hearing of a motion for a new trial.

Rites for Mrs. Capron Will Be Held Today

Funeral services for Mrs. Agnes K. Capron, widow of Capt. Allyn Capron, U. S. Army, who died Saturday in New London, Conn., will be held at 9:30 a. m. today in Fort Myer Chapel, with Chaplain Ora J. Cohee officiating. Burial will be in Arlington Cemetery.

Honorary pallbearers will be Brig. Gen. Edward M. Shinkle, Col. Jonathan M. Wainwright, Col. Alexander C. Gillespie, Col. R. E. DeR. Hoyle, Lieut. Col. Thomas J. Christian, Maj. Scott B. Ritchie and Maj. Clyde H. Morgan.

Rites for Mrs. Merriam.

Funeral services for Mrs. Catherine McPherson Merriam, widow of Brig. Gen. Henry Clay Merriam, United States Army, who died Monday in New York City, will be held at 12:30 p. m. today in Arlington Cemetery, with the Rev. Dr. Stewart P. Keeling, of St. Margaret's Episcopal Church, officiating.

LISTEN SON

"YOU'RE old enough to make your own decisions now, son . . . you're a man. But let's talk a little matter over together. Summer's coming on and you know, as well as I, how hot it gets in Washington. I don't see much sense in your having to suffer through the coming warmer months. And, just like other men, you will want to appear neat and well dressed all the time.

"Here's my suggestion . . . A PALM BEACH SUIT. I get several for myself every year just around this time. How about taking your Mother by the arm and have her help you select one or two of them? Sizes 33 to 38. The Varsity Shop of The Hecht Co. is the place to go for . . .
